The New-York Times.

VOL. XII—NO. 3526. NEW-YORK, MONDAY, JANUARY 12, 1863. PRICE THREE CENTS.

IMPORTANT FROM NEW-ORLEANS.

ARRIVAL OF THE STEAMSHIP CREOLE.

Galveston Recaptured by the Rebels under Magruder.

The Attack Made by Land and Water.

The Harriet Lane Carried by Boarding.

Nearly All Her Officers and Men Killed.

THE FLAG-SHIP WESTFIELD BLOWN UP.

DEATH OF COMMODORE RENSHAW.

Admiral Farragut Preparing to Attack Port Hudson.

The United States mail steamship Creole, Capt. Cross, Commander, from New-Orleans Jan. 3, at 4:30 P. M., Southwest Pass, Jan. 4, at 7:00 A. M., with mails, merchandise and passengers, consigned to LEHMAN, HAMMERS & Co., arrived here last evening.

She brings the important intelligence of the recapture of Galveston by the rebels. The particulars of the affair are given in the following statement by the Purser of the Creole:

NEW-YORK, Sunday, Jan. 11.

To the Agent of the Associated Press:

By the arrival of the United States gunboat Clifton at Southwest Pass, on the evening of Jan. 2, I learn that early on the morning of Jan 1, the rebels made an attack on the Federal forces at Galveston.

Our gunboats were attacked by five rebel steamers, protected by double rows of bales of cotton, and loaded with troops armed with rifles, muskets, shot-guns, etc.

The Harriet Lane was captured by boarding after about all her officers, including Capt. WAINWRIGHT and Lieut. LEE, and a crew of 130, all told, had been killed by musketry from the rebel steamer. My informant states that but one or two of the officers, and few crew or officers of the crew escaped death. The gunboats Clifton and Owasco were disarmed and escaped; the former being on shore, and but two wounded. Two barges loaded with coal fell into the hands of the enemy.

The Westfield (flag-ship) Commodore RENSHAW, was not engaged, being where in another channel. Her crew were transferred to transports, and Commodore RENSHAW, seeing she would fall into the hands of the rebels, blew her up. By some misunderstanding or accident, the explosion took place before a boat containing Commodore RENSHAW, First Lieut. TALBOTMAN and the boat's crew got away, and they were consequently blown up with the ship.

The crew of the Westfield arrived at New-Orleans in steamers, and the remaining crews are on their way back. They did not arrive till the place had been evacuated. All the fleet are on their way to New-Orleans.

The rebel force was estimated at 5,000 under the command of Gen. MAGRUDER. Our land force, under the command of Col. BURNS, of Massachusetts, probably did not exceed 800, the regiment not having arrived or not having disembarked at the time of the fight.

Our loss was estimated at from 150 to 160 killed and 200 taken prisoners. The navy suffered the most. It is thought the rebel loss must have been much more, as our guns were firing grape and canister continually in their ranks.

The rebels had several reinforcements.

The Federal troops were on one of the long wharves, and it is said they repulsed two charges of the rebels before they surrendered.

These particulars were told me at Southwest Pass on the morning of the 4th by Executive Officer SYMINGTON, of the U. S. ship Pampero, and are therefore in the main correct. S. D. COOK, Jr.,

Purser of the U. S. M. steamship Creole, No. 115 Broadway.

The Creole was detained at New-Orleans, by order of Gen. BANKS, to bring important dispatches to Gen. HALLECK.

During the night of the 3d, the Creole passed several gunboats in the river, bound up. On the morning of the 4th, at Southwest Pass, passed United States transport Kennebec, with troops, and United States gunboat Kensington, bound in. At 1 o'clock P. M., passed the ship Ticonderoga, of New-York, bearing southeast.

The Creole experienced strong head winds most of the passage.

Died on the passage, MALCOLM C. KIMBAL, of West Rochester, Vt., a private in the Second Vermont Battery.

On the morning of the 11th, off Alexandria, signaled the steamship Rapidan. Signal not answered.

On the afternoon of the 3d Jan. Banks published an extra of his paper, containing reports from rebel papers of rebel victories at Memphis and Vicksburgh, and also the address delivered on the 1st inst. by Jefferson Davis to the Mississippi Legislature. All this sensation matter created a ferment, and the rebels, who crowded Royal and Camp streets all day and evening, were bitterness and money. On the morning of the 3d Gen. BANKS sent a company of guard to BANNER's office, and the Advocate was for the third time suspended. This step gives great satisfaction to the Union men.

Capt. CRAIG, Post-Commissary, had tendered his resignation, and would probably go North in the course of a week.

The three negro regiments (Native Guards) were to be put in Forts Jackson, St. Philip, Pike and other forts in the Department of the Gulf, to do garrison duty; and the white troops are to be put into the field.

FARRAGUT was about to attack Port Hudson. He was probably waiting for Gen. BANKS to make a land attack, in connection with him.

One of the stories current in New-Orleans was to the effect that Jeff. DAVIS was preparing an expedition to retake the Crescent City.

ORDER RELATING TO PASSES.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE GULF, NEW-ORLEANS, Jan. 1, 1863.

GENERAL ORDERS NO. 1.—In obedience to instructions from the Government of the United States the Commanding General gives notice that, from and after this date, no person, not in the civil, military or naval service of a foreign Government, will be permitted to depart from the City of New-Orleans on board of any foreign ship of war, without the written permission of the commander of the military forces in New-Orleans; and that no foreign vessel of war will receive on board or carry from this city any such person, who shall not have received written permission to depart on board of such vessel from the commander of the military forces in this city.

By command of Maj.-Gen. BANKS.

RICHARD B. IRWIN, Lieutenant-Colonel, Assistant Adj't.-Gen.

THE GALVESTON NEWS CONFIRMED.

News from Rebel Sources.

FORTRESS MONROE, Sunday, Jan. 11.

Richmond papers of the 10th inst., contain a telegram from Gen. MAGRUDER, stating that the Rebel gunboats had captured the United States Steamer Harriet Lane off Galveston.

HEADQUARTERS, ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, Sunday, Jan. 11.

The Richmond Enquirer of the 10th has the following:

RICHMOND, Thursday, Jan. 8.

A special dispatch from Jackson to-day says the New-Orleans Bee of the 6th, received at Panchatoula, contains the following:

About 3 o'clock on New-Year's morning four rebel gunboats came down Buffalo Bayou into Galveston Bay, and ran alongside the Harriet Lane, one on each side. The Texan sharpshooters then commenced an assault on her, and soon succeeded in killing all the gunners and Capt. WAINWRIGHT, her commander. The assailants then boarded her, and after a desperate struggle captured the vessel. The rebel gunboats were lined and fortified with cotton bales, after the manner of the bales in New-Orleans, known as the Montgomery fleet.

The Westfield, under Commodore RENSHAW, determined not to be taken, and after a consultation by the officers and crew, in which they all signed, they blew her up, with all on board, including her commander. Only eight escaped.

The balance of the Blockade fleet and one transport escaped. Two canal-boats at the wharf, with two companies of the Forty-second Massachusetts Volunteers were also captured. A National vessel was placed to reconnoitre the harbor, to watch the Harriet Lane and prevent the Confederates from sending her to sea.

The Richmond Enquirer says:

"Gen. MAGRUDER, in his official dispatch concerning the capture of the Harriet Lane, says: 'I have taken one prisoner, and a large quantity of valuable stores, arms, &c. The Harriet Lane is but little injured.'"

LETTER FROM GALVESTON.

GALVESTON, Wednesday, Dec. 7—9 P. M.

The gunboat Clifton has gone to Sabine Pass to assist a vessel aground there.

Commodore RENSHAW has been put under arrest by the Secretary of War for allowing Col. COBB and his troops to escape from Galveston, and not preventing the citizens from leaving the town after its capture. The steamer Harriet Lane is now the flagship. All the Wharf rats who have taken the oath of allegiance are ordered to Pelican Spit. A large bark came from the West on Friday afternoon, and sailed next morning for New-Orleans. The large steamer RADE Helios brought the small one two months' supply of provisions, also some artillery for Pelican Spit. The commander of the fleet has ordered under arrest the officer by whose orders the city was fired upon on the 24 inst. The Federals tell the wharf rats that eight steamers and a number of transports are expected daily with troops, and that they will clean out the State of rebellion.

A flag of truce, borne by Maj. WARREN, of MAGRUDER's Staff, Yet HAMMS and EXPOSITION, had communication with the fleet to-day at 9 o'clock.

The Harriet Lane retained a large Union flag on her ensign-staff. Our officers proceeded to the central wharf, and waved and planted their flag on the wharf. A boat then put out from the Harriet Lane with a flag of truce flying from her bow, and proceeded to the wharf. Our Major assisted the Federal officers upon the wharf.

Capt. HAMMS TOLD that ——, of the Federal ship, were the officers representing the United States. When they had all got out of the boats, they shook hands heartily, and three cheers were given. The officers proceed to see the wounded of the fleet, and they received into the launch and pulled for the flagship. As they passed the steamer Owasco, the officers on deck saluted them.

I feel proud to notice the gallant bearing of our officers and crews, who were well represented by these gallant men.

No danger need be apprehended of a battle for a number of days. The Federals fear the Texans, and I have not seen one of them on shore for three weeks.

AFFAIRS BEFORE WASHINGTON.

Recent of Pickets—Fredericksburg—Another Picket Captured—Stuart's Late Raid.

From Our Own Correspondent.

CHARLESTON, Friday, Jan. 8, 1863.

Thirteen men of Gen. WYNKOOP's Cavalry, who were captured by WERT's guerillas, on Monday night last, while on picket duty, returned to their camp to-day, having been paroled at Middleburgh. Six of these men were taken at Cub Run, and seven at Frying Pan. The latter party when attacked by a superior force, took refuge in an unoccupied house, where they kept their assailants at bay for some twenty minutes, and only surrendered when the rebels set the house on fire, Indian fashion, by setting fire to a wagon load of straw and sacking it up against the building. The prisoners were taken to Aldie and Middleburgh, where they were paroled. They express entire satisfaction at their treatment, having received extraordinary possible attention, and were even permitted to bring back all their clothing, their captors alleging that all they wanted was horses.

From the inhabitants, these paroled prisoners learned that when SUTLER, after his late raid upon Dranesville and Fairfax, arrived at Aldie, his men and horses were completely exhausted, neither having had any little to eat for four days. A portion of the command halted there, and the balance proceeded to Middleburgh. In both places the inhabitants turned out en masse and contributed all in their power to the relief of the half-famished horses and men. Had the cavalry force been within the fortifications about Washington, where they are of no earthly use whatever, even to the great SUTLER's whole command would have been captured. Gen. WYNKOOP pursued SUTLER with all his available force, and came close upon him on one occasion. But his men and animals were so jaded that he could not obtain a tenable advantage so as to attack a superior force, and he was forced to the humiliating spectacle of seeing the enemy slip from his grasp, without any fault of his own. Gen. WYNKOOP is one of the most efficient, as he is one of the most experienced, cavalry officers in the service, and were it proper to state at this time the number of cavalry placed at his disposal to protect the fords and guard the approaches for 15 or 20 miles, the surprise would be that he has been able to discharge the duty imposed upon him so efficiently, and not that he did not cut off SUTLER. It is sufficient to say, and it is not improper to say, that the line he has to guard is so extended that one-half of his whole command is on duty all the time. And this state of affairs is permitted when there are thousands of unemployed cavalry in the vicinity of Washington—a number sufficient, in point of fact, if placed under Gen. WYNKOOP, to enable him to capture all rebel forces that may attempt to enter his lines.

A picket of six men, from the First Vermont Cavalry, was captured a few nights ago at Herndon's Station, on the London Railroad. This would never have occurred but for the fact that the men at the front are so constantly on duty that they cannot obtain sufficient sleep.

NEWS FROM KEY WEST.

Arrival of the Curlew and the Atlantic.

MOVEMENTS OF THE BANKS TRANSPORTS.

MORE PRIZES CAPTURED.

The Admiralty Court Again in Session.

The U. S. steam transport Curlew, R. N. PARSONS, master, from New-Orleans 27th December, entered yesterday morning—having touched at Key West on the way, and sailed thence on the 24 inst.

The steamship North Star, LE FAVRE, was in New-Orleans—supposed Quarantine, Ship Island. When coming down the Mississippi, was in company with steam transport Prometheus, outward bound, with troops on board.

Passed at anchor, off Pass à l'Outre bar, U. S. transport Connecticut bound in.

In Key West the 2d inst., the U. S. steam transports George Cook, Mont and James M. Green, MASSON, were coaling for New-York.

The United States steam transport Richmond arrived in Key West night of 24 inst., outward bound.

The barkentine Andrew Masterson, of Philadelphia, and brig New Era, of Providence, were in port.

The United States sloop-of-war Iale Rigale St. Lawrence, steam gunboats Pocahontas and Hastings of Cuba, were there sent.

The steam gunboat Seminole arrived yesterday from Key West harbor, on the 24 inst., on a cruise.

Jan. 5, in lat. 28° 20', lon. 86° 20', the Curlew experienced strong gales from southwest to northwest for twenty-four hours, accompanied with very heavy sea.

The transport Atlantic, Capt. JOHN HUNTING, arrived yesterday morning from Key West, bringing dates to the 6th inst.

The steam-transport Thos was to leave for New-York on the 6th inst.

The Atlantic brings as passengers Capt. C. M. SAWYER and officers of the steam-transport N. Seaforth, recently lost on Florida Keys.

OUR KEY WEST CORRESPONDENCE.

KEY WEST, Fla., Tuesday, Jan. 6, 1863.

The movements of the fleet of vessels transporting or cooperating with the Banks Expedition, have been the subject of main interest with us for the last two weeks. In common with the whole country, we have been led to expect important results to follow so great an outlay of money and material as has been invested on this expedition, and we await eagerly further developments.

A report reached here on the third, by the steamer Salvor, that the entire Cabinet of President Lincoln had resigned, and that the immediate cause has some connection with this expedition. Without any assertion concerning the truth of this report, we have noticed its effect upon the minds of different individuals, as representing the different sentiments that now agitate the country. Secessionists are hopeful and elate, for in the probable supposition that the loyal States are so divided that the further prosecution of the war will cease. Loyal men, who observed the commotion Saturday and Week in New-York, are confident in the belief that the President will be indemnified for the Proclamation of Emancipation, and that a new Cabinet will be formed, who will feel, in spirit and unanimity with the great mass of Slavery that it shall be cured from further harm. They appear to have already forgotten that the resolution was contemplated in its interest and is supported by its power.

Our harbor is constantly occupied with a large number of steamers belonging to the Banks Expedition, that stop here for coals both going and returning, and quite a number of them have been connected to repair here. We judge, from the appearance of some of these old propellers, that the Government is straightened for transports for such large bodies of men. Some of these old vessels would have come to a full stop here, but for the aid of our new Naval Machine-shop, which is giving constant proof of its great usefulness and necessity.

The Naval Coal Depot, which has been so long under construction, and a short time since was placed under the management of Mr. MURPHY, as Master Mechanic, (who drove on the work with good energy until the yellow fever caused him to break off during its prevalence,) is now again progressing, with a new set of mechanics and laborers.

Since my last letter, several prize vessels have been captured and brought in here, viz.: schooner Mont Blanc, by the steamer Octorara, on Bahama Banks; cargo, salt and sundries. This vessel was purchased a prize, and was sold from here, about six weeks since. British brig Comet, by steamer Hastings de Cuba, off Hole-in-the-Wall; cargo, salt and sundries; cleared for Baltimore from Havana. Schooner Corsonete and sloop Flying Fish, assorted cargo, captured by the steamer Magnolia, Capt. FOREMAN. These were both taken near Tortugas, the first and second days of the cruise; the former having been a prize before, and sold here. They are the first prizes the Magnolia has made for four months, and unfortunately Capt. FOREMAN is on leave of absence, to improve his health. Schooner Mary, captured by the bark Restless, off St. Mark's, Florida, escorted coasting from Havana, bound for Savannah. This vessel was sold from here about two months since, having formerly been a prize.

The Admiralty Court is now in session, Judge MARVIN having returned a few days since, and judging from the large number of Prize cases on his docket, there will, probably, be a large amount of property sold by the Marshal during the coming week.

The sloop, materials and machinery of the steamer Adventure, Sandford were sold on the 24 and 26 for the aggregate sum of $12,000. The hull on the reef sold for $600.

The bark Open Sea, Capt. ROGERS, arrived here on the 4th, from Turtle Harbor, Fla., with coal for the Wind India Squadron. This brig has been laying there the last forty days on Assortings, and was very wisely ordered here by Capt. GAVERNOR, of the navy Gemsbock. Why will the department continue to order these vessels with coal to that open roadstead, where in rough weather they are unable to transfer the coal, and must wait or come down here for a supply. It would be better to send the coal here, where it can be landed or supplied in all weather, and thence dispatched without unnecessary demurrage.

Our new Commander, Col. P. H. GEARY, and gallant force of the Forty-seventh Pennsylvania Volunteers, have quietly settled down into their places, and everything moves on in the accustomed grooves. There is no jarring, no want of harmony in any quarter, except among those who were so unfortunate as to have a disinterested in the home and muscle of some of their fellow-men, and to prize the preservation as something of more consequence than the country of the country. They have tried many expedients to secure the aid of the Provost-Marshal's Guard to hunt up and return their fugitives, or to be allowed to do this themselves—all with no further success than the discharge of all negroes from Government employment, and full permission to hire or peremptorily dismiss their places. Many loyal men have rather no antipathy or rudeness in this matter, but frankly give their countenance and cooperation to the policy of the Government in its efforts to crush the rebellion, even though the cause may be crippled with it.

The following war vessels are now in the harbor of Key West, viz.: United States frigate St. Lawrence, Capt. SAWYER, flagship of Admiral BANKS; U. S. sloop-of-war Iale; bomb-vessels and entrance ships, U. S. steamer Saratoga, awaiting orders; U. S. steamer Kensington, awaiting orders; U. S. steamer Magnolia, bottom defective; U. S. steamer Penguin, just arrived from the blockade of Charleston Harbor; U. S. schooner Wanderer, on the wave repairing.

The weather is now of the most bracing kind for all outdoor in cooler latitudes. The days are clear, dry and balmy; the nights of just that temperature that gives to sleep its highest enjoyment. Business is brisk, and our wharves are continually crowded to an extent showing the necessity for greater facilities of that kind. But unfortunately the entire deep water front of the city is in the hands of a set of monopolists, who manage it entirely for their own interest and not for that of the public. The thermometer ranges from 70 to 80 degrees. Flowers and vegetation in all their accustomed profusion and vigor. F.

NEWS FROM FORTRESS MONROE

REBEL REPORTS FROM THE SOUTHWEST.

Bragg and His Army at Tullahoma.

An Extensive Rebel Programme for Gen. Foster.

Charleston, Wilmington, Weldon and Goldsboro to be Attacked. Simultaneously.

A National Force 80,000 Strong on the Coast of North Carolina.

FORTRESS MONROE, Saturday, Jan. 10.

The flag-of-truce steamboat New-York arrived to-day from City Point, in charge of Maj. L. C. TURNER. She brings down 300 Union prisoners, and 90 women and children.

The Richmond Examiner of the 9th has the following:

TULLAHOMA—BRAGG'S POSITION.—Gen. BRAGG has fallen back to Tullahoma, in Coffee County, Tenn., situated on Rock Creek, 71 miles from Nashville and 23 from Winchester, and on the Nashville and Chattanooga Railroad, where it intersects the McMinnville and Manchester Railroad, in the heart of operations and position of defense. We understand that this gives officer great advantages.

A special dispatch to the Charleston papers says Gen. BRAGG abandoned the citizens of Dover and Winchester, Tenn., on Monday, assuring them that he would not leave them to the enemy, but would make a stand between Allisonia and Tullahoma. He had fallen back to give his men repose after a battle which had exhausted their energy.

The Yankees have advanced six miles from Murfreesboro.

MOVEMENT IN NORTH CAROLINA.

CHARLESTON, Thursday, Jan. 8.

The following is from Kinston, N. C., of to-day's date:

"The enemy are making unusual preparations for an advance. Reinforcements are daily arriving from Suffolk. The Yankees at Roanoke City and Newbern are 10,000 strong, under command of Gen. FOSTER. They will probably attack Charleston, Wilmington, Weldon and Goldsborough simultaneously. It is reported that they are now cooking their marching rations."

ADDITIONAL FROM NORTH CAROLINA.

HEADQUARTERS, ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, Sunday, Jan. 11.

The Richmond Enquirer of the 10th, contains the following:

RALEIGH, N. C., Friday, Jan. 6.

The State Journal has reliable information from Newbern, that the enemy, not less than 20,000 strong, are on the coast, and that a most formidable fleet is at Beaufort. It is supposed that an attack is meditated on Wilmington and Goldsboro.

ADDITIONAL FROM BRAGG'S REBEL ARMY.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, Sunday, Jan. 11.

The Richmond Enquirer, of the 10th, contains the following rebel dispatches:

CHATTANOOGA, Friday, Jan. 9.

It is now ascertained that the enemy returned from his position on Saturday night and Sunday morning several miles beyond Stewart's Creek. His cavalry returned after hoisting of the withdrawal of our pickets. Gen. MORGAN has returned safe, after destroying the Nashville Railroad within four miles of Louisville. He also destroyed the Lexington and Covington Railroad, and paroled a large number of prisoners."

MOBILE, Thursday, Jan. 8.

The Advertiser and Register has the following private dispatch:

"Being outnumbered more than two to one by the enemy, and our troops utterly exhausted by the cold and rain, and four days' incessant fighting, with heavy loss in killed and wounded, Gen. BRAGG determined to fall back to Duck River. The enemy showed he was receiving large reinforcements from Kentucky. By a brilliant night march, covered by the admirable cavalry of WHEELER and WILLIAMS, the whole command with its supplies and captured arms, is now encamping on its new lines, and ready for the enemy whenever he shall advance. Since this army crossed the Tennessee River, we have captured 9,000 prisoners, small arms, and lots of wagons."

CHATTANOOGA, Wednesday, Jan. 7.

The enemy has advanced his lines seven miles this side of Murfreesboro. He has taken twelve of the most outrageous secessionists, stealing private property, robbing peaceable citizens, and running off negroes.

THE WAR IN TENNESSEE.

The Rebel Gen. Forrest at Franklin.

NASHVILLE, Sunday, Jan. 11.

The rebel Gen. FORREST's advance was at Franklin last night, and his pickets extend three miles this side of that place. He is engaged in collecting horses, provisions and conscripts.

Four trains with army stores arrived to-day.

The river is stationary.

IMPORTANT FROM VICKSBURGH.

The Repulse of Gen. Sherman Complete.

Return of our Forces to Their Transports under Direction of Gen. McClernand.

The Fighting and Losses Much Exaggerated.

CAIRO, Sunday, Jan. 11.

An arrival to-night from the mouth of the Yazoo brings authentic accounts from Vicksburgh. Gen. SHERMAN's repulse was complete. The entire force, under the direction of Gen. McCLERNAND, re-embarked Saturday on transports, closely pressed by the rebel advance, which, coming in range of the gunboats, were driven back with severe loss. At the last accounts the entire fleet of transports with troops had arrived at Island No. 82, on the way to Napoleon.

There is nothing definite from Arkansas or Fairport, though rumors of their advance are in circulation. The engagement was less general than previously reported. The principal fighting was done by the centre, under command of Gens. STEELE and BURNSIDE. The conduct of the latter is highly spoken of. Our loss, as near as could be ascertained, was 600 killed, 1,500 wounded and 1,000 missing.

Capt. GUNZE, of the gunboat Rosina, died of wounds received in the recent attack at Haines' Bluff.

The steamer Mississippi was burned by guerillas at Bradley's Landing, ten miles above Memphis, on the 6th.

Capt. MOSES, with about 100 men, attacked a camp of 300 rebels at Hudson's Mills, 35 miles east of Fort Pillow, on the morning of the 8th. The rebels were completely surprised. Sixteen rebels were killed, and forty-six taken prisoners. Fifty horses and a lot of small arms were captured. Two Nationals were wounded. The expedition was absent from Fort Ely about twenty-seven hours.

REBEL BARBARITY.

Outrageous Treatment of Our Wounded and Sick Men at Holly Springs.

Statement of the Medical Director of the Thirteenth Army Corps.

WASHINGTON, Sunday, Jan. 11.

The following has been forwarded to the Headquarters of the Army here:

HEADQUARTERS DIVISION'S GUARD, HOLLY SPRINGS, MISS., Dec. 26, 1862.

SIR: I have the honor to report that I remained behind the advance of the army for the purpose of establishing a large General Hospital at Holly Springs. I took a building that had been built for an Armory by the Confederates, consisting of six large rooms, each 120 feet long and numerous outhouses, and after three weeks of incessant labor, in which I was greatly assisted by Surgeon TURNER, of the Seventh Missouri Infantry, fitted everything prepared for 500.

The rolling Medical Purveyor of the Southern portion of the Department had been ordered to bring all the supplies to this hospital, which he did, and on the morning of the 20th, of December, one of the most cowardly, barbarous and unmanly slaughters in the army was ready to receive its sick.

On that morning the town of Holly Springs was taken by the Confederate forces under Gen. VAN DORN.

As soon as I discovered the enemy were in possession of the place, I repaired to the headquarters of the rebel General near the town, and made a formal request that the Armory Hospital should not be burnt, entering my solemn protest on the subject, as the Confederates had already set fire to the railroad dépôt and a commissary store-house, and had declared their intentions to destroy all houses occupied by our troops.

I received the assurance by Gen. VAN DORN'S Adjutant that the Armory Hospital should not be burnt, but that it would be protected by a guard. Satisfied with this, I returned to my quarters, but had not been there an hour when I was informed that the building was in flames, and that this fine structure, with two thousand beds, an immense lot of drugs and surgical apparatus, thousands of blankets, sheets and hospital sacks, was soon in ashes.

This proceeding, in violation of an express promise, and of all rules of civilized warfare, is an evidence of the barbarity and want of principle in the Confederate officers. But this was not all. An attempt was made to destroy the Medical Dépôt, located on the main square, and which at the time contained over 500 sick.

A quantity of ordnance stores had been deposited in a building on the next block to the hospital, and by the order of Gen. VAN DORN, as stated by the officer who had charge of the matter, the barrels of powder and boxes containing shell and cartridges, were taken out and piled up nearly in front of the hospital and on fire to.

Two medical officers protested against this wanton act, but their requests were treated with contempt, and the moment the hospital was fired with flying balls and shell, and finally a terrific explosion took place which shook the entire building, unhinging almost every window and door in the establishment, wounding about twenty men, and creating a scene of the wildest confusion.

A large number of buildings on the public square took fire from the explosion, and it was only by the utmost efforts that the hospital was preserved as a shelter for the men in the night air.

Together with the medical officers who assisted me in caring for the sick and removed on that eventful day, I thought that the rebels had now done us all the harm in their power, but to injury insult was to be added in a manner I hope never to witness again. A rebel cavalry officer named BURNETT, who claimed he had been detailed by Gen. VAN DORN to "search of every sick man that had not been paroled," collected together, placed in transit, about 200 sick soldiers, forced them to rise from their beds and fall in line, threatening to shoot the medical officer who expostulated with him, and actually made the poor fellows, suffering from fever, pass down the main avenue, along with him, on the road. The men fell down in the street and had to rise again for fear of being shot, when they were so weak that the slightest motion was agony. On being remonstrated if there was anything in the name of humanity that could be done to stop his brutal proceedings, he finally consented to let them alone on receiving a paper, signed by all the Surgeons present, stating that the men were too sick to walk, and their removal was an impossibility.

I cannot speak too highly of the conduct of Dr. E. M. PERSON, of the Seventh Missouri Infantry, after the surgeon of Holly Springs. The efforts of this able and accomplished officer for the care of the sick were untiring, and from morning till night he was engaged in doing everything in his power to prevent unnecessary poverty and suffering to the helpless beings, who were driven from their beds and shelter, as comfortable as circumstances would allow. Dr. KELLY, Assistant Surgeon of the Forty-eighth Illinois Infantry, also rendered great assistance, by his well-directed and efficient endeavors.

(Signed) H. E. WIRTZ, Surgeon, U. S. A.,

Medical Director Thirteenth Army Corps.

Lieut.-Col. JOS. A. REYNOLDS, A. A. A.-General, Gen. GRANT's Headquarters.

FIVE DAYS LATER FROM EUROPE.

THE JURA OFF CAPE RACE.

Sympathy of the Workingmen of Manchester with the North.

A Congratulatory Address to President Lincoln.

His EMANCIPATION POLICY APPROVED.

Increase of £2,352,000 in the British Revenue.

Additional French Troops Wanted in Mexico.

CAPE RACE, Saturday, Jan. 10.

The steamship Jura, from Liverpool for Portland, via Londonderry 3d, passed Cape Race at noon to-day, (Saturday,) on route for Portland, and was boarded by the news-yacht of the Associated Press.

The news by the Jura is unimportant.

The steamship North American, from Portland, arrived at Londonderry Dec. 29.

The steamship Bremen, from New-York, arrived at Southampton Dec. 31.

The steamship Hungarian, from New-York, arrived at Queenstown Jan. 1.

GREAT BRITAIN.

A meeting of the workingmen of Manchester was held at "Free-Trade Hall, on the 5th instant, for the purpose of passing resolutions in support of the National cause, and greeting us as friends to President Lincoln. The Mayor presided, explaining that he did not do so as Mayor, but simply as "Abel Heywood amongst Quakers." Mr. BRIGHT, member of Parliament, read the paper. Across, from Bayard escaped conclusion, were present. Resolutions were read from Jean Baptiste Say, whereby expressing the sentiments of a just tribute to the inner feeling of the great portion of the people, and were a chorus of congratulations to those whose hopes and fears in the interests of humanity are bound up in the prospect of the working classes. Resolutions were then passed expressing sympathy with the attempt of President LINCOLN and his colleagues to carry the South, and high satisfaction at the Proclamation of Emancipation and other measures tending in this to give freedom to the slave and reduce power of the slaveholding nation. The address to Mr. LINCOLN congratulates him on his humane and righteous policy of emancipation, and honorable him, while yet his enemies, to release and the free of every yoke, to finish the work effectually. The Mayor was requested and undertook, simply in his individual character to transmit the resolutions and address to President LINCOLN with the hearty concurrence of the meeting, and with the expression of his earnest wish that England and America may ever remain hand together in the most intimate and fraternal bonds.

The revenue returns to the end of the year show an increase in total receipts of two millions three hundred and ninety-two thousand pounds sterling. The increase during the last three months was over a million and a quarter. The total revenue for the year was nearly twenty-nine millions sterling. The Times remarks on these figures that the country did not, in a course of inquiry to the total prosperity of England, is no nothing. The Commissioners and Accountants will see that cotton is not King, and that it would be far better worth Engineers while even to feed all Arkwrights or cotton or rather prosperity, all long, more important in other trades, than in every one point in her national policy. The Federal North will find in these figures the secret of the calm and silent confidence with which England pursues her steady course.

The special distributing of cotton to Liverpool developed an course of 500,000 bales coarse and medium quantity. The advanced goods discovered the present prices nominally, to the extent of half a penny, but on the market was closed, on the 1st, the effect was not finally tested.

FRANCE.

A Paris correspondent says additional reinforcements, amounting in the thousands, are declared to be indispensable to success in Mexico. The French will assuredly enter the capital, sooner or later, but not without a sacrifice greater than will ever be made known.

PARIS, Wednesday, Dec. 31.

The Bourse closes dull and lower; Rentes, 68f 90c.

GREECE.

A great popular demonstration occurred at Athens on the 20th, the crowds shouting for Prince ALFRED, and asking for the English special envoy, who refused the throne on the part of Alfred, at the same time promising the Greeks the sympathy and good will of England.

Commercial News by the Jura.

LIVERPOOL, Thursday, Jan. 1.

COTTON—The sales of the three days (Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday) footed up 30,000 bales, of which 21,100 were taken by speculators. The market opened with an advance of ¼d. Oid., but closed with a downward tendency, all important points ended to the stock heavily exceeding the estimates. Buyers offered to purchase at a reduction of ¼d. Oid., but the sellers were generally declined.

BREAD OF TRADE.—The Manchester market is quiet, but prices are still unchanged.

BREADSTUFFS are quiet and steady. WARRINGTON, HARE & Co., and HOLLAND, ANSELL & Co., report Flour quiet and firm. Wheat quotations steady. Winter Western, and Southern, 10s. 6d. Corn steady. Mixed, 30s. 6d. Oats, 6s.

PROVISIONS very dull. The above authorities report: Beef, no sales. Pork nominal. Bacon still declining. Lard inactive. Tallow dull.

PRODUCE.—The produce market has been inactive, owing to the holidays.

LIVERPOOL, Dec. 31.

BREADSTUFFS firm but quiet. Corn, 30s. sales, owing to the holidays. Tallow dull at 48s. Linseed Oil, steady 35s. 6d.

Illinois General Bonds 88@85 discount; Erie 46¾ @45¾.

LATEST VIA LONDONDERRY.

LIVERPOOL, Jan. 2.

COTTON—The sales to-day are reported at 8,000 bales, at a decline of ¼d.@¼d. for all qualities. Of the sales 2,000 are to speculators.

The Corn Exchange is closed, on account of holiday. All other business is merely of a holiday character.

LONDON MONEY MARKET—Sun.

The Funds are firmer and tend upward. Money in active demand, both at the discount and open market. Rates were unchanged.

SATTERWHAITE'S Circular reports a moderate business in American Securities at steady prices; there was an active inquiry for Virginia Stock, which touched 47.

LONDON MONEY MARKET—2D.

Consols closed at 92¼@92¾ for money.

The bullion in the Bank of England has increased £93,000.

American Stocks.—The latest sales are Erie 47; Illinois Central, 82@83 dis.

Political news is unimportant.

THE END—WHEN AND WHY?

Reply to "When?"—Why the War is Prolonged—The Failure of the Military Block—Defect of Democratic Institutions—Their Strength, their Success—Parallel with the War of 1812-15.

THE BRONXS, Dec., 1862.

A note to me, through the TIMES Office, incloses a paragraph from one of my letters, written nearly a year since, (as I suppose, not having the date,) in which I said that "pacification" would be easy, in a certain manner. My correspondent simply appends to this paragraph the word "When?" I greatly admire his brevity, and comprehend the full scope of his interrogatory. It is a question full of meaning, and I shall endeavor to reply fairly and fully.

In the first place, let me remind my friend, that the Jewish Prophets were none the less accurate in their statement of the event and its circumstances, because they never said "when." The future passed before them in a succession of pictures, whose succession was real and inevitable, but of the period of time necessary to that succession they had no knowledge. This could not have been otherwise. For the time could be made shorter or longer by the conduct of the Jewish people and their rulers. God but made them free to shorten or prolong, by their own conduct, the advent of the Messiah. We may see very clearly the results of human conduct, but we cannot see the time required to accomplish those results. Fortunately for my accuracy, I neither made the statement with time, nor without conditions.

I pretend to no prophetic art, yet I think the conditions from my premises will be certain. The conditions were the important elements of the statement, and I adhere to them now, in the words in which they were written. The pacification of the South would be easy: 1. When the principal points of the South were held by military occupation; 2. When the property of open rebels was confiscated; 3. When rebels were disfranchised. When these things were done, the State Government would be reorganized by loyal citizens. Now, my correspondent will remember that when I wrote these things the Government and people had not acknowledged any one of them. People said the war is not a war of conquest. Congress kill-fied passed the Confiscation Act. The President had not issued his Proclamation; and lastly, members of Congress are elected at New-Orleans and elsewhere, without disloyalty oath, or, as far as I see. If my friend will examine my earlier letters, he will find that I looked upon the war as a war of destruction—destruction to Slavery and to the power of the South ever to get up another rebellion. If we do not that we do nothing, and every drop of blood has been shed in vain.

But, the end is coming more rapidly than the query implies. I am writing at the close of 1862. Go back one year and look at our positions. Then, one third of Kentucky, all of Tennessee, nearly all of Virginia, and a large part of Missouri were in possession of the rebels, who held Norfolk, New-Orleans, Beaufort, Newbern, Pensacola, Galveston and many other places now in our possession. No one can deny that we have made immense progress in military occupation. But our real progress is far greater than is represented by this possession. The rebels are stricken almost to death for want of the necessaries of life. Our navy, which was small, begins to compare well with that of England. Our Western rivers will soon be full of iron gunboats, which will sweep rebels and Slavery from every mile of the six thousand miles of Western navigation. If this be done, the Southern Confederacy will be practically reduced to four States. It will be cut off from the entire South-West, and as well of Texas, Arkansas, and Missouri. That will be an attack on Richmond, more effectual than any other. Another thing: a year since we were on the eve of a war with England about the Trent affair. Now we are in far less danger of intervention than we were then. In fact, intervention practically has always been a mere bugbear. No man can find a reason why a statesman in Europe should make a war with the United States, which must inevitably destroy European commerce, and probably introduce revolutions, of which no man can see the end. It would be the last act of political insanity.

And now I return to "when?" No prophet can foretell time. The war has continued longer than I thought, or do think necessary, if we had the statesmanship that military talent which I assumed to exist. Why? There are several reasons only. In the first place, the military mind of the country—either, in the Union or rebel armies—is by no means as great and efficient as we supposed. There have been several popular delusions on this subject. Everybody took it for granted that West Point could furnish all the military mind. But there is one thing West Point cannot furnish—that is, military genius. There is another thing it cannot furnish. It cannot furnish that wide, comprehensive mind which grasps the elements and resources of the country. It is said that when Gen. LEE was at Frederick he was hunting and inquiring for a map of Maryland. Now, LEE is a Virginian, and before he entered Maryland he should have known every road, creek and hill in the State. Take another example. I am told that Gen. MCCLELLAN did not want another regiment of cavalry! Why, such a man knows nothing of his country and its elements. Cavalry is the sure thing we need most. Who organized and commanded a brigade of our men at Hancock? A column of five thousand cavalry, with footed by all the pickets and their officers, is what we need. The only counterpart to these things, in that region, is KENNETT's Cavalry—which, the rebels say, is the only cavalry they have seen in our army. KENNETT is a soldier and a gentleman, whom I commend to the notice of the country.

Another of our military mistakes is to imagine that every man who served in Mexico is fit to be a General! There is no sort of analogy between service in the Mexican war and service in this rebellion. There is not a man among those Mexican officers who will fight as HANCOCK and BURNSIDE did the other day at Antietam. By the way, that battle of Public Grove will do to put in history. Those Iowa and Wisconsin regiments which charged HUNEMAN's batteries should bear a wreath of glory. There is a military mind somewhere in the country, and if we fight long enough it will be brought out.

There is another mistake. We all think that because democratic institutions work admirably for the common welfare of the people, therefore they are best for everything. Perhaps in the end they may be. But in war they are found to have some very serious defects. In the conduct of war an aristocracy is stronger in the beginning than a democracy. The reason is very obvious. An aristocracy lays all its plans and collects all its means with promptness, prudence and secrecy. In a democracy it is just the contrary. The people take a good while to get any other idea than those of trade. A great many people must be moved before a decision is made, and when it is made, the movements of preparation are slow. Everybody must be consulted. [illegible] President. [illegible] General. [illegible] Cabinet, and everybody is positively sure that if his plan had been carried out, nothing ever would have happened, and most probably nothing good ever would. Nobody makes allowance for the accidents of war, which are numerous and great, and nobody but some pious woman in her closet, seems to think that God in His Providence has something to do with these affairs. Thus, while we are, shouting hallelujahs to democracy, this same democracy is making an unmistakable fool of itself.

But there is another side to the picture. Wherever a democracy has continued at war for more than a short time, it has always been triumphant. It is vigorous in action, quick to perceive, and learns discipline (the want of which is one of our grand defects) by experience, and it is willing to give full scope to genius, when it is found. Democracy is willing to impose restraints upon itself, when they are found necessary; in illustration, both of the defect and the excellence I mention, take for the first the late faux pas about the Cabinet. Here newspaper correspondents throwing the blood of the army on the Cabinet; calling Fredericksburgh a mighty crisis of the war; looking to European intervention, and making themselves ridiculous generally. And this to be followed by the resignation of the Cabinet. All this is moonshine; but, unfortunately, many sensible people treat it as if it really was sense and patriotism. Fredericksburgh is quite an unimportant event in the war, except the loss of life. It has no significance whatever, except as a repulse at one point. It is not of half the importance of the rebels' last defeat at Corinth. So of the Cabinet. If you dismiss the Cabinet, who have you to put in their places? Who will be an abler Secretary of the Treasury than Mr. CHASE? Who will be a better Attorney-General than Mr. BATES? It is true enough that there are two, if not three men in the Cabinet, who, I think, the country might get along without. But the first question is, have we fitter men to put in their places? Now, on the other side, the excellence of democratic institutions is well illustrated by the immense efforts put forth by the people. The million of volunteers, the restraints put upon themselves by the people, and the sacrifices they cheerfully make—all this is admirable and wonderful.

And, now, we want but one thing more. Be patient, and the end will soon come. All events are conspiring to give full effect to the immense preparations we have made. It will soon be known what God intends to bring out of this vast array of elements. Our Revolutionary war was seven years; our war with England three years; our war with Mexico two years. Our war now has only been a year and a half; and, mark, we are now just bringing out our strength. We are just beginning to understand war. There is a parallel between this and the war of 1812-'15, which is quite instructive. Mr. MADISON was as amiable as Mr. LINCOLN, and could not look upon blood with composure. In fact, he was opposed to the war, and acquiesced to accept it as the work of his party. At the very first election subsequently, the Federalists carried several States, one of which was New-York, and MADISON narrowly escaped being defeated. The war came on, with only one in the Cabinet who had any taste for it—JAMES MONROE. The Secretary of War was Dr. EUSTIS, a revolutionary doctor. The Secretary of the Navy was PAUL HAMILTON, who knew nothing about it; and PINCKNEY, the Attorney-General, was opposed to the war. HULL disgraceffully surrendered, and EUSTIS was put out, for JOHN ARMSTRONG, author of the "Newbury Letter," and in 1814 Washington surrendered, and the capital was burned. ARMSTRONG resigned, and MONROE succeeded him. Russia proposed a mediation. It was two years after the declaration before the war was prosecuted with vigor. Then JACOB BROWN, and ANDREW JACKSON, and young SCOTT, with his double regiment, appeared upon the field. Chippewa, Niagara and New-Orleans followed, and the war closed in glory. The navy signalized itself against the bulwarks of old England, and if it gets a chance will do it again. Such is democracy in war; weak in the beginning, strong in the end. Be patient, then, and every cloud, which lowers upon our horizon, will disappear before the coming sun, unless God has decreed our downfall.

A VETERAN OBSERVER.

AFFAIRS IN JAPAN.

Ravages of the Cholera—Murder of Mr. Richardson.

[Extracts from a Private Letter.]

KANAGAWA, Thursday, Oct. 23, 1862.

The cholera has been making great ravages throughout the country. In Yeddo it is estimated that between it and the smallpox at least 100,000 people have died this season, and some place the deaths at twice that number. The amount seems incredible, but from the uniform testimony of the Japanese, it is generally believed. Our town (Yokohama) has also suffered severely, but the mortality has been chiefly confined to the natives, only one or two foreigners (excluding men) having died, although quite a number have been sick. The British Consul, Capt. VYSE, had a violent attack.

Since my arrival here there has been the greatest excitement, produced by the murder of an English gentleman, and the wounding of two others, while they were taking a ride one Sunday afternoon, with a lady visitor from Shanghai, on the Tokaido, a great road through the country. The gentleman who was killed was also on a visit from China, and about visiting Japan. They met on the road a train of the great Prince of Satsuma, and drew up to the side of the road to let it pass. After the head of the train had passed, they heard an order given by the Chief, one of the principal retainers of the Prince, but not comprehending what it meant, paid no attention to it. Some other one of the party in the train approached them and made motions for them to turn back, which they had no sooner done than they were attacked by some of the crowd with their two-handed swords, which they wielded with powerful effect. The lady escaped the blow aimed at her, which, however, came near enough to cut the rim of her hat and part of her habit, and with the gentlemen dashed through the crowd for dear life. Mr. RICHARDSON, one of the gentlemen, then fell from his horse in a dying condition, and in a afterward discovered, succeeded in dragging himself to a grassy spot by the roadside. The time government rode to the American Consular residence, but the lady's horse was unmanageable, and brought her over to Yokohama, on the other side of the bay from Kanagawa, some three miles further. The news was spread, and the foreign residents were up in arms immediately, and on their way to where the murder was committed. The train had passed by the time we reached Kanagawa, or a collision would have been inevitable.

The body of Mr. R. was found lying where he was killed, and it presented a frightful appearance, as he had received, in all, ten ghastly wounds, several of them mortal. It appeared that the ruffians had attacked him a second time, and mutilated him in the most dreadful manner.

As a matter of course, the whole thing will be brought before the different Governments represented here, and it depends upon them what steps will be taken to enforce treaty-rights and insure security of life from the murderous attacks of feudal princes opposed to foreigners.

The affair and its probable consequences have [illegible] opinion [illegible] President [illegible] Cabinet [illegible] Bloom. If the [illegible] gunboat vessels of entire iron, [illegible] 97 [illegible] it is certain [illegible] iron. I am strongly in favor of present, however, of vessels of entire iron. Let it be laid on in new [illegible] over-large circle, held by bulkheads of tension, and not of resistance. Then the strength of the resistance may be increased by new layers, as the projectiles are increased also in power.

The French system of developing the best models is a good one. Proposals for models and structure should not only be extended to all classes of public employes, but to private persons also. Thus will all the mind in a nation be useful for its naval proficiency.

Let us, then, have a navy, permanent, large, and glorious as the destiny of "the Great Republic."

Your obedient servant,

C. M. CLAY.

THE McDOWELL COURT OF INQUIRY.

Testimony of Capt. Frank Haven, Col. Edward Schriver, Major S. F. Barstow and Brig.-Gen. Roberts.

Special Report for the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Thursday, Jan. 8, 1863.

In the McDowell Court of Inquiry this morning the examination of Gen. Sigel was declared concluded.

Capt. Franklin Haven, A. D. C., was sworn and testified: I was with Gen. McDowell on Aug. 26. Gen. McDowell explained to me how Gen. Sigel was to cross the railroad at Gainesville, then turn to the right and march along the railroad to Manassas, and told me to go forward and see if Gen. Sigel was so doing. I found Gen. Sigel at Gainesville near where the four roads meet. He said to me he would go on a little from Manassas, a few hundred yards beyond the railroad, because the road made an angle with the railroad, and would then turn off to the right. I made known to Gen. Sigel the message on which I was sent. Gen. Sigel seemed to understand that after having crossed the railroad from the south to the north side, he was to march by the side of the railroad to Manassas. I was with Gen. McDowell on the 28th, when he was sitting under a tree examining a map, and when one of Gen. Sigel's aids came to him. Two aids came that morning. The first said he was going to Gen. Sigel, and wanted to know if Gen. McDowell had any order to send. Gen. McDowell said, "Say, Gen. Sigel is to move with his right on Sudley Church." Knowl neither of the aids did not speak English well. Shortly after the first aid left, a second aid came and asked, "Did Gen. McDowell send an order to Gen. Sigel to go to the right of the railroad?" Gen. McDowell answered "No; he is to go with his right on the railroad." The aid then asked some other questions, and one about minute details, at which Gen. McDowell said, "Let Gen. Sigel fight his own corps," in a manner indicative of surprise at the question. In going forward the four miles to Gen. Sigel, I found many of his regiments resting on the road, some of his men sheltered under the trees on the sides, and some regiments were in the fields on each side of the road, resting, lying down, &c. The head of the column was just moving. There were a great many baggage wagons turned off the road by order of Gen. McDowell, as they passed the place where he stood, so that the Third Corps (Gen. Sigel's) might follow right after the troops on the advance. I carried an order to Gen. Sigel on the morning of Aug. 26, and found him within four miles of Warrenton, retreating toward Washington, about half-way between Warrenton and Waterloo Bridge.

Col. Ed. Schriver, Chief of Staff to Gen. McDowell, was recalled, and testified: On the occasion of the march of Gen. McDowell's troops at Buckland Mills, Gen. Reynolds sent back word that Gen. Sigel's corps was stopping at Gainesville. He was making no preparations to advance, or to organize, or form his corps, and that he was sending his baggage-trains to cook their breakfast, so that his division could not get forward. Maj. Barstow was sent forward on that occasion by Gen. McDowell. A large number of baggage wagons, understood to be Gen. Sigel's, were on the road, embarrassing and, indeed, stopping the march of troops.

Maj. S. F. Barstow, A. A. G., U. S. A., of Gen. McDowell's Staff, was next sworn, and testified: I was sent with an order to Gen. Sigel on the morning of Aug. 26. We moved out from Buckland Mills on the 25th before day, (Gen. McDowell and Staff,) and halted by the side of the road. We found a great many of a train which ought not to have been there. The question was asked if they were ammunition wagons, and the answer was, "No, they were not." All wagons were ordered to turn out except ammunition wagons. While we were engaged in that duty, Gen. McDowell called me to him, and said I must ride on, find Gen. Sigel, and order him to move on and clear the road. I rode on, and found Gen. Sigel about a mile beyond Gainesville, or a quarter that night. I rode up to him, and told him that Gen. McDowell's orders were that he should move at once on Manassas Junction. He asked where was Gen. McDowell. I said we were in close cannon-balling him, and that when Gen. Sigel halted, he halted the column four miles back. He then said, "Gentlemen, forward, move," or words to that effect, to the gentlemen around him. The man along the line had pretty generally fallen out. Some of Reynolds' were in column. The road was so blocked up that I could not keep the road, but rode in the woods and cutting, where I saw the men lying down, resting and reading.

To the Court.—I was with Gen. McDowell during the 26th, 27th and 28th of August. I do not know how early on the 26th Gen. McDowell broke camp, nearer Gainesville. When I returned I found Gen. McDowell making a reconnoissance toward Centreville; shortly after we were being fired upon. This was about 9 o'clock in the morning. I had no means of judging of the force of the enemy in the direction from which the shells were thrown. Gen. McDowell remained as near as I can remember within two miles East of Warrenton Pike until 12 o'clock. While I was with him he was dismounted, sitting under a tree, receiving and sending dispatches, he then moved off in the direction of Manassas Junction, where we joined Gen. King, between Gainesville and Manassas Junction. I think we joined Gen. King, early in the afternoon of the 26th, and about two hours after Gen. McDowell started for Manassas Junction. I presume Gen. King's division was within two miles of Gen. McDowell's column, saying that he thought he should attack the batteries. That night I stated to Gen. Banks that my impression was that he did not believe that the enemy was in such force as to overwhelm us; that I was convinced that the batteries near Cedar Mountain and Slaughter Mountain were supported by heavy forces of infantry concealed in the woods. He expressed a different opinion, and said he had information that Jackson's corps was at Gordonsville. I immediately sent a dispatch to Gen. Pope—I think the dispatch was dated half-past 10 o'clock—stating that a general battle would be fought between Banks and the forces of the utmost importance in my opinion, that Gen. McDowell's Corps, or that portion of it between Culpeper and the battle-field should be at once sent to the field. Gen. McDowell's Corps was at that time lying in the neighborhood—I think marked on the map, where the road running from Stevensburgh intersects the road from Culpeper. I think it was about seven miles from the battle-field to Culpeper, and about [illegible] to McDowell's Corps, from [illegible] Stevensburgh, the intermediate village [illegible] after I had sent [illegible] Gen. Banks [illegible] The Court [illegible] at 11 o'clock.

INTERESTING TESTIMONY OF GEN. ROBERTS CONCERNING THE BATTLE OF CEDAR MOUNTAIN—CURIOUS REVELATIONS—THE REASONS WHY BANKS WAS DEFEATED—GEN. M'DOWELL DOING HIS BEST TO HELP BANKS.

WASHINGTON, Friday, Jan. 9, 1863.

To-day was the thirty-ninth of the sessions of the McDowell Court of Inquiry. The testimony of Brig.-Gen. Roberts, of Gen. Pope's Staff, was continued.

Gen. Roberts explained his testimony of yesterday by stating that the power given to him by Gen. Pope, Aug. 6, to give orders in Pope's name to his (Roberts') superiors in rank, was for the purpose only of carrying out the views that had been expressed to Roberts by Pope as to holding the enemy in check until reinforcements came up—which was expected within twenty-four hours.

Maj. Barstow corrected his testimony of yesterday, stating that the shelling from the direction of Centreville, spoken of by him, might have commenced later than 9½ A. M.

Testimony of Gen. Roberts continued.—Q.—If Gen. Banks had not attacked Jackson in force on the 9th of August, do you think Jackson would have attacked Banks?

A.—I do not think Jackson would have attacked Banks in the position where Banks was first posted on coming on the field. The position was exceedingly strong, and one which the small forces of Gen. Banks could have held against a much larger force; Jackson's troops had made a long march that day, and I do not think were in a condition to attack Banks in such a strong position.

Q.—Is the witness to be understood that Gen. Banks fought that battle on his own responsibility, and against witness's advice and against the known expectations of Gen. Pope?

A.—When Gen. Banks first came on the field I met him, and went to the front with him, showing him positions where the enemy had batteries already posted, and where I had discovered they were posting new batteries, and showed Gen. Banks the positions where his own corps could take post to advantage, and hold those positions, as I thought, if attacked. I then told him that Gen. Pope wanted him to hold the position in check there until Sigel's forces could be brought up, which were expected that day, and all his other forces united to fight Jackson's forces. I mean to be understood to say that it was my impression that Gen. Banks fought that battle entirely on his own responsibility, and against the expectations of Gen. Pope, which expectations had been expressed to Gen. Banks as I have already stated.

Q.—Do you know why Gen. Banks advanced to make a demonstration, and why the enemy on the 9th of August, without the aid of Gen. McDowell's troops, did not make the attack?

A.—I can only state impressions from facts which I can relate. Gen. Banks had seen nothing of the enemy on that day, or not much of him, as the country was thick, and well known to them, that they could easily conceal their movements from Gen. Banks. After he first came on the field, and had suggested positions to the left of Campbell's Brigade, where his main force could take post, he proceeded to put those forces in position in support of Crawford, posted on his left. I went to the extreme right of one of his Brigades, (Gordon's,) to put it in position, and was gone an hour or more, as I went some distance beyond to the right, under a belief that the enemy's forces were endeavoring to turn the right flank. On returning back, I found Gen. Banks had advanced his lines in order of battle considerably toward the enemy, so that a very sharp musketry fire had already commenced. I then expressed to Gen. Banks my convictions—I think this was about half-past three—that the enemy was in very large force, and massed in the woods on his right. Gen. Banks replied that he did not believe that the enemy was in any considerable force yet, and said that he had resolved to attack their batteries, or to attack their main force. I have forgotten whether he said he would make a general attack, or endeavor to take their batteries. From the state of facts, I am convinced that Gen. Banks made the attack in the belief that the enemy was not in large force, and that he could succeed in his attack without the aid of other troops. Another reason for this belief is, that Gen. Banks supposed that his own force was between twelve and thirteen thousand, whereas it was three thousand less than that. He was led to this belief from some mistake in the returns which he never discovered until after the battle was fought.

Q.—Did you know the character of the dispatch Gen. Banks sent to Gen. Pope, prior to his engaging the enemy decisively on the 9th of August?

A.—I did not.

Q.—What knowledge have you of Gen. Pope's instructions to engage Jackson as soon as Sigel's forces should arrive, and in condition to move to the front?

A.—I know that Gen. Pope intended to attack Jackson the moment he concentrated the forces. He was so confident of attacking him successfully that he observed with me, on the manner of holding Gordonsville, where he supposed he would drive him. It was his intention to have pushed all his forces on, on the 10th, with the expectation of fighting that day.

Q.—What in your judgment, would have been the result if the battle had been delayed until the 10th, and had been fought with all the forces which Gen. Pope would have been able to move up at that time?

A.—I have no doubt that with the forces Gen. Pope could have brought on the field on the 10th, that he would have defeated and captured the great part of Jackson's army. With the small force that Banks had to fight Jackson's entire army, Jackson was so much damaged that he was unable to renew the battle on the 10th, and I think if that about 20,000 more had been there, he would have utterly destroyed Jackson's army. His retreat would have been difficult on account of the Rapidan immediately behind him, where he must have been captured.

Q.—How long after you sent word back to Gen. Pope of Banks' intention to engage the enemy decisively, was it before you saw Gen. McDowell's troops coming on the field?

A.—About two hours and a half, as near as I can judge. Gen. Banks had moved his forces toward the field before my note was received. The order had to go seven miles to Gen. Pope.

Q.—What was the position and condition of Gen. Banks' corps when Gen. McDowell's troops arrived on the field?

A.—At sundown I left Gen. Banks, to ride to the rear to bring Gen. McDowell on to the field myself, regarding it as of the utmost importance that Gen. Banks should hold his position on the field. I met Gen. Pope and Gen. McDowell, with Ricketts' Division, coming on to the field. The division was halted. I was questioned particularly by Gen. Pope and Gen. McDowell about the state of things, and the position of Gen. Banks with a view to posting Gen. McDowell's troops to support him. I represented the position of Gen. Banks' forces when I left. Gen. McDowell and Gen. Pope were proceeding to make disposition of their forces on this representation. At this time Gen. Banks came up himself, and he was also questioned, and, so far as I understood, gave to Gen. Pope and Gen. McDowell about the same information that I had already given him. They were proceeding to post the troops on this information, in the belief that Gen. Banks' forces still had the field, but it proved that they had fallen back from the field, and Gen. McDowell and Gen. Pope were attached in the night greatly embarrassed by the credit that had given my representations and the representations of Gen. Banks, that his troops were still in the front, and holding the enemy in check.

Q.—In what way, and to what extent, did the nature of the ground assist in this misapprehension as to the position of Banks' corps?

A.—There was a wood of very considerable extent immediately between Gen. Banks' position and the place where Gen. McDowell halted his forces; it was thus getting dark, so that nothing of the position of the field or the troops on it could be seen by Gen. McDowell or Gen. Pope.

To the Court.—Gen. Martindale questioning.—The ground within which Gen. Pope proposed to attack Jackson on the 10th was the whole of McDowell's corps, and the corps of Sigel and Banks. (The with has here indicated on that map the positions of the several corps.) Gen. Pope proposed to attack the moment he could concentrate his forces—early on the 10th.

Q.—In sending Banks forward to Cedar Mountain, did Gen. Pope give directions to any of the corps to operate in supporting distance of Banks?

A.—Not to my knowledge.

Q.—Can you give any explanation why Gen. Banks was placed to a position where he was to be supported by the corps which he was liable to be attacked by, and did encounter a largely superior force of the enemy?

A.—I have no less than Gen. Banks would have been attacked by the enemy on the 9th if he had not made such demonstrations in front of him as to bring on the battle. I had been in the front for three days, and had seen, and knew, and reported to Gen. Pope what the force was; that there was no danger of an attack; that the reports of many of the rebels were greatly exaggerated. "It was only the advance of Hunter that reached Cedar Mountain on the 9th, that I considered the brigade of Crawford a sufficient force to hold him in check there that day. I had also information that the most of Jackson's force was behind and crossing the Rapidan on the morning of the 9th, neither I did not believe that Gen. Banks' position could be reached by them so as to fight him, or make the attack on the 9th. I do not think he was liable to be attacked by the enemy, but for his own demonstration against the enemy, and his belief that there was but a small force of the enemy. I will add that Gen. McDowell's position, five miles off, was within supporting distance, and that it was important that he should remain there to protect the road in the direction of Stevensburgh, and the way to the Rapidan. Two forces of the enemy at the battle of Cedar Mountain was the entire corps of Jackson's and Ewell's Divisions—say, at 35,000 men.

Q.—In the event of any danger to Gen. Banks at Cedar Mountain, was it not the duty of Gen. McDowell to go to his aid without special orders to that effect?

A.—That Gen. McDowell knew of any danger to Gen. Banks, I think it would have been his duty to go to him, and I have understood that he did go to him. He started without any orders.

Q.—You have spoken of batteries being put in position by the enemy, to which you called the attention of Gen. Banks. Did those batteries threaten the position held by Gen. Banks' forces?

A.—Gen. Banks' forces were under artillery fire from the time he came on the field. His batteries were put in position, replying with great effect on the enemy, (forcing several to change positions,) and silenced a number of their guns. The enemy acknowledged that it was the most destructive artillery practice of the war. I have never seen better artillery firing than that under Gen. Banks on that day.

Q.—State the general direction by points of the compass, held by Gen. Banks, and the position of his troops, before he concluded to advance and attack the enemy?

A.—His general direction was from east to west. His right was resting on a farm-house wood. His artillery was posted on a series of rolling hills, behind which his men were. The woods in which I told Gen. Banks the enemy had his troops massed were about a thousand yards from the first position of Gen. Banks. When I called his attention to them, he had advanced his right nearer to the woods. Gen. McDowell's advance brought him to about the centre of Gen. Banks' line. When the enemy attacked Gen. McDowell's forces, I was not present.

Q.—Was there anything to prevent the enemy which was massed in those woods on the right of Banks from making an attack, except the fatigue of the previous march?

A.—I know nothing else except the fact of their and the strength of the position of Gen. Banks. The enemy would have had to march a thousand yards across an open field to attack Banks. I have never yet known the Confederates to march out of woods in an open field to attack us. I think Gen. Banks advanced his line of battle from 600 to 1,000 yards.

Q.—Did you inform Gen. Banks that the attack which he proposed to make would transcend the instructions which you had communicated, that he should hold the enemy in check?

A.—I informed Gen. Banks that Gen. Pope did not expect him to attack.

Q.—Am we to understand that Gen. Banks' instructions permitted him to use his artillery against the enemy, but not to advance his troops if he should deem that the best mode of holding the enemy in check?

A.—I understood that he was to use his artillery as a matter of course, and that if he thought the best manner of holding the enemy in check was to advance his infantry, that he could properly do so under the orders of Gen. Pope. I presume Gen. Banks knew that McD'well's troops were posted on the road five miles distant, as he mentioned to them that morning, and reached the battle-field. I judge that he must have passed Gen. McDowell's troops about 9 or 10 in the morning, to reach the field at the time he did.

Q.—By Gen. McDowell.—Do you know if Gen. Pope's orders were on the 9th, that Gen. Sigel should follow Banks when the latter moved to the front?

A.—I heard that was the order. I think the first position of Gen. Banks was a better position for defence than any other in his front. I am quite sure that he did not advance with any view of securing a better position for defence.

Q.—Do you know why Gen. Sigel did not follow Gen. Banks to the front on the 9th, as was arranged by Gen. Pope?

A.—I have no facts of my own knowledge why he did not.

Q.—Do you know if Gen. Banks sent word back to Gen. McDowell's troops of his intention to make a decisive movement on the enemy, or that he would likely need their help?

A.—I know nothing about it.

Gen. Martindale asked whether Gen. Banks had made his official report of the battle of Cedar Mountain?

Gen. McDowell said that the Recorder of the Court, Lieut.-Col. L. H. Pelouze, was Assistant Adjutant-General to Gen. Banks, was present at the battle of Cedar Mountain, and was wounded there.

Col. Pelouze stated in reply that he prepared Gen. Banks' report, was submitted previous to Gen. Banks' departure for New-Orleans.

Q.—What order, if any, did you carry to Gen. Sigel on the 23d or 24th of August at Sulphur Springs, or at Waterloo Bridge on the 24th?

A.—On the 23d I carried an order to Gen. Sigel, who was at Sulphur Springs, that Gen. McDowell's forces on that day would be on his right; that Gen. Banks would support Sigel's corps on the left of his left. On the 24th I carried him an order for him to throw the whole of his forces across a creek in front of him and push the men to Sulphur Springs, and drive the enemy that might be there across the river. Gen. Pope wished that should be done with great dispatch, and I gave him the order that it should be done instantly with without waiting for his artillery to be crossed over. I informed him that we were then in possession of Warrenton, and that there was no enemy between his right and Warrenton that I knew of. McDowell had informed me of that the evening before. On the 25th, I carried him an order from Gen. Pope to move all of his forces upon any enemy that might be on the Warrenton side of Waterloo Bridge, and to drive that enemy over the river, and hold the bridge until further orders. I told him that I had directed Gen. Banks, who was immediately in his rear, and within I had just passed, to cooperate with him in this attack. At the same time, I informed him that Buford's Cavalry, with a battery, was on the Warrenton road, in front of Waterloo Bridge, and near it; that the order was imperative and urgent, and that he was to move forthwith, and execute it at all hazards.

Adjourned.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

THE DANGERS OF STEAM.

Terrific Boiler Explosion on a Government Transport.

Two Engineers, a Fireman, and a Coal Passer Instantly Killed.

A very serious catastrophe occurred at about 3½ o'clock yesterday morning, on board the Government steamer transport Tillie, at or near Sandy Hook, whereby four men were instantly killed. The particulars are as follows: A small steam propeller, named the Tillie has been built very recently in this City. She is owned by Messrs. N. L. & G. Gaswess and Messrs. S. P. & C. D. Lane, shipping merchants of South-street. We have no accurate information about her tonnage, but it does not probably exceed 200 tons. The boiler and other parts of her machinery were constructed at the well-known iron works of DELAMATER, foot of Thirteenth-street. Recently, and very soon after her completion, she made a trial trip, and everything in and about her was then pronounced sound, safe, and in fine working condition.

Accordingly, she was chartered by the Government as a transport, and sailed from her berth at a late hour on Saturday night, laden with army stores, &c., and bound for Beaufort, S. C. When she had arrived at or very near Sandy Hook, about 3½ o'clock yesterday morning, her boiler suddenly exploded, and so far it appears that no cause whatever can be assigned for the accident. WM. PARSONS, the second engineer, GEO. FLOYD, third engineer, and THOMAS WILSON, fireman, were instantly killed, partly by scalds and partly by reason of bruises received by being thrown against the machinery. Another man, whose name is unknown, but who was employed as a coal passer on board, was so severely injured that he died in about ten minutes after the explosion.

The Chief Engineer, Mr. THOMAS HAWKES, states that he left the engine-room about ten minutes before the explosion; that everything then was all right and working well; that there were three full cocks of water, and a much less pressure of steam on than she was warranted to carry with safety. The Captain of the steamer, Mr. HENRY A. BOGARDUS, also corroborates this statement, so far as he had the opportunity of knowing the facts.

The bodies of the two engineers and also that of the fireman, were most horribly mutilated by scalds, burns and bruises. The body of FLOYD, the Third Engineer, was thrown a long distance from the engine-room, where he and his companions were at the time, and it was with great difficulty that his remains could be extricated from under a shed where they were found. They were finally taken out in pieces and pieces in a sack, in order to keep them together and preserve them as well as possible for the Coroner's Jury to view them.

The disabled steamer was towed back, and anchored in the North River, off the Battery, yesterday, and in the latter part of the day, Coroner HAYWARD, accompanied by his Deputy, Dr. BAKER, boarded her for the purpose of making an examination of the matter, if possible, of holding an inquest upon them. After viewing the remains, however, and after listening to the statements of the Captain, Chief Engineer and one or two of the officers of the steamer, the Coroner decided that the ends of justice demanded that a scientific examination should be made of the boiler and boiler in their present condition, and that testimony should be produced as to the manner in which the latter was constructed. An examination will accordingly be made this morning, by experts in the business of engineering, immediately after which the Coroner will proceed to hold an inquest upon the bodies.

PARSONS, the Second Engineer, was about 25 years of age, and was a native of Norwich in the State of Connecticut. FLOYD, the Third Engineer, was 19 years of age, and WILSON, the fireman, was aged 18 years. The fourth victim—the coal passer,—had been but a few hours on board, and no information has yet been obtained as to his name or antecedents. The latter spoke a few words after the explosion before he [illegible] Co. We never saw the house and cattle, that the wind had passed of from the face, body, and limbs, and [illegible] we thought someone is to be master with us, but there was anything very serious the matter with the man, though of the house he "take him out of the water, and then he would be all right." In about five minutes after he expired.

Coroner Naumann is determined to give the affair a thorough investigation, to the end that the blame or responsibility, if such there be, may fall upon those who are guilty.

ANOTHER STATEMENT.

The following statement is given by our Ship-News reporter:

The U. S. transport THOS. H. A. BOURNE, master, left the coal-yard dock at Jersey City at 4 P. M. January 10, and proceeded as far as Gravesend Bay, where at 5:30 P. M. she anchored—an easterly storm prevailing. At 12:30 A. M. Sunday got under way, and at 2:30 the arch of one of the furnaces gave way—the steam killing the Second Engineer, WM. PARSONS, Third Engineer, GEORGE FLOYD; THOS. WELLS, a fireman, and a coal passer, who had just shipped, and had not signed the ship's articles—name not known. Also returned and anchored off the battery.

Shinplasters.

SENSIBLE PEOPLE WONT TAKE THEM.

Very few persons are aware of the extent to which shinplasters, corporate and individual, are circulating in our midst. Of the fact also, that the great MAJORITY ARE COUNTERFEIT they are likewise unaware, although of its truth there is not the slightest doubt. We have seen a file of corporation tokens nominally valued at $450, of which $220 were counterfeit; we have seen a pile of private shinplasters, whose facial value was $126, whose aggregate worth was nil; we have seen an individual who, on behalf of himself and associates, presented a pile of corporation shinplasters to the Treasurer of a city not 200 miles from here, who informed the proprietor that out of his $300 demand upon the City Treasury but $150 were of any value, and we have now before us the shinplaster of an individual in this City, whose debts are unpaid, whose reputation as a man of honor is not above reproach, and whose cashbox is an exceedingly small one.

There are, too, counterfeits upon the National Postal Currency, but they are easily detected, though there are but few who give themselves the least trouble as to the genuineness of anything which has U. S. on it. There are scoffers who do their best to depreciate the Postal Currency, who insist upon it that these green-backed issues of ABRAHAM are like the Jews, who know not that their Redeemer liveth, and who try to excite the prejudice of the community against it; but such attempts are, of course, futile.

There is but one

SAFE FRACTIONAL CURRENCY,

and that is the National Postal Currency. All others should be swept from the channels of trade.

Already shinplasters

ARE REFUSED BY

The several Ferry Companies,
Sundry railway corporations,
The Times,
The Herald,
The Tribune,
The World,
The Evening Post,
The Express,
The Commercial Advertiser,
All the large retail stores,
The principal restaurants,

And by every one who has the integrity of his pocket-book at heart. We trust that, with these facts glaring our readers full in the eyes, they will refuse absolutely to touch or handle any more this unclean thing.

Secretary Chase in New-York.

Mr. CHASE, the Assistant-Treasurer of the United States, received at his house, on Saturday evening, Mr. CHASE, the Secretary of the Treasury, and the leading Bank Presidents and Bankers of New-York. A very interesting interchange of views on financial topics took place, and the party was altogether a most delightful and satisfactory one.

GENERAL CITY NEWS.

A FIRE IN LIBERTY-STREET.—Near 1 o'clock on Sunday morning, flames were discovered issuing from the windows of the fourth story of the brick building known as No. 15 Liberty-street. Owing to the prompt action of the firemen, the fire was confined to the premises where it originated. Mr. GEORGE EUTS, manufacturer of imitation coral beads, occupied the fourth floor. His loss to stock and fixtures is estimated at over $1,000; he is fully insured. The first floor, which is connected with No. 20 Liberty-street, is occupied by Messrs. WM. DEMUTH & Co., importers and dealers in tobacco and cigars. Their loss is estimated at about $300—damage mostly by water. This firm was insured on their stock as follows: In the Irving Insurance Company, $3,000; Continental, $2,000; Home, $2,000; Central Park, $1,000; Etna of New-York, $1,000; Relief, $1,000; Excelsior, $1,000; Lord Exchange, $1,000. The fifth floor was occupied by Messrs. BARNES & MARSH, printers. Their stock was damaged by water to the amount of $200—said to be insured. The fourth floor over No. 20, occupied by C. F. DURANT, book-ruler, was slightly damaged by water. The third floor was occupied by A. B. BARNES, book-binder. His loss on stock will be about $200—fully insured. On the same floor were two furniture offices, occupied by S. MCBEAN and C. A. ALEXANDER. Their stock was considerably damaged by water. Mr. LOUIS BAZEN occupied the basement as a restaurant; his stock was much damaged by water. Mr. B. is fully insured in City companies. The building is owned by HALLOCK & Co. It is damaged to the amount of about $500, and is fully insured. The origin of the fire is at present unknown. It is the intention of Fire Marshal BAKER to investigate the matter to-day.

CONSECRATION OF A FRENCH EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—The newly-erected French Episcopal Church (Rev. Dr. VERREN, Rector) in Twenty-second-street, between the Fifth and Sixth avenues, is to be consecrated to-morrow (Tuesday) morning—services to commence at 10½ o'clock. Right Rev. Bishop POTTER, assisted by several of our most eminent Episcopalian clergymen, will officiate on the occasion. The Vestry of the church have extended invitations to a number of distinguished divines of other denominations. Invitations have also been sent to a large number of prominent citizens—many of them descendants of those French Huguenots whose names figure in the archives of this Church, and who were among the earliest settlers of this country. The church is most conveniently located; and as the French language is now one of the accomplishments of even an ordinary education, we have no doubt that it will soon claim a full and fashionable congregation. For the present, it is understood, a French day morning, though arrangements are being made to have an English service in the evening. Several of the most popular preachers of the Episcopal Church, have, we believe, offered to officiate in turn, on these occasions. The sale of the pews is advertised to take place on Thursday evening next, at ½ o'clock.

AMERICAN TEMPERANCE LEAGUE.—A meeting was held on Saturday evening last, at No. 27 New Bowery, for the formation of the American Temperance League. Hon. C. C. LEBRE was called to the Chair. The following officers were elected unanimously: President—Hon. C. C. LEBRE. Vice-Presidents—Hon. George HALL, Revs. Charles J. Jones, Edward Cowles, Levi Wells Hart, Mr. P. T. Barnum and other well known friends of temperance. Treasurer—Charles Hoffman. Secretary—Henry Dunne. Considerable business was done and the meeting finally adjourned to Saturday the 17th inst., at same place.

DEPARTURES TO-DAY.—In the steamship Ocean Queen, which to-day takes away a long list of passengers for the Golden State, Mr. J. W. RAYMOND, for many years prominently identified with the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, and Mr. JOHN T. HOWARD, one of the pioneers of American steam navigation, sail on account for California. Mr. RAYMOND's family go with him.

AID FOR THE FRENCH BODY GUARD.—The publishers of Mrs. FERNANDI's Story of the Guard have generously sent over $100 to the widows and orphans of the fallen heroes of the famous "Body Guard." Such is the success of the book that the publishers are hardly able to fulfill their advanced orders.

LECTURES ON JAPAN.—Dr. MACGOWAN will deliver the second of his course of lectures on Japan, at the Cooper Institute, this evening. The third will be delivered on the 19th inst.

AN UNKNOWN MAN DROWNED.—Officer EGAN, of the First Precinct, found the body of an unknown man in the water at Pier No. 4 East River. Coroner GUMBY held an inquest upon the body yesterday. The deceased had been in the water but a short time. No information, however, could be obtained as to his name or residence. He was about 40 years of age, was dressed in a soldier's uniform, with Connecticut buttons on his coat, and had every appearance of being a sober man. He was 5 feet 7 inches in hight, and had sandy-colored hair and whiskers.

TAMMANY.—The Young Men's General Committee of Tammany Hall, organized by the reelection of HARRY HOWARD as Chairman, FREDERIC J. BYRNE and EDWARD WALSH, Secretaries, and ROBERT D. LOTHERSTEIN, Treasurer. The Committee intend to actively cooperate with the Democracy during the year.

LAW REPORTS.

COURT CALENDAR—THIS DAY.

SUPREME COURT—CIRCUIT.—Part I.—Nos. 912, 917, 927, 931, 933, 935, 937, 942, 945, 947, 949, 953, 957, 963, 965, 969, 971, 973, 975, 977. Part II.—Nos. 496, 724, 726, 728, 730, 732, 734, 744, 766, 768, 878, 786, 796, 798, 800, 838, 842, 860, 864, 872. Part III.—Nos. 839, 857, 858, 643, 639, 519, 869, 869, 644, 416, 537, 899, 898, 926, 919, 921, 922, 924.

SUPREME COURT—SPECIAL TERM.—Nos. Demurrer 11. Issues of law and fact.—180, 212, 214, 221, 237, 238, 242, 243, 244, 248, 249, 250, 251, 162, 253, 254, 255, 257, 258.

SUPREME COURT—TRIAL TERM.—Part I.—Nos. 3091, 3070, 3133, 1263, 1277, 1207, 852, 1905, 2840, 1209, 1219, 1221, 1223, 1225, 1230. Part II.—Nos. 1214, 1216, 1218, 1220, 1228, 1232, 864, 2070, 2094, 2082, 1242, 1244, 1246, 1252.

COMMON PLEAS—TRIAL TERM.—Part I.—Nos. 1017, 1018, 1019, 1020, 1021, 1022, 1023, 1024, 1025, 1026, 1027, 1028, 618, 612, 607. Part II.—Nos. 999, 1003, 1005, 1011, 1012, 1013, 1014, 783, 935, 1019, 1029, 1030, 1031, 1032.

MONETARY AFFAIRS.

Sales at the Stock Exchange, Jan. 10, 1862.

$2,500	U. S. 6s '67...Reg	97¾	250	Erie Railway	60¾
21,000	U. S. 6s '81...Reg	99¾	100	do	s10 60⅞
3,000	U.S. 6s '81, Cou.	97¾	100	do	s15 60⅞
7,000	do	97¾	50	do	s10 60⅞
500	U. S. Tr. 7 3-10 p. c. Notes, small	108	200	do	b30 60
2,000	do	102¾	50	do	b15 60⅞
8,000	do	102¾	430	Erie Railway Pref	90
2,000	U. S. 6s, 1 yr. C.	99⅞	100	do	s10 90
15,000	do	99⅞	100	do	s10 90⅞
3,000	Ill. War Loan	103	100	do	s10 90⅞
10,000	Tenn. 6s '90	60⅞	200	do	90
1,000	do	60	200	Hudson Riv. R.	s30 37¾
5,000	Georgia St. 6s	80	100	do	s15 38
25,000	Mo. St. 6s	66	100	do	s15 38
18,000	do	63¾	200	do	s30 38
10,000	do	b30 64¾	100	do	38⅞
5,000	do	b10 63¾	250	do	38⅞
5,000	do	b30 63¾	100	do	s10 38⅞
40,000	do	63¾	300	do	38⅞
5,000	do	b10 63¾	100	Harlem R.	b10 30
4,000	N. C. St. 6s	75	1300	do	30
1,000	Erie 6s Mt. Bds.	103	400	do	30⅛
5,000	Ind. R. 1st M.	118	1200	do	30⅛
5,000	Ind. R. Con. B.	103	75	do	30⅛
2,000	Mich. Cen. 6s Ca. 1st M. S. F. Bo.	121	50	Harlem R. Pref	63
4,000	Mich. S. 2d m	100	100	do	s10 64
19,000	A. & T. H. Inc. Bds.	70	200	do	s30 64
10,000	Clev. & P. 6s m. bd.	88¾	1000	M. S. & N. In. B.	62
18,000	Al. & T. H. In Bd.	75	400	do	61⅞
500	Ch. & N. W. S. F. B.	100	300	do	61⅞
400	C. & N. W. In. B.	86	200	do	b10 61⅞
12,000	C. & N. W. Sinl. bo.	60	200	do	61⅞
10,000	C. & N. W. 2d Mt	41¾	200	do	s30 61⅞
10,000	do	41¾	200	do	s30 61⅞
2,000	H. & St. J. Bds.	45	15	Panama Railroad	130
20,000	Tol. & W. 1st M.	105	40	M. C. Railroad	93
6,000	do	104¾	200	do	93⅛
5,000	Tol. & W. 2d m.	77	1500	M. S. & N. I. G. S.	91¾
18,000	Mil. & P. du C. In.	110	40	do	91¾
2,000	Cl. & Tol. S. F.	100¾	200	Ill. C. R. Scrip	86
10,000	P. F. W. & C. 2d M.	97¾	10	do	86⅞
2,000	P. F. W. & C. 1st.	100	200	do	85⅞
2,000	Cin. & Pitts. Gold	78¾	200	do	85⅞
20	Merchants' Bank	100	200	Gal. & Ch. R.	96⅞
100	Mechanics' Bank	104	400	do	96⅞
25	Bank of Commerce	94¾	100	do	s10 95
37	do	94¾	200	do	b30 95⅞
60	Am. Ex. Bank	87	700	Clev. & Tol. R.	62
17	do	87¾	400	do	s30 61⅞
19	Hanover Bank	98	1000	do	s30 61⅞
110	Metropolitan Bank	103	700	do	s30 60⅞
25	Shoe & Leather Bk.	100	200	do	s30 60⅞
10	Park Bank	115	245	do	61
100,000	American Gold	127	300	do	b10 61⅞
20,000	do	b30 127¾	200	do	61
2,000	do	128¾	1000	do	60⅞
100	Nic. Tran. Co.	5¾	50	Chic. & R. I. R.	b10 84⅞
100	Canton Company	39¾	200	do	84⅞
125	do	39	100	do	84⅞
100	do	39	200	do	s30 84⅞
200	do	39¾	5	Ch., Bur. & Q. R.	86
15	Del. & Hud. Can. Co.	132¾	400	do	86⅞
20	do	134	6	Mil. & Pr. Du C. R.	62
50	Penn. Coal Co.	123	32	do	62¾
470	Cum. Coal Pref.	19	100	do	s30 62
200	do	19¾	200	do	62⅛
1200	do	20	50	do	62⅛
440	do	19¾	100	Del., Lac. & W. R.	131¾
200	do	b30 20	300	do	131
1000	Cleve. & Pitts. R.	62	400	Pitts., Ft. W. & C. R.	62
200	do	62	100	do	s30 62
25	Pac. Mail S. Co.	s15 145	200	do	62⅛
200	do	146¾	100	do	62
250	do	145¾	400	do	62¾
125	do	146	50	do	s30 62¾
100	do	146	100	Alt. & T. H. R.	34
500	N. Y. Cen. R.	112	150	do	34
25	do	111¾	250	do	33⅞
50	do	s15 111¾	150	Alt. & T. H. Pf.	67
1000	Reading Railroad	48	50	do	67⅞
100	Mor. & Wor. R.	76	50	do	68

SECOND BOARD.

$1,000	U. S. 6s '81...Reg.	97¾	1400	Erie Railway	70¾
16,000	U. S. 6s '81, Cou.	97¾	300	do	70¾
20,000	do	97	100	Erie R. Pref.	100¾
1,000	Treas. 7 3.10 p. c. Notes	102¾	50	do	s3 100¾
2,000	do	102¾	50	do	b15 100¾
8,000	do	102¾	200	do	100¾
15,000	U. S. 6s, 1 yr. C.	99¾	200	do	100
5,000	Ill. War Loan	103	200	Hud. Riv. R.	40⅛
10,000	U. S. 6s, 1 yr. C.	99⅞	200	do	40⅛
22,000	do	99⅞	200	do	40⅛
6,000	U. S. D. Mts	136¾	200	do	40⅛
20,000	Mo. St. 6s	66	100	do	s30 40⅛
10,000	do	b30 65¾	2600	Harlem Railroad	22
10,000	do	64¾	200	do	b10 22
16,000	Tenn. St. 6s '90	61	200	Harlem R. Pref.	s30 64
2,000	Ill. War Loan	103	100	do	64
1,000	P. F. W. & C. 1st M.	110	100	do	s10 64
20,000	A. & T. H. Inc. Bds.	70	500	do	s30 64
1,000	Mich. Cen. S. F.	103¾	1000	Reading R.	48⅛
10,000	Clev. & P. 6s m. bd.	88¾	200	Michigan Cen. R.	63¾
5,000	do	79¾	100	do	64⅛
2,000	Ch. & N. W. I. Bd.	86	300	do	64
2,000	do	86	200	do	64⅛
11,000	Al. & T. H. 2d M. P.	65	100	do	b30 64⅛
5,000	P. F. W. & C. Gd.	79	200	M. S. & N. I. R.	46⅞
100,000	Amer. Gold	128¾	100	do	s30 46⅞
30,000	do	b60 128¾	200	do	b30 46⅞
30,000	do	128¾	200	M. S. & N. I. G.	23
10,000	do	b30 128¾	700	do	22⅞
5	Ch. & R. Isl. R.	88	200	do	s30 22⅞
200	do	88	400	Ill. Cen. R. Scrip	86¾
500	Cumb. Coal Pref.	22	200	do	b30 87
100	do	b3 22¾	400	Clev. & Pitt. R.	66
100	do	22¾	200	do	s30 66
200	do	22¾	200	do	66¾
50	do	22¾	200	Gal. & Chic. R.	96⅞
100	Pacific M. S. Co.	146	2000	Clev. & Tol. R.	63
100	do	146¾	700	do	b10 63
120	do	146¾	200	do	62⅞
100	do	147	200	do	b30 62
25	do	s5 147	50	do	s30 62
100	do	147¾	100	Chi. Bur. & Q. R.	86⅞
200	do	148	100	Alt. & T. H. R.	b30 34
270	N. Y. Cen. R.	113¾	25	do	34
100	do	s10 114¾	11	Pt. Ft. W. & Ch. R.	62
300	do	114¾	100	do	62
50	do	114¾	25	do	63¾
1200	do	114	400	do	b30 64¾
200	do	s10 114¾	50	Canton Company	22¾
500	do	b3 115¾	400	do	22¾
200	do	b30 115¾	50	do	b30 22¾
100	Del. & H. Can. Co.	134

PUBLIC BOARD—1 P. M.

$20,000	U. S. D. N	136¾	50	N. Y. Cen. R.	113
150,000	do	136¾	100	Erie R. Pref.	99¾
5,000	Mo. State 6s	64	600	Hud. R. R.	39
15,000	Amer. Gold	127¾	600	Harlem R. Pref.	62¾
95,000	do	127¾	300	do	62¾
130,000	do	127¾	200	M. S. & N. I.	46
245	Pacific M. S. Co.	145¾	200	M. S. & N. I. G. S.	21¾
50	do	146	100	Clev. & Toledo R.	61
50	Erie Railway	60¾	100	Ch. & R. I. R.	85¾
100	do	60¾	50	do	85¾
50	do	b30 60¾

PUBLIC BOARD—3 P. M.

$15,000	Tenn. 6s '90	60¾	600	Erie R. Pref.	100¾
	Notes	102¾	50	do	100¾
10,000	do	102¾	100	Hudson R. R.	40¾
10,000	Dett Certif.	97	106	do	s10 40¾
60,000	Amer. Gold	128¾	200	Harlem R.	62¾
70,000	do	128	100	do	62
10,000	do	s10 128¾	25	do	62
15,000	do	s10 128¾	200	Harlem R. Pref.	65
65,000	U. S. D. Mts	136¾	100	Reading R.	48¾
60,000	do	136¾	400	Mich. Cen. R.	65
15,000	Mo. St. 6s	64¾	100	do	64¾
15,000	Mo. St. 6s	65	200	do	64¾
10,000	do	65¾	100	M. S. & N. I.	46
10,000	do	64¾	100	do	46⅞
25,000	do	65¾	1000	do	46¾
10,000	do	64¾	200	M. S. & N. I. G.	22
100	Canton Co.	39	100	do	22⅞
150	do	39¾	400	Ill. Cen. R.	87
100	do	39¾	100	Pitts. Ft. W. & Ch. R.	62
200	do	39¾	200	Gal. & Chic. R.	97¾
100	do	39¾	100	do	97¾
50	do	39¾	100	do	97¾
100	do	39¾	100	do	97¾
200	Del., Lack. & W. R.	132	300	do	83¾
150	Pitts. F. S. Co.	140	1200	do	83¾
100	do	140¾	500	do	83¾
100	N. Y. Cen. R.	115	200	do	83¾
100	Erie Railway	60¾	200	Chic. R. I. R.	85
100	do	60¾	200	do	84¾
100	do	60¾	100	do	84¾
500	do	b30 60¾	100	do	84¾
1100	do	60¾	50	do	84¾
500	M. & P. Du C.	45

Monday, Jan. 13—A. M.

The excitement through the last week is without precedent in the magnitude of the speculation, and with few parallels in the history of the past ten or twelve years in the rapid advance in prices. A similar feeling is being renewed in trade circles in many of the staple articles of Domestic and Foreign Merchandise, after a comparative lull of one or two months. The market for Money favors the upward movement, not so much in the cheap rates as in the freedom of supply since the New Year. American Gold Coin participates in the speculation, and having gone up 4 ⅌ cent. since the close of the previous week, Exchange on London is advanced in the same proportion, and closed on Saturday at about 153 ⅌ cent. for first-class Bankers.

The speculation in Stocks reached its highest point on Friday morning, when Erie Shares sold as high as 71¼ ⅌ cent., and most of the other Railways in like proportion. Later in the day, it was known that the Secretary of the Treasury was about to visit the City, and under the impression that his object was a temporary loan of considerable magnitude from the Associated Banks, which would temporarily disturb the Money market, a reaction, which lasted until about noon on Saturday, took place, the lowest point being indicated by sales of Erie at 68¼ ⅌ cent. Soon after it was announced on sufficient authority that, while our Bankers had been invited to meet Mr. CHASE socially, at the up-town residence of the Assistant Treasurer, in the evening, the purpose of his visit was not to raise a Loan. The subsequent dealings on the Stock Exchange were of the same excited nature as on Friday, and the closing prices nearly as high, as noted in the outside figures of the following table:

COURSE OF THE STOCK EXCHANGE FOR THE WEEK.

American Gold Coin	134¼@138¼	138¼@138¼	138¼@138¼	138¼@138¼	138¼@138¼
U. S. Notes for Customs	99	99	99	99	99
U. S. 6 ⅌ cents, 1881	99	99	99	99	99
U. S. Treasury Bds. 7.30 ⅌ cts	102¾	102¾	102¾	102¾	102¾
New-York Central	107¼	107¼@108	107¼@108	107¼@108	107¼@108
New-York and Erie	60¾	61¼	60¾	60¾	60¾
Erie Preferred Shares	97¾	101	99¾	100¾	100¾
Rock Island	63¾	63	62¾	62¾	62¾
Michigan Guaranteed	60¾	60¾	60¾	62¾	62¾
Michigan Southern	48¾	49	48¾	48¾	48¾
Michigan Central	60¾	60	60¾	60¾	60¾
Toledo	77¾	80¾	80¾	80¾	80¾
Galena	89	90	89	90	90
Illinois Central	63¾	64¾	64¾	64¾	64¾
Panama	171	175
Pacific Mail	136¾	146¾	146¾	146¾	146¾
Missouri	61¾	67¾	66¾	66¾	66¾
Tennessee	58	64	64¾	64¾	64¾
Hudson River	42¾	40¾
Harlem Preferred	56¾	65
Cleveland and Pittsburgh	56¾	60¾
Harlem Common	26	22

From what has since occurred between the Secretary and our principal Bankers and private Capitalists, we are led to suppose that one of his objects in visiting New-York, at the present moment—following the unanimous but respectful decision of the Committee of Ways and Means, that they could not report his Free Banking Scheme as part or parcel of the main Treasury Bill of the Session—was to attempt to enlist a further sentiment in its favor through the Banking influence of this City, as an alternative to the more direct issue of United States Notes of lawful tender by the Government. What success may eventually attend this endeavor it would, perhaps, be premature to say. Thus far we are inclined to think he has met but little encouragement. As we shall have occasion to recur to this matter soon, we postpone for the present any further remarks upon it.

The import entries of the past week, including the Dry Goods return in our last paper, amount to $3,909,759 against $1,889,567 same week last season. The export clearances of Domestic Produce amount to $3,250,153, against $2,246,010 same week in 1861. The Export of Specie is $802,000.

We hope to be able, in a few days, to receive from the Custom House the official Trade returns for December, which will complete the tables for the calendar year 1862, and enable us to resume our weekly comparative summary as from the beginning of the current Fiscal Year, July 1, 1862.

The following are the last bidding prices on Saturday of the Railway mortgages, which continue in free demand at rising figures:

N. Y. Cen. 1s '76	117	Ill. Cen. 7 ⅌ c. '75	114
N. Y. Cen. 7s, conv. '76	120	St. L., Al. & T. H. 1sts	102
Erie first, '82	120	T. H. & A. 2ds. Pref.	60
Erie seconds, '76	116	L. C. & Mil. L. G. Bds.	30
Erie thirds, '83	112	Chi. & N. W. s. f.	106¼
Erie fourths, '90	108	Chi. & N. W. Ap. Ex.	60
Erie fifths, '95	102	Chi. & N. W. Int. Bds.	66
Buf., N. Y. & E. 1st, '77	109	Chi. & N. W. 1st 2d s.	60
Hudson first, '60	117	Chi. & N. W. 1sts Am.	68
Hudson seconds, '66	112¼	Chi. & N. W. seconds	41¾
Hudson thirds, '84	95¾	Chi. & N. W. 1sts	95
Hudson convert. '87	103	Lack. & W. Bonds	115
Harlem first, '60, '73	110	Tol. & Wab. firsts	104¾
Harlem seconds, '64	106	Tol. & Wab. seconds	67
Harlem thirds, '68	90	Mil. & P. du Chien 1sts	110
Hudson Con. s. f. '82	114	Gal. & Chi. 1sts	105
Mich. C. 1s. f. 1 ⅌ c. '82	121	Clev. & Toledo S. F.	106¾
Chi. B. & Q. 8 ⅌ c. 1sts	119	N. Jer. Cen. 2ds	110
Mich. So. 7 ⅌ c. 2ds	99	Pitts., Ft. W. & C. 1sts	109
Mich. S. & N. I. s. f. 7 ⅌ c.	108	Pitts., Ft. W. & C. 2ds.	97¾

CLEVELAND AND PITTSBURGH ROAD, DEC. 1.

Construction account	$7,771,062
Personal property	48,118
Telegraph	16,913
Balance of personal accounts	26,360
Assets in hands of Receiver	389,191
Total	$8,251,646
Dr.
Capital stock	$3,832,712
First Mortgage Bond	600,000
Second Mortgage Bond	1,180,000
Third Mortgage Bond	1,166,000
Funded debt Mortgage Bonds	1,059,028
River Line Bonds	20,000
Dividend Bonds	75,077
Income Bonds	18,500
Bills payable	94,329
Total	$8,251,646
Passenger Receipts for year	$435,027
Freight	930,410
Mails, Express, Rents, &c.	70,879
	$1,436,317
Expenses of operations	862,064
Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne & Chicago Lease	85,000
Interest on first Mortgage Bonds	65,720
Interest on second Mortgage Bonds	69,480
Interest on third Mortgage Bonds	61,490
Interest on Funded Debt Mortgage Bonds	26,285
General Interest and Exchange	30,651
New Engines and Cars	30,219
New Bridges, Station-houses, &c.	43,581
Leaving Surplus Earnings	227,391
Total	$1,436,317

It affords us much pleasure to announce that the Hudson River Railroad has resumed its dividends to the Shareholders, at the rate of 6 ⅌ cent. per annum. The January Dividend was declared by the Directors on Saturday, payable in cash on 11th February.

We understand that Mr. WATTS SHERMAN sails for California to-day, to be absent a month or two, for the purpose, in part, of extending the relations and business of the Banking-House of DUNCAN, SHERMAN & Co. with that rich and prosperous young State, and the Pacific Coast generally.

GENERAL MARKETS.

New-York, Saturday, Jan. 10, 1862—6 P. M.

The receipts of the principal kinds of Produce since our last, have been: 47 bbls. Ashes, 16,092 bbls. Flour, 4,002 bbls. and 534 bags Corn Meal, 913 bushels Wheat, 17,472 bushels Corn, 400 bushels Rye, 2,548 bushels Barley, 68,218 bushels Oats, 2,945 bushels Malt, 4,909 pkgs. Provisions, and 483 bbls. Whisky.

ASHES—Sales 40 tcs. at $6 50 for Pots, and $8 for Pearls, ⅌ 100 lbs. Stock in the Inspection Warehouse this morning: 662 bbls., including 481 bbls. Pots, and 181 bbls. Pearls.

BARK—Sales in Philadelphia, 75 hhds. No. 1 Quercitron at $35⅌ton ⅌ ton.

BOOTS AND SHOES—Trade exhibits very little animation at present, though there are some country buyers in market. Stocks are moderate, and prices very firm. The Boston Commercial Bulletin says:

A few Western buyers have made seasonable Boots and Shoes are at present so limited that there is no conside-

[illegible]

[illegible] Tallow at the [illegible] cents, and in [illegible] cents, with a great variety of [illegible] ALL WOOL, former price $1 10 and $1 25. 200 PIECES FANCY DRESS GOODS, from 20 to 40 cents, formerly 25 to 60 cents.

Also,

PLAIN and FANCY SILKS, SHAWLS, CLOAKS, &c., with a great variety of

GOODS AT THE SAME REDUCTION.

GREAT BARGAINS IN CLOAKS.

E. S. MILLS & CO.

OFFER THIS WEEK THEIR STOCK OF BEAVER, VELVET, AND PLUSH CLOAKS MUCH BELOW FORMER PRICES. FINE WOOLEN VELVET CLOAKS VERY CHEAP. NO. 307 BROADWAY.

AT KINZEY'S.

GREAT CLEARING SALE OF FALL AND WINTER GOODS. COMMENCING ON MONDAY, 10 A. M. $25,000 worth of EMBROIDERIES, LACES, VELVETS, SILKS, FLOWERS, FEATHERS, TRIMMINGS, RIBBONS, BONNETS, BLOOMERS, HOSIERY, GLOVES, &c. &c. 5,000 Dozen Linen HANDKERCHIEFS AT LESS YEAR'S PRICES. LADIES' FINE ALL LINEN, 1c., 1½c., 2c., 3c. LADIES' FINE FINE GRASS LINEN, 12c. GENTS' ALL LINEN, 12c., 15c., 18c., 20c. FINE WORKED SETS at 12 Cents for the DOLLAR. Extra, 25c. worth at 12c. WORKED COLLARS CLOSING OUT. NEEDLEWORK EMBROIDERIES, 3c. 1,000 Fine Worked HANDKERCHIEFS, 50c. in $1.00. Fine Linen and Lace Edgings, 3c. per yard. LARGE STOCK OF RIBBONS. BONNET RIBBONS, 6c. to 37c. TRIMMING RIBBONS, 6c. piece up. TRIMMING VELVETS CLOSING CHEAP. FELT BONNETS AND BLOOMERS. Fine Felt BLOOMERS, 25c., 37c., 50c., 62c. Fine Felt BONNETS, closing 75c. 3,500 yards DRESS TARLETONS, DOUBLE WIDTH, 12c., 16c., 20c. 4,000 Yards, all Colors, in Silk Illusions Double width, for Dresses, 20c., 25c. yard. 25,000 Dozens Spool Cotton. Good Basting Cotton, 2 spools 1c. Best 200 yard Cotton, 4c. Lot of genuine Orrs and Macnaughts, 4c. Best Crochet Cotton, half price, 4c. Lot of fine French Cotton, 3c. Lot Spools, linen finish, 3c. Best Rolls Twilled Tapes, 2c. Worsted Skirt Braids, all colors, 3c. Finest Alpaca Braids, 3c. yard. Best Bind and Steel Skirts, 25c. GLOVE DEPARTMENT. Lot of silk-lined Gloves, 12c. Lot of Ladies' Fleece lined, 10c. Lot of fine Gloves, in every style, 12c. to 75c. Fine Kersey Sleeves for Ladies, 18c. Woolen Hoods, 37c., 50c., 62c. Lot of Gents' Half Hose, 6c. Ladies' fine Ribbed Wool Hose, 25c. With 1,500 lots of goods of every description, to be sold in order to take stock. Fancy Goods of every description. WM. KINZEY, Nos. 224 and 226 6th-av., between 21st and 22d sts.

BARGAINS EXTRAORDINARY.

GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICES.

ALL OUR IMMENSE STOCK REDUCED IN PRICE FROM 20 TO 50 PER CENT.

ALL OUR STOCK OF FASHIONABLE CLOAKS AT REDUCED PRICES.

ALL OUR STOCK OF RICH PARIS DRESS GOODS AT REDUCED PRICES.

$6 00 Beaver Cloaks for $4 50.
$8 00

The New-York Times.

NEW-YORK, MONDAY, JAN. 12, 1863.

ADVERTISEMENTS THIS EVENING.

WINTER GARDEN—THE CHIMNEY CORNER—THE FRENCH SPY.

LAURA KEENE'S THEATRE—PRIDE OF THE MARKET.

WALLACK'S—THE INVISIBLE HUSBAND.

STUYVESANT INSTITUTE—(No. 659 Broadway) BUCKLEY'S SERENADERS.

COOPER INSTITUTE—DR. MACGOWAN ON JAPAN.

GOUPIL'S GALLERY—(No. 772 Broadway,) CHURCH'S NEW PICTURE, UNDER NIAGARA.

NIBLO'S GARDEN—FAUST AND MARGUERITE.

BROADWAY MENAGERIE—COMPLETE SCHOOL OF NATURAL HISTORY.

BARNUM'S MUSEUM—MISS LIVINIA WARREN, the Queen of Beauty, Gen. Nutt, &c., at all hours—CURIOUS HAWK afternoon and evening.

BANVARD'S NEW HALL OF ART (No. 661 Broadway)—BANVARD'S PANORAMA OF THE MISSISSIPPI AND THE WAR.

BROOKLYN ARENA—CLASSIC AND MODERN GYMNASTICS.

THE NEW-YORK TIMES.

The price of the NEW-YORK TIMES (Daily) hereafter will be THREE CENTS, except of the Sunday morning edition, which will be FOUR CENTS.

To Mail Subscribers the price will be $8 per annum—including the Sunday morning edition, it will be $10.

The price of the SEMI-WEEKLY TIMES, will be:

One copy one year	$2 00
Two copies one year	3 00
Five copies one year	12 00

The price of the WEEKLY TIMES will be:

One copy one year	$2 00
Three copies one year	5 00
Ten copies one year	15 00
Twenty copies one year	28 00

Payments invariably in advance.

To any person who will send us a Club of Twenty, the SEMI-WEEKLY TIMES will be sent gratuitously for one year. To any one sending us a Club of Fifty, the DAILY TIMES will be sent gratis for one year. Address

H. J. RAYMOND & Co., Publishers.

NEW-YORK, Dec. 4.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE REBELLION.

We have at last authentic advices from Vicksburgh, a dispatch-boat having arrived at Cairo from the mouth of the Yazoo. It appears that the repulse of Gen. SHERMAN was complete, and the entire force under the direction of Gen. MCCLERNAND, reembarked on transports, closely pressed by the enemy—who, however, coming too near the gunboats, were driven back with heavy loss. At last accounts, the expedition had arrived at Island No. 82, on the way to Napoleon. The fighting at Vicksburgh has evidently been much exaggerated, as our losses are now stated at only 800 killed, 1,500 wounded, and 1,000 missing.

The steamship Creole arrived at this port last evening, from New-Orleans on the evening of the 3d inst., bringing the highly important intelligence that Galveston has been recaptured by the rebels, under command of Gen. MAGRUDER. The news was obtained by the Purser of the Creole from the gunboat Clifton, which passed in over the Bar at Southwest Pass as the Creole came out, on the evening of the 3d. It appears that the place was attacked by land and water on the morning of the 1st inst. Col. BURRELL and his men, who were on shore, were all killed or taken prisoners. Five rebel steamers, barricaded with cotton bales, made an attack on the Harriet Lane, and carried her by boarding. Capt. WAINWRIGHT, Lieut. LEE and all the men were killed or captured. Capt. WILSON, of the Owasco, was killed. Commodore BELDEN blew up the flagship Westfield to prevent her falling into the rebel's hands, and by a premature explosion he and his First Lieutenant, ZIMMERMANN, were killed. Two barges loaded with coal, also fell into the hands of the rebels, who were believed to be about 5,000 strong, while our force on shore did not number more than 300, the residue of our men not having arrived at the time of the attack. All the transports having troops on board had returned to New-Orleans in consequence of this disaster, which will no doubt speedily be retrieved. It is understood that important dispatches from Gen. BANKS have been brought on by the Creole. Admiral FARRAGUT was about to make an attack on Port Hudson, but was waiting for the cooperation of the land forces under Gen. BANKS. The three negro regiments already raised in this Department had been ordered to garrison Forts Jackson, St. Philip, Pike, etc. The National Abolitionist, JACOB BARKER'S paper, had been stopped by order of Gen. BANKS for the dissemination of incendiary news. This is the third time the publication of the paper has been suspended.

By the steamship Marion, which arrived at this port on Saturday morning, we had advices from New-Orleans to the 3d inst., inclusive. The Capitol at Baton Rouge was burned on the night of the 30th ult., the cause of the fire being unknown. Seventy thousand dollars damage was done. A rebel report has reached New-Orleans, from Galveston, that the National forces there have bombarded the city—the provocation being a shot fired by some one at some of our forces on shore. Not much damage appears to have been done, however. Our correspondent at New-Orleans has obtained information that the rebel army in the Southwest is in the most pitiable condition. They have only some 64,000 men scattered through Mississippi, ranging from 17 to 60 years of age. They are armed in the most miscellaneous manner—some with nothing but pikes. They have about 22,000 men at Port Hudson and in the neighborhood, some 12,000 of them sick, chained disabled in the hospitals. It is likely that, in the absence of any demonstration from below, some of the Port Hudson force has been sent up to Vicksburgh, and joined PEMBERTON in time to assist in the repulse of Gen. SHERMAN.

The rebels have laid out an extensive programme for Gen. FOREST in North Carolina. According to a dispatch from Kingston, dated the 8th inst., published in the Charleston papers, immense preparations are being made for an advance, reinforcements having swelled our army at Newbern and Morehead City to 30,000 strong, and the intention being to attack simultaneously Charleston, Wilmington, Weldon and Goldsboro.

The Richmond Examiner of the 9th inst. announces that BRAGG has fallen back to Tullahoma—a fact with which we were before acquainted—and intimates that he will remain there, it being a good position for defence.

Late dispatches from Murfreesboro report that immediately after receiving his wound in the hip, the ex-Secretary Gen. ROSECRANS left for the North, in company with his wife. Wounded rebel officers in our custody estimate their own loss in the several engagements at 12,000 to 15,000 men, with great slaughter of leading officers.

The recent Morgan raid into Kentucky seems to have been but a ruse to cover other important advances of the rebels, and to conceal the real weakness of their force left in the vicinity of East Tennessee—a ruse which was quickly discovered, and has now resulted in a great advantage to the Union arms. Not a guerrilla is left in the State. The pursuit of MORGAN has been spirited, although no battle has been fought since he left the vicinity of Springfield. MORGAN has been compelled in the rapidity of his flight to abandon his wagons, caissons, and some of his prisoners. The fifty-six guerrillas who were captured in the vicinity of Danville, were members of MORGAN's band and are now in prison at Louisville. We have full confirmation of the announcement that our forces are again in possession of Cumberland Gap, that important key to East Tennessee, and that the Kentucky Cavalry is still pursuing the rebel MORGAN.

A dispatch from Cincinnati states that another expedition is already in East Tennessee. We have reason to believe, that with the retreat of BRAGG to Chattanooga, the entire State will be free from rebel dominion.

The statement that Gen. GRANT lost $8,000,000 worth of supplies at Holly Springs is manifestly a gross exaggeration. If his army numbered 50,000 men, 1,500,000 rations, a supply of thirty days, at 15 cents per ration (a liberal estimate) would cost but $225,000 or $250,000 including transportation. Five million dollars' worth would be ten months supply. Rations for forty days to all he could have been likely to accumulate, and a large proportion of these were probably at other points so that he could not have lost more than $300,000 worth. It is not possible that sufficient cotton was destroyed to make up the amount to $5,000,000.

The rebels had a report in Richmond, on the 8th inst., that Gen. SUMNER's Grand Division had left Aquia Creek on transports for the South, but a dispatch from headquarters of the Army of the Potomac states that there is no truth in the report.

We have a rumor by way of Charlotte, N. C., that HINDMAN, the rebel General commanding in Arkansas, has executed ten National officers in retaliation for the execution of ten guerrillas by Gen. MCNEIL, of Missouri. We regard the story as improbable.

Gen. DIX has informed the War Department that on Wednesday night a party of National cavalry and infantry, sent out by Gen. KEYES from Yorktown, landed at West Point, proceeded to White House, destroyed the dépôt and rolling stock of the railroad there, burned a steamer and several sloops, boats and barges, loaded with grain, secured a large number of animals and eight hundred wagons, and returned on Friday morning, having sustained no loss whatever.

We have advices to the 6th inst. from Key West, brought to this port yesterday by the steam transports Curlew and Atlantic. The news is not specially important. A large number of steamers belonging to the Banks Expedition had entered the harbor, either going or coming—all of them to coal, and some of them for repairs. Five additional prizes had been brought in by our blockading vessels. The Admiralty Court was again in session for the adjudication of prize cases, and it was expected that a large amount of condemned property would soon be sold by the United States Marshal. Local affairs were progressing satisfactorily under the administration of the new commandant, Col. GOODE.

Col. LUDLOW, of Gen. DIX's Staff, we learn from Fortress Monroe, has succeeded in effecting exchanges with the rebels which will restore about twenty thousand of our paroled officers and men to the service.

First—All the officers and men who were delivered at City Point from the 11th November, 1862, to January 1, 1863.

Second—All officers and men captured at Harper's Ferry.

Third—All the officers and men paroled at Winchester, Nov. 15 and 28, 1862, and Dec. 1, 1862.

Fourth—All officers and men paroled by Col. IMBODEN, C. S. A., Nov. 9, 1862.

Fifth—All officers and men paroled at Goldsboro, N. C., May 22, 1862, and delivered at Washington, N. C.

Sixth—All captures in Missouri, Arkansas, New-Mexico, Texas, Arizona and Louisiana, up to Jan. 1, 1862, are duly exchanged.

Seventh—All captures in Kentucky, Tennessee, Mississippi, Alabama, South Carolina and Florida, up to Dec. 10, 1862, are duly exchanged.

Eighth—All captures on the sea and Gulf coasts and waters flowing into the same, up to Dec. 10, 1862, are duly exchanged.

THE STATE LEGISLATURE.

The Senate was not in session on Saturday.

In the Assembly, the forty-eighth ballot for Speaker was reached without result.

GENERAL NEWS.

The steamship Java passed Cape Race on Saturday, with advices from Europe five days later. She left Liverpool on the 1st inst., and Londonderry on the 2d. The workingmen of Manchester had held a meeting to express their sympathy with the North, at which an address to President LINCOLN, congratulating him on his course, was adopted. It is announced that the English revenue accounts show an increase during the year of £2,392,000. The London Times argues from this increase that Cotton is not King, and that it would be far better for England to keep all her cotton operatives on public pensions until they are absorbed in other trades, than to very only point in her National policy. Additional French troops are imperatively called for in Mexico, to the extent of ten thousand men. Cotton had a downward tendency in the Liverpool market, owing to the stock being largely in excess of the estimates. Breadstuffs were steady and unchanged. Provisions were very dull. Consols were quoted at 92¼@92¾ for money.

The New-Jersey Legislature is to meet at Trenton to-morrow noon, and as both Houses are largely Democratic an organization will doubtless be effected promptly. Gov. PARKER will not be inaugurated until Jan. 20.

There were coined at the mint, in Philadelphia, during December, five million five hundred and thirty thousand cents, and yet the cry is for more. A year ago there was quite as many applications for the Superintendency, from men who thought they could do the business, as there are now. The truth is, however, that they are not by any means worth their weight in gold.

About 10 o'clock Saturday morning, the engine of a new Government steam transport, named the Tyler, exploded when near Sandy Hook, and two engineers, a fireman and a contraband were killed. The steamer is owned in South-street, and had been chartered by the Government to convey army stores, &c., to Beaufort, S. C. She was on her way there when the accident occurred. Coroner HAUBAUS will investigate the case to-day.

The Stock Market on Saturday afternoon recovered its temporary depression, and closed buoyant on the Railway list and for American Gold Coin. Gold, 108¾. Exchange, 152.

Breadstuffs were depressed and lower on Saturday. Cotton was quiet, as were also Sugars, Molasses, Rice, Fish, Seeds, Spices, Lathe, Coal and Naval Stores. Rio Coffee was actively sought after. A good demand prevailed for Hay, Hides, Manilla Hemp, Tallow, Whisky, Furs, Lead, and Sugar. Petroleum was heavy and lower. The freight market was less active with 858 vessels of all classes in port.

The Proposed Enlargement of the Erie and Illinois Canals.

It is a amusing fact of the greatness of a people that the very extremity of their struggle for existence is the moment in which they are the most intent in projecting and prosecuting, with all the unconcern and steadiness characteristic of a period of profound quiet, works on a colossal scale, not for defence or aggression alone, but for the promotion of the general welfare. It is nothing less than a prescience of their triumph in their great struggle, and that what they now in storm shall be gathered and enjoyed in peace. Such a confidence belongs only to a people in the vigor of youth, to whom the vicissitudes that befall do not cloud the future, but are the accidents, not the rule, or law, of their being.

No nation can lay claim to this test more fully than our own. Never were a people more alive to great enterprises which require a continent for their theatre, but to which the old world has as deep a stake as our own. Since the breaking out of the rebellion, ample provision has been made for spanning the continent by a railroad from ocean to ocean, the work upon which is speedily to be commenced. One other work only is wanting to the completeness of our grand system, and to give the highest value and effect to our resources, which is a great water-line, capable of receiving large-class vessels, and extending from the mouth of the Mississippi to the harbor of New-York. For this line nature has made every provision short of its actual execution. The vast inland seas of the continent are so nicely poised on the crest of the great central plateau, that they have an almost equal choice whether they will discharge their waters into the Gulf of Mexico, and under the sun of the tropics, or into the Gulf of St. Lawrence, with the climate of the frigid zone. At one time they undoubtedly flowed in the former direction. But neither outlet was suited to the commercial wants of the vast territory they drained. One was closed for one half of the year by a rigorous Winter; the other, for a nearly equal period, was rendered almost uninhabitable by its pestilential climate.

The great task set before our people, consequently, was the correction of this oversight of nature, so that by a new water line the vast currents of commerce could discharge themselves upon the densely populated shores of the Atlantic, midway between the extremes of heat and cold, and where every provision but one had been made for his welfare that man could ask—easy access to the great seats of agriculture of the Continent. The enterprise of the people of New-York first opened an outlet on the east, by the construction of the Erie Canal, a work which instantly crowned their great City the Metropolis of the Continent. On the West a similar attempt was made to form a great water-line from Lake Michigan to the Mississippi, by reopening the channel that once existed in that direction, but which was closed at some distant epoch by a slight upheaval of the western bank of the lake. But this work at the time was found to be too arduous for the limited means and experience which then existed. The idea of cutting down the summit to a level with the lake had to be abandoned, and a canal of limited capacity and cost substituted in place of the one first proposed. To feed the summit, the waters of the lake are raised by machinery eight feet to the summit, whence they fall off with the inclination of the country toward the Gulf of Mexico.

An interior water-line was thus formed, extending from the harbor of New-York to the mouth of the Mississippi, having a length of nearly 3,000 miles. The effect of its construction was most magical. Previous to the opening of the Erie Canal, the cost of transporting a ton of merchandise from Buffalo to the City of New-York was $100—a sum twice as great as the value of wheat, and four times greater than the value of Indian corn when landed upon our docks. Such an expense of transportation, far exceeding the value of the leading products of the interior, left them without a commercial value, if grown a hundred miles distant from navigable water lines. The opening of the Erie Canal, consequently, was the event that rendered the West habitable for a population not content to confine their production to what they could directly consume. It changed the whole aspect of the Continent, and with the aid of works subsequently constructed with a similar object, has made us as a nation what we are—a marvel of progress in numbers, wealth and power.

The Erie Canal, when first opened, was forty feet wide and four feet deep. Its locks, 90 by 15 feet, were capable of passing boats of about 60 tons burden. Its capacity for twenty years was fully up to the volume of the internal commerce of the country, when the enlargement of the canal, with its locks, were commenced. This enlargement, which trebled the capacity of the original work, was completed, fortunately the very year that the great rebellion broke out. There is no doubt whatever that this enlargement saved us from national bankruptcy, as it was the only channel through which we received or could have obtained the produce necessary for the maintenance of our foreign commerce. Of the $160,000,000 of breadstuffs sent abroad in 1861, and which took the place of cotton in our exports, an equal value came through the canal, the amount transported by the railroads to tidewater barely sufficing to feed our own population.

But while the enlargement of the canal did so much for the country, the Western farmer received the smallest share of the advantage. During the past year the capacity of this great work was so crowded that charges for transportation exceeded largely those of former years. The increase in the productiveness of the interior, with its increased means for transportation, was in far greater ratio than that of the canal. The tonnage of Western produce reaching tidewater through the Erie canal in 1858 was 54,314 tons; in 1859, 173,858 tons; in 1861 it reached 2,156,425 tons. For 1862 the amount must have reached very nearly 3,000,000 tons. The two great railroads of the State the past year have transported, in the aggregate, very nearly 1,500,000 each. This vast and unexampled increase has been almost entirely due to the progress of railroads in that section of the country tributary to the basin of the Great Lakes. Since 1850, 11,000 miles of railway have been constructed in the Northwestern States alone. The number of tons of merchandise annually transported over them will equal fully 1,000 tons to the mile, or a total of 11,000,000 tons, having an average value of $100 to the ton, or an aggregate value of $1,100,000,000. Such is the vast commerce seeking an outlet to Eastern markets, and explains not only the great earnings, but the excessive charges for transportation the past year over the public works of our State, and is only one of the evidences of the immense development of the internal commerce of the country, for which all the provision yet made for transporting its products to the market is entirely inadequate.

This vast commerce consequently must come to a stand till we again increase the capacity of the Erie Canal. Enlargement of the locks is proposed as a war measure, to allow the passage of gunboats for the protection of our northern frontier, now left defenceless by treaty stipulations with Great Britain. That Power, by means of the public works of Canada, can place at the briefest notice, a fleet of gunboats, which she as well as the United States are restricted from building, on any of the lakes. The cost of the enlargement proposed, which will not exceed $3,500,000, will treble the capacity of a work which already has cost the State over $50,000,000, and which will transport the present year 5,000,000 tons. With its capacity raised to 15,000,000 tons annually, the nation can go on for years with the marvelous progress of the past, in numbers, productiveness and wealth.

The Illinois Canal, undertaken and prosecuted as a war measure, is to allow the passage into Lake Michigan of the largest class boats navigating the Mississippi. It is to have a depth of seven feet, a width, on the bottom, 160 feet, and locks 350 by 75 feet. The two works together will form the most magnificent and navigable water line upon the globe. Their completion would double the value of many of the products of the West, by the reduction it would effect in the cost of transportation. Where the Western farmer gets ten cents a bushel for his corn, he would get thirty. His means of consumption would be increased in an equal degree, so that the manufacturer and merchant in the East would be equally benefited with the producer of food. Every section of the country would share equally in the advantage; and as the internal commerce of this country is a creation rather than a growth, we have only to supply the means to rival and eclipse all the marvels of the past.

Bragg at Tullahoma—The Grand Rearrangement of Rosecrans' Victory.

Gen. BRAGG's army, when it occupied Murfreesboro, was exactly in the geographical centre of the State of Tennessee. It was a capital position for offence or defence. From there he guarded East Tennessee, the most important strategic region in the Southern Confederacy; he menaced ROSECRANS at Nashville; he threatened GRANT's army in the rear, and could reinforce Vicksburgh, as is proved by the fact that, just before the late battle, he sent ten thousand men there; he guarded the States of Alabama and Georgia on the north; and in case he defeated ROSECRANS, he would gain control of the Tennessee and Cumberland Rivers, and probably of the whole State of Tennessee; and he would also be in an admirable position to march up to the northern line of Kentucky, from which he retreated before Gen. BUELL, three months ago. Murfreesboro itself had been chosen by BRAGG, for its natural and artificial advantages, and had been well fortified during the two months he occupied it. It had railroad connections with the Charleston and Memphis road, and the lines connected therewith, running south and east as far as Richmond. It was in the centre of a region which abounded with provisions and forage—if any part of the South may be said to do so. In all military aspects, Murfreesboro was a good position. It was a point from which the rebel commander would never have retreated if it had been at all possible for him to hold it.

The Richmond papers announce that BRAGG "has fallen back to Tullahoma, 82 miles south of Murfreesboro, and 71 from Nashville, as a base of operations and position of defence." In both the latter respects, however, Tullahoma is very far inferior to the position from which BRAGG retreated on the 3d of January; and it is as much inferior in offensive and defensive value to other positions further south, that we doubt very much whether he will remain there any length of time, even if he be not at once driven from it by the victorious and now reinforced army of Gen. ROSECRANS. If, for instance, he fall back upon Chattanooga, while it will be a virtual giving up of offensive operations, and an uncovering of Alabama, it will enable him to make the Tennessee River his defensive line, and will put him in immediate communication with Knoxville. But whether he retreats for a time at Tullahoma, or move away at once to some other camping ground, he can obtain no such advantages as Murfreesboro gave him. He may turn his face northward, but it will be a vain outlook. He will see close to his lines the largest army planted in the strongest position we have ever held in Tennessee, with its lines of communication with Nashville and the North open, and no, point at which it can be penetrated or circumvented. He may gaze westward; but he will perceive that the Tennessee river is now high enough to be plowed by our gunboats up to Florence, and he will notice that ROSECRANS already outflanks him in any movement he might think of attempting in that direction. He may cast his eyes to Vicksburgh; but how dare he trust his army by another move when it has already proved itself too feeble to cope with the enemy still pressing upon it. He may look toward the hills of East Tennessee; but it will only be to behold the great railroad broken up, and, if the news be true that Gen. GRANGER has seized Cumberland Gap, it will be evident to him that, as things now stand, all that region may be said to be included within our military lines. The best thing he can do at Tullahoma or Chattanooga is to defend the northern line of Georgia, and hold fast to his position until he is driven away.

From this rapid glance will be seen the vast importance of the position and the ground gained by Gen. ROSECRANS from his glorious victory at Murfreesboro. We believe it will be evident before many months that it gave us not only the continued possession of Nashville, and insured the safety of Kentucky, but that it has given us the virtual control of all Tennessee, of Northern Alabama and Northern Mississippi, and has carried the war down to the border of Upper Georgia. If it give us East Tennessee alone, it will be of more value than all the victories we have gained during the two years in which the war has raged.

We could hope, and we do most earnestly hope, that Gen. ROSECRANS will push on his success to the consummation indicated in the preceding sentence. It is said, we trust truly, that he has been reinforced by thirty thousand troops from Kentucky, who have been set free from garrison and other duty by the victory of Murfreesboro. If so, we do not see why he cannot spare the whole of this force for the work indicated. His present army has proved itself the master of BRAGG, even to driving him from his fortifications. If but twenty of the thirty thousand reinforcements were marched from Nashville by way of Sparta to Knoxville, and cooperated with the column at Cumberland Gap, it would yet leave ROSECRANS with an army vastly superior to BRAGG, and it would insure us East Tennessee. After that BRAGG might stay at Tullahoma or go to Chattanooga, and it would not alter the fact that the South-western campaign, in its larger aspects, was triumphantly ended.

The Operations Against Vicksburgh.

With the best disposition in the world to be satisfied with Western war movements, in view of their general gratifying success, we confess we find it impossible to regard the result of our operations against Vicksburgh without strong disfavor. The country has been grievously disappointed in that quarter. We were promised a speedy success, and had a right to expect it. The strongest combination of the war was to be brought to bear against Vicksburgh. SHERMAN, with a powerful armada and army on transports, was to move down upon it from the north, and GRANT, with his formidable army, was to threaten it from the rear. Betwixt these heavy forces, amounting to near 100,000 men, to say nothing of the fleet of gunboats, it seemed that Vicksburgh would speedily be captured.

The programme was grand; but the performance has been lamentably puny. GRANT let the lines behind him be cut, he retreated, changed his base, and remains stuck in the mud of Northern Mississippi, his army for weeks of no use to him or to anybody else. SHERMAN, left alone to do the work marked out for others led his gallant troops against the intrenched enemy. Three days his brave men fought fiercely in the unequal struggle, exhibiting the usual heroism of Western troops—the dash of eager volunteers and the determined valor of veterans. But all in vain. SHERMAN is repulsed with heavy loss. He waits at Napoleon, Arkansas, for reinforcements, and unless he has them, say the latest dispatches, the movement against Vicksburgh must be given up.

In explanation in part, of the failure of Gen. SHERMAN's attack, it is said "the gunboats could give him but little assistance, being out of fuel." It were quite as reasonable for us to be told that a third of the army could not participate in the attack, being without muskets. Why were the gunboats there unless prepared for service? Why was an attack made if the Government was not ready for it? We doubt not it is a solid excuse, this lack of fuel for the gunboats. A correspondent who describes the entrance of SHERMAN's fleet into the Yazoo River, mentioned a collision and the sinking of a coal barge, in tow of the iron-clad gunboat De Kalb, that carried 8,000 bushels of coal. He added that the loss was almost irreparable, as the fleet was left with "only one barge, containing about 7,000 bushels." On the previous day a portion of Gen. SHERMAN's troops had destroyed Gaines' Landing, a few miles above on the Mississippi, and "wantonly burned 1,000 cords of cut wood, piled on the bank." This was alluded to by the correspondent as perilling the mobility of the fleet, inasmuch as fuel on the river bank is now very scarce, and the fleet consists altogether of about seventy vessels, mostly steamers. Gen. SHERMAN, it was added, "denounced the outrage without stint," but that did not, it seems, replace the fuel, or give the aid of the gunboats in the attack on Vicksburgh.

We do not put the blame of the repulse at Vicksburgh on Gen. SHERMAN. He is not responsible for the failure of GRANT's part in the campaign; nor for the non-appearance of a cooperating force in the river below; nor for trusting the efficiency of a fleet of seventy vessels, including gunboats that were to join in the attack, to two barges of coal, at a distance of 650 miles below the mouth of the Ohio! This last and amazing mistake looks too much like the improvidence and incalculation of a Washington bureau, to be charged hastily to so good a soldier as SHERMAN.

To add to the muddle of this Vicksburgh affair, the telegraph announces that Gen. MCCLERNAND has arrived at Vicksburgh and "superseded Gen. SHERMAN." This is a most unusual and surprising transaction. Gen. SHERMAN is not responsible for failing to take Vicksburgh, for we know that MCCLERNAND was sent forward to assume the command before any fighting was known to have taken place. If SHERMAN had been successful, and captured Vicksburgh, the result would have been the same. We should have had the extraordinary spectacle of an educated soldier, and a gallant and victorious one, superseded by a man taken but recently from civil life and the political arena, in the very hour of the proudest achievement of his life, for which the country would undoubtedly have held him in lasting honor. We cannot understand the policy which runs the risk of working out such marvelous incongruities.

In behalf of our Western armies, that win so many and such substantial victories for the Union, we protest against the misconstructions and confusion of authority that threaten to embarrass and delay the capture of the great rebel stronghold on the Mississippi River.

THE POORE AND MCDOWELL TRIALS.—The Court-martial in the case of Gen. FITZ-JOHN PORTER has got through the evidence offered on both sides—heard the defence of the accused, which is published in the Tribune to-day—and their decision is all that is needed to finally dispose of the case. The Court of Inquiry in the case of Gen. MCDOWELL has, also, about completed its labors, and may be expected to close its session this week.

We have published the testimony taken from day to day in these two cases, so fully, that the public are already familiar with the developments, and have formed conclusions of their own as to the proper verdicts to be awarded. So far as Gen. MCDOWELL is concerned, we think we risk nothing in saying the universal judgment is, that nothing has been elicited to his dishonor. All the scandalous imputations against him, recently so current, are thoroughly refuted and shown to be groundless.

Gen. PORTER was prosecuted on a formal and formidable array of severe charges, involving the gravest offences that a military man can commit. We have presented both accusation and defence, but shall so soon receive the analysis of the evidence by the Court itself, and the verdict, that we do not deem it necessary to recapitulate the one or anticipate the other.

On the whole, however, the country has reason to congratulate itself that these two interesting and protracted trials are over. They have detained a large number of valuable officers quite a long time from the field, who can now be returned to duty. And they have resulted in throwing a relieving light on many transactions that were dark to the public. It is very certain that the trials, although the impeachments of each officer were so grave, have not resulted in establishing any startling and terrible crimes, to shock the country and disgrace the service.

"Admiral FARRAGUT has sent a special messenger to Washington. We are glad to hear from him in any shape. Can it be that he has been prevented by 'red tape' from joining SHERMAN at Vicksburgh?"—Buffalo Commercial Advertiser.

"Red tape" has so many sins to answer for that it is only fair to vindicate it from charges which are not well founded. We have already stated the real obstacles which prevent Admiral FARRAGUT and Gen. BANKS from joining SHERMAN. They have to take Port Hudson, which is a very strong point 200 miles below Vicksburgh, very strongly fortified and held by a large rebel force and likely to be contested quite as strongly as Vicksburgh itself. Gen. BANKS and the Admiral, at the latest advices, were at Baton Rouge, preparing to attack Port Hudson. When that is taken, they can think about the other place.

NATIONAL RAID ON THE PAMUNKEY.—The movements of our troops on the Peninsula augur no quiet to Richmond. From his headquarters at Yorktown Gen. KEYES, a few days since, sent a body of troops to West Point, who landed there and proceeded to White House, the famous base of McCLELLAN while his army rested on the Chickahominy. At White House the expedition played havoc with a large amount of Confederate property, burning the dépôt and several vessels loaded with grain, disabling rolling stock of the railroad, and, the dispatch of Maj.-Gen. DIX, from Fortress Monroe, adds, capturing "a large number of animals and eight hundred wagons," which were brought safely to Yorktown—and all this with no loss whatever.

If there be no mistake in this latter statement, it was a most astonishingly successful raid, and proves either unwonted skill and dispatch on the part of the National forces, or the most inexplicable carelessness on the part of the rebels. Eight hundred wagons form a valuable and material part of the transportation of any army, and, if the rebels in Virginia have lost so many, they are seriously crippled in this branch of their service.

This demonstration of Gen. KEYES on the Pamunkey, at the nearest point of Swamp in his first and celebrated raid in McClellan's rear, must prove particularly disheartening to Gen. LEE, for it suggests that Hanover Court-house, in the rear of Fredericksburgh, may be reached from the same direction. It will also bring back painful memories to the people of Richmond, who felt the approach of the Army of the Potomac, from the White House, to be a horrible nightmare, last Spring. A peninsular campaign by Gen. KEYES would upset many calculations of Gen. LEE.

DEATH OF A NEW-YORK OFFICER.—We observe among the officers killed in the recent battle at Murfreesboro, the name of SAM F. HARRISON, one of our well-known citizens, Sam G. Harrison, and previous to his entering the army, engaged in business in Philadelphia. He was a lieutenant in the Anderson Cavalry, which has acquired an enviable notoriety by a reckless and unwise use of the arm of battle, based on fiendish complaints, evidently designed only to cover the cowardice and disloyalty of the men engaged in it. Sergeant HARRISON was one of the few officers who did everything in their power to arrest the progress of this shameful revolt, and was successful in rescuing about 200 of the whole body from the infamy that rests upon the remainder. He belonged to Company L, and was the first to announce that he should obey orders, and go into the fight if he stood alone. With his remarks others had followed his example, rather than follow his counsels. He was the only white company of that regiment in the fight. He was the only one of the company killed. He was 30 years old, and had already received honors and offices earned in this war, for the education of the recruits.

NEWS FROM WASHINGTON.

Twenty Thousand of Our Men Exchanged.

The Supersedure of Gen. Sherman by Gen. McClernand.

Stringent Measures to be Taken Against Deserters.

Gen. Wool to Have Charge of the Matter.

OUR SPECIAL WASHINGTON DISPATCHES.

WASHINGTON, Sunday, Jan. 11.

EXCHANGE OF PRISONERS.

Col. LUDLOW has just returned from City Point on a dispatch-boat, and reports that a conference with Mr. OLD, Confederate Commissioner for the exchange of prisoners, has resulted in an important arrangement by which about twenty thousand Union officers and men, previously paroled, are restored to active service. Col. LUDLOW also states that he has every reason to believe that the rebel Government will violate the previous agreement, and, acting on the proclamation of Jeff. DAVIS, formally refuse, during the coming week, to make future exchanges of our commissioned officers. He returns to-morrow on a dispatch boat, and will visit City Point again on Tuesday.

GEN. SHERMAN SUPERSEDED.

The supersedure of Gen. SHERMAN by Gen. McCLERNAND, in the command of the expedition against Vicksburgh, has been privately known here for several days, though first made public by rebel authority. Gen. McCLERNAND was originally promised this command, as we stated at the time of his visit here, but political reasons have interfered with an earlier consummation of the arrangement. He passed through Memphis on the 27th of December, on his way to assume command. He arrived at Gen. SHERMAN'S quarters during the battle, and the latter immediately transferred the command. The retirement of our forces must have been done under the orders of Gen. McCLERNAND.

THE PENNSYLVANIA UNITED STATES SENATOR.

Excitement is represented as being very great in Pennsylvania in regard to the election of a United States Senator in place of Mr. WILSON. The election is expected to take place on Tuesday, and so apprehensive are the Democrats of the strategy of Gen. CAMERON, that thousands are expected to be in attendance to exert a proper influence over doubtful members of the Legislature. The Democrats have but one majority, and great fear is entertained lest more than that number may desert to the Republicans.

DESERTIONS.

Desertions of late have become so numerous that the Secretary of War has determined to adopt most stringent measures to secure the return of delinquents. He has become convinced that the system adopted some time ago is entirely inadequate, and has decided to remove Mr. DRAPER, and to place the business in the hands of Gen. WOOL, with full power for its execution.

THE ARMY OF THE POTOMAC.

A very great uncertainty seems to prevail in regard to the programme marked out for the Army of the Potomac. A feeling of fatalism has, to a greater or less extent, obtained in the public mind concerning the destiny of this army, causing a presentiment that it is not fated to achieve success; and hence, official recommendations have not been wanting that a portion shall be retained for the defence of Washington, and the remainder transferred to fresh fields, where, consolidated with victorious troops, and serving under new commanders, they may be enabled to secure the substantial results which the hardships they have endured, and their gallantry in the field, so eminently entitle them to enjoy.

Still, it seems to be agreed that the rebel army behind Fredericksburgh has been materially diminished in numbers; and it is not certain that some vigorous and unexpected movement may not yet place Richmond speedily in the possession of the veterans who have so long made it the Mecca of their toilsome and perilous pilgrimage.

ENFORCING THE PROCLAMATION.

It is a gratifying evidence of the sincere determination of the President to carry out the policy of freedom, that the President has determined to dismiss Gen. Sumner from the service, for having violated the regulations and the law in returning fugitive slaves.

NEWS FROM RICHMOND.

The Richmond Enquirer, of the 9th inst., says:

"We learn that the premium for specie in this city has declined to $2 for gold and $1 50 for silver. Gold has previously been held at $2 25, while silver brought $1."

The same paper quotes approvingly from the New-York World, and encourages that journal in its good work.

TO THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

WASHINGTON, Sunday, Jan. 11.

OFFICERS DISMISSED.

By direction of the President, the following-named officers, absent without leave from their stations, viz.: Capt. Stevens, Minnesota, Maryland, are dismissed the service of the United States; Capt. D. A. Gregg, Sixty-ninth Pennsylvania Volunteers; Capt. Jesse Brown, Thirteenth Ohio; First Lieut. G. W. Chase, Twenty-second Pennsylvania; Second Lieut. W. Tomlinson, Twelfth Massachusetts Volunteers. All other officers now absent from said station without authority are hereby directed to return without delay, under penalty of dismissal from the service.

OUR RELATIONS WITH FRANCE.

The following is an extract from a private letter, received in this city by the last steamer, from an American gentleman in Paris:

PARIS, Dec. 23, 1862.

The impression among the French here is that the Mexican expedition, and then a change of Ministry is just sufficient to move heaven. Palmerston, Mr. ——— feels sub rosa that at the last moment of the Session, the President's Message was laid upon the table just the Monday evening it was sent and all the world said, aye. Upon the same authority, he said that the Emperor had changed his position towards the South. Mr. ——— thought his authority pretty good.

The Minister has been thrown upon the defensive, which is a poor sign, by the universal disapprobation which the perusal of an article he caused to be inserted in every where. It even went so far as to publish an article (editorially) which stated that the Government never expected that the blockade was to be maintained during the armistice. That being untrue, renders his appearance in the Moniteur the more significant. The message has produced an excellent effect here. It has not been necessarily assailed in any quarter, while the President's correctness, moderation and statesmanship have astonished all who were in a position to look at the case fairly.

I regret the very happiest results from the President's proposal, though I suppose no serious expectation of the adoption of the amendments in Congress.

OBITUARY.

Death of Lyman Beecher, D. D.

On Saturday afternoon, at 5 o'clock, LYMAN BEECHER, at the advanced age of eighty-seven years, died at his residence in Brooklyn.

The currents of the last few years have swept from the sight of the present generation this venerable minister of God, who for years battled in the name of his Master for the cause of truth and justice; but the announcement of his death will revive in the hearts of thousands lively gratitude for his extended career of usefulness, and in the memories of many, occurrences long since forgotten, but which nevertheless, are indissolubly connected with their deepest interests for time and eternity.

Practically Dr. BEECHER has been removed from the active duties of life for several years, and in writing we think of him as at one long gone. He was born at New-Haven Oct. 12, 1775, graduated at Yale College in 1797, and studied theology under the direction of President DWIGHT.

In December, 1798, he was ordained pastor of a church at East Hampton, L. I., upon a salary of $300 per annum. In 1810 he removed to the care of the first church, at Litchfield, Conn. Here he remained about 16 years, during which time his remarkable qualities as a preacher and as a zealous and active minister, brought him a great reputation and a remarkable influence throughout New England. He was much consulted, and was forward in most of the religious undertakings of the time, such as the Connecticut Missionary Society, the Connecticut Education Society, the American Bible Society and the like. In 1826 great defections had taken place in the churches in Boston and the neighboring parts of New-England into Unitarianism, following the lead of Dr. CHANNING and others in sympathy with him, and Dr. BEECHER was chosen, out of all the clergy of New-England, to uphold the standard of the ancient Puritan faith against their desertion. He was installed over the newly-established Hanover-street Church, Boston, and, during his residence there, devoted himself with both zeal and ability to the urgent work committed to his guidance. His ministry necessarily partook largely of a controversial character. He flung himself into the thickest of the battle, and was sustained by the confidence and fervent admiration of the religious body to which he belonged. The sincerity and spirituality of his preaching was generally acknowledged, and it was attended by decisive results, in a revival of the spirit and increase in the numbers of evangelical Christians, so as still to preserve to them the numerical superiority in that part of the country, at one time thought to be seriously in danger. In this work Dr. BEECHER was looked to as the most efficient champion and defender of the faith. But he was not of a mind to rest while anything remained to be done. The vital importance of communicating sound religious influences to the population of the great Mississippi valley became the paramount interest in the minds of many reflecting as well as philanthropic people, for the highest social and political as well as religious considerations were concerned. Among many similar institutions founded for this purpose, the Lane Theological Seminary was established at Cincinnati, and Dr. BEECHER was invited to take the direction in 1832. He carried the same strength and ardor into his new connections, and electrified a considerable part of the country by the publication, soon after his arrival, of a tract sounding the alarm of Roman Catholic supremacy in the West. The transplanting of a mind of such vigor into that impressible society could not be of slight effect. His great character, uniform principles and fixed adherence to truth and his convictions, together with his boldness and fervent eloquence, worthily filled a large sphere of duty and produced a serviceable impression upon Western society. He remained in Cincinnati about 10 years, having, in addition to the care of the Seminary, the pastoral charge of the Second Presbyterian Church. Since leaving there he resided mostly in Boston, without fixed employment, but with undiminished intelligence and vigor, even at a very advanced age. During the more active portion of his life, few or none of his profession were better known to the people of the United States, and it is probable that the labors of no other have produced a more immediate and apparent effect. His fame as an orator was naturally the most prominent, and as such he possessed remarkable powers. His style was that of a man thoroughly in earnest, whose life was devoted to the inculcation of great truths, and whose convictions were of a heat to melt all obstacles. Original turns of thought and expression, and flashes of pictorial illustration, were frequent in his oratory, and gave him an electrical influence over his audience. His position as a theologian will be judged with that of the body for which it may properly be said he combated, but it was sustained by sterling qualities which were universally recognized. In almost all the conspicuous moral enterprises of his time he bore a prominent part, and in particular his connection may be mentioned with the temperance movement, which for 30 years has elicited and absorbed so much of the moral life of this country. Early in its course he printed a famous series of sermons on intemperance, which attracted much attention to the cause. His numerous publications have been mostly occasional and miscellaneous, and hardly of a kind to perpetuate his influence.

From the fact of his being so constantly engaged in controversial warfare, Dr. BEECHER found no time to elaborate and prepare sermons for reprint, and as the reportorial profession was in his days unknown we are without sketches even of many of his most important efforts.

Of Dr. BEECHER'S thirteen children not a few have attained to eminence as writers and ministers. Miss Catherine Beecher, Dr. Edward Beecher, Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe, Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, Revs. George, Charles, Thomas, William and James Beecher are all known in certain spheres of public usefulness, and each in his specialty has done service in his day and generation.

Of his son HENRY, Dr. BEECHER was peculiarly fond and proud, and during the last ten years of his life has been more or less with him. About five years since he became a permanent resident of Brooklyn, living within a stone's throw of his son's house and church. At the latter place he was for some time an honored landmark of a former generation, and an object of universal esteem and affection. Latterly, however, during the past three years, his body, originally so great and stalwart, has rapidly failed, and his mind has dimmed gradually in its case, until at length he became literally a child, a weak and impotent old man.

We have not space, nor is this the proper place for reference to the stories of his spiritual vision at intervals of pristine vigor and brilliancy of imagination. They will be duly noted elsewhere, and we will but state that it took periods to fall the rock upon which he stood firm beneath his feet—he saw the glory for which he waited bright before his vision—he grasped with unmistakable certainty the title to his everlasting inheritance, and gave to all about him abundant evidence of unadulterated faith and confidence in the Redeemer, whom servant for threescore years he had faithfully been.

A few days before Christmas he had a slight fall, which somewhat weakened him, and gradually he slept into lethargy, from which he never absolutely awoke, until the hour when released from the confinement of infirmity and weakness, he passed before the throne of his Father and Redeemer, to be welcomed by the sweet legend, "Enter, thou into the joy of thy Lord."

The funeral services will be held on Wednesday, at 2 o'clock P. M., in Plymouth Church, when it is expected Rev. Dr. BACON, of New-Haven, will deliver a sermon upon the life and services of the deceased.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF THE DEATH OF REV. DR. LYMAN BEECHER, BY HIS SON, REV. HENRY WARD BEECHER, AT PLYMOUTH CHURCH.

At the close of the morning sermon, Mr. BEECHER paused a moment, and then, in a voice unusual with deep emotion, which sent a thrill throughout the vast congregation, he proceeded to say, in substance:

Last night, at 5 o'clock, at the ripe age of eighty-seven, my venerable father went to his eternal rest. His life was singularly blameless—simple, consistent, full of the noblest Christian heroism, faithfulness and devotion to the cause to which he early consecrated his person. For about a year and a half his mental condition has been exceedingly feeble and child-like. He died calm, like a traveler who had packed his trunk, in anticipation of a journey, and, expecting every moment to start, could not unpack it. But now the long-expected journey has been made. He has reached the place where, all his mental powers unlocked, not as here on earth, but with every faculty brightened, and every sense glorified, he can employ them as never before in the service of his divine Master. He had long been ready to depart. Almost the last sentient act of his life occurred about two years ago, when, on his recovery from a severe sickness, he called for "that passage." After reading a multitude of passages, for he was unable to designate the particular one he desired, the reader opened, by the good providence of God, to these verses: "For I am now ready to be offered, and the time of my departure is at hand. I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith; henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous Judge, shall give unto me at that day; and not to me only"——

They were proceeding to read further, but my father cried "Stop! that is not for me! This is my testimony; write it down as mine." And I think he could use those words as fully and as justly as the man that wrote them.

One of the most touching characteristics of his later years was his affectionate remembrance of his early associates in the Christian warfare. His heart clung with peculiar tenderness to the memory of TAYLOR, EVANS, COMMAGER and WINSLOW. He loved them all, but especially TAYLOR. And in his last years, and in his dying hours, his heart turned not to Boston, the scene of his brightest triumphs; not to Brooklyn, where for so many years he has lived so near our beautiful Greenwood, from where shall rise so many on the Last Day, when the trumpet shall sound which only they who are called shall hear; not even to Litchfield, where lies buried the wife of his youth, for whom he cherished all the tender affection which his loving nature could lavish upon an object; but his last request was, "Lay me by the side of brother TAYLOR." And there, in the old graveyard at New-Haven, shall repose side by side the bodies of these two Christian soldiers and heroes, until the day when they shall rise glorified and incorruptible, to dwell forever before the face of God in Heaven.

Mr. BEECHER'S voice, which trembled with emotion all through his brief but very touching remarks, gave way entirely at this point, and after a moment's pause, he closed by giving notice that the funeral services would be held in the church on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

HORRIBLE CASE OF ABORTION.

A Woman, the Mother of Five Children, Dying from the Effects of Malpractice.

STATEMENT OF THE VICTIM.

The Doctor Arrested—Verdict of the Jury.

Within the past few months, cases of malpractice, from which death has ensued, have become alarmingly frequent.

It is high time that the attention of the public be directed to the scoundrels who, under pretence of giving relief, entail direst misery upon thoughtless women, and at times hurry rash mortals into an undesirable eternity.

At 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon the attention of Coroner RANDEL was called to the case of Mrs. ELIZABETH HUNTINGTON, residing on Third-avenue, between One Hundred and Twenty-six and One Hundred and Twenty-seventh streets, the mother of five children, and a person of respectability hitherto unquestioned.

The Coroner attempted to relieve her, but his efforts were unavailing, and her pangs grew more and more fierce, until it seemed as if human strength could endure no more.

The Coroner, convinced that the woman would soon die, took possession of the premises, and impanneled the following Jury: Messrs. E. W. Ranney, J. L. Olden, W. G. Nott, Jr., J. E. Church, John E. Farrington.

Before this Jury, Mrs. HARRINGTON made the following

DEPOSITION.

ELIZABETH HUNTINGTON being duly sworn, deposes and says: I live in this house—Third-avenue, near One Hundred and Twenty-seventh-street. On Sunday before New-Year's I was treated by Dr. McGONEGAL; I was about two months gone in pregnancy; he operated on me the Monday before New-Year's with an instrument; I did not see the instrument, but I felt it; he operated on me in the evening of the 29th of December, 1862, at about half-past seven o'clock; he told me he would procure an abortion on me for eight dollars; I paid him three at the time; there was no one in the room at the time he operated on me; he continued to attend me until Dr. FARRINGTON was called; he told me a day or two before that he had got his instrument all ready to operate upon me; I was induced to go there because I had learned from several others that he did such things. I have stated these things, believing that I am in a dying state, and shall not recover. I was treated in his house.

her
ELIZABETH X HUNTINGTON.
mark.

This much secured, Coroner RANDEL dispatched an officer to the church on Third-avenue and One Hundred and Twenty-third-street, of which Dr. McGONEGAL is a member, and went with another to the doctor's house. Shortly after their arrival the doctor came in and was at once arrested. He declined to make any statement, give any denial or affirmation of the charge, and conducted himself with the most perfect composure. He was sent to the Station-house to await the result of the operation.

In the meanwhile Mr. RANDEL, in searching the premises, found an instrument, with which he thinks the operation was performed. It is a horrible home-made affair, made of steel, long, sharp and pointed.

With this a puncture was doubtless made, which, touching carelessly a vital part, has brought misery and perhaps death upon the woman, and exposure at least upon him.

THE VERDICT

of the Jury was in accordance with the above facts, and the Doctor remains in custody.

AMUSEMENTS.

The season at the Academy of Music came to an end on Saturday, owing to the continued and severe indisposition of Signor BRIGNOLI. There was a successful matinée on that day, and the reverses of the week were, we hope, recovered. That the more continuance of an opera season should depend on the health of a single artist is, we must admit, a rather unfortunate condition of affairs; but, with no reference save Signor MACCABEAN, every one will confess that Mr. GRAU was judicious in postponing his fortunes to a more opportune moment. Under the most auspicious circumstances, the risks of management are sufficiently onerous—the margin for possible profit being remarkably small. With the certainty of constant disappointments, there could hardly be a reasonable expectation of a favorable issue to the experiment, and Mr. GRAU wisely received to wait until Signor BRIGNOLI was in a condition to resume his position in the company. It is expected that on Monday after the season will be temporarily closed. In the meantime the artists will employ their time in making the necessary rehearsals of "GIOVANNI d'ARCO"—a work in which Miss KELLOGG and Signor BRIGNOLI will both assume new roles.

The announcements at the various places of amusement to-night are unusually varied and interesting. At Mr. WALLACK'S charming establishment the comic drama of the "Invisible Husband," at Niblo's Garden, (for the last night but one,) "Faust and Marguerite," at the Winter Garden, the fascinating CURAS in the "French Spy," and Mr. G. W. CORNISH in a new domestic drama called the "Chimney Corner;" at LAURA KEENE'S Theatre, Mrs. JOHN WOOD in the "Pride of the Market;" at BARNUM'S Museum, the wonderful little Queen of Beauty, Miss LAVINIA WARREN, and in the Lecture-room the "Golden Dawn."

Mr. ANDERSON'S season of German opera—extending over a period of seventy nights, and being, both in duration and activity, without a parallel—came to an end on Saturday evening. The troupe will appear immediately at the Philadelphia Academy of Music, and will return to New-York early in the coming month.

The second grand subscription concert of the Mozart Society will take place at Irving Hall, on Tuesday evening. The full chorus of the Society, a grand orchestra of forty players, and several prominent soloists will assist on the occasion. The programme is one of the most interesting ever offered to our public.

One of the most interesting exhibitions in New-York, at the present moment, is the Broadway Menagerie. The collection of animals, although not large, is remarkable for possessing several rare specimens, not usually found in the best European Gardens. A visit to the Broadway Menagerie will amply reward the sightseer.

The programme at the Theatre Français, for to-morrow night, is as follows: "Valerie, ou la Jeune Aveugle;" "Le Serpent de la Paroisse;" and "Pas de Fumée sans Feu."

THE BURLESQUE OPERA.—The far-famed Buckley's Serenaders, after having made a most successful tour through Great Britain and Ireland, have returned to this City, and are now giving their unique entertainments at Stuyvesant Institute, Broadway. The crowds of pleasure-seekers that are present every evening prove conclusively that the Buckleys are as great favorites as ever. Their programme is a most attractive one, combining negro minstrelsy proper with incidental "variation," and concluding with a burlesque opera, the music of which is most artistically rendered, while the libretto is so comical-bad that exclamation is forced from the audience during the entire rendition. "Lucrezia Borgia" had a most successful "run" last week. Another opera will be placed on the boards this week. Miss JULIA GOUGE is still the prime donna of the troupe.

MARRIED.

ADAMS—MINTURN.—In Boston, at St. Paul's Church, on Tuesday, Dec. 23, SETH ADAMS, Jr., of Providence, R. I., to MARY MINTURN, of Somerset, N. Y.

LEAVITT—ALLFORT.—In Paterson, N. J., at Grace Church, by Rev. Wellington Fergus, on Thursday, Jan. 8, CHARLES W. LEAVITT, of Philadelphia, to SARAH, daughter of Thomas Allfort, Esq., of same place. No cards.

MORVEN—THOMPSON.—In New-Brighton, on Saturday, Jan. 10, by Rev. Mr. Paxson, DUNCAN R. MORVEN and MARY, daughter of Mr. John G. Thompson, of Staten Island.

DIED.

BURR.—In this City, on Saturday morning, Jan. 10, MYS. ANN BURR, aged 65 years.

The relatives and friends of the family are invited to attend the funeral, on Monday, Jan. 12, at 1 o'clock P. M., from her late residence, No. 167 Hudson-st.

BEECHER.—In Brooklyn, on Saturday afternoon, Jan. 10, at 5 o'clock, at his residence, LYMAN BEECHER, aged 87 years and 3 months.

Funeral services will be held at Plymouth Church, on Wednesday afternoon, at 2 o'clock.

KNOWLTON.—In this City, on Sunday morning, Jan. 11, at the residence of her uncle, John S. Pierce, No. 126 West 46th-st., MARY EMMA, youngest child of Amos H. and Annie E. Brown, aged 2 years, 2 months and 20 days.

Further particulars in to-morrow morning's papers.

DEMAREST.—In this City, on Sunday, Jan. 11, 1863, suddenly, Mrs. SOPHIA DEMAREST, wife of James Demarest, Sr., aged 69 years, 1 months and 16 days.

Funeral on Tuesday, Jan. 13, at 2 o'clock P. M., from the residence of her son, Wm. H. Demarest, No. 34 Grove-st.

FLEMING.—In New-Brunswick, N. J., on Friday, Jan. 9, at the residence of J. VanRensselaer, Esq., MARIA LUDLOW, relict of James Fleming, late of Hudson, N. Y., in the 72d year of her age.

GOODLIFF.—In this City, on Sunday morning, Jan. 11, MYS. JANE, widow of John Goodliff, aged 55 years.

Funeral services will take place at her late residence, No. 42 West 27th-st., at 1 o'clock on Tuesday. Relatives and friends are respectfully invited to attend. The remains will be interred in Greenwood.

HAXTUN.—In this City, on Sunday, Jan. 11, 1863, MILTON LE ROY, infant son of Milton and Marie Haxtun.

The funeral will take place from their residence, No. 30 East 23d-st., on Tuesday, Jan. 13, at 4 o'clock P. M.

MACDONALD.—On Saturday, Jan. 10, MARGARET, daughter of Margaret and the late T. B. Macdonald, aged 9 years, 5 months and 27 days.

MILLER.—In this City, on Saturday night, Jan. 10, 1863, at 11½ o'clock, of consumption, Mrs. FRANCES L. MILLER, aged 26 years, 8 months and 14 days.

Her remains will be taken to Peekskill, where the funeral ceremonies will take place, on Monday, Jan. 12, 1863.

NICHOLS.—In Brooklyn, suddenly, on Saturday, Jan. 10, AMELIA ANN, daughter of Leonard and the late Julia M. Nichols, aged 13 years.

The relatives and friends of the family are respectfully invited to attend the funeral, from the residence of her father, No. 2 120th-st., Harlem, on Monday, Jan. 12, at 12 o'clock M.

NIBLOCK.—On Saturday morning, Jan. 10, HELEN C. NIBLOCK, aged 12 years.

The relatives and friends of the family, and of her uncle, Foxley C. Niblock, are invited to attend the funeral, from her late residence, Gates-av., near Clinton, Brooklyn, on Monday, the 12th inst., at 2 o'clock.

PATTERSON.—In this City, on Sunday, Jan. 4, 1863, WM. PATTERSON, in the 26th year of his age.

His remains were interred in the Cemetery of Evergreens.

PLUMSTEAD.—In Brooklyn, on Saturday, Jan. 10, LYDIA PLUMSTEAD, aged 75 years.

Her friends are invited to attend the funeral from her late residence, No. 191 Adams-st., Brooklyn, this (Monday) afternoon, at 2 o'clock, without further invitation.

REED.—In this City, on Saturday, Jan. 10, suddenly, ELIZA BRADISH, wife of Charles Stewart Smith, and daughter of the late Wheaton Bradish, Esq., in the 29th year of her age.

The relatives and friends of the family are invited to attend the funeral, on Tuesday, Jan. 13, at 2 o'clock P. M., at St. Mark's Church, corner 2d-av. and 10th-st.

STRYKER.—In Lambertville, N. J., on Sunday morning, Jan. 11, Mr. SAMUEL D. STRYKER.

The funeral will take place on Wednesday morning, Jan. 14, at 10½ o'clock, from his late residence, in Lambertville. His numerous friends and relatives in this City, are requested to attend the obsequies, without further invitation.

WARREN.—In this City, on Saturday, Jan. 10, Mrs. MARY G. WARREN, relict of the late Edmund Warren, of this City.

The friends of the family, and those of her son, Owen G. Warren, are invited to attend her funeral, without further invitation, at her late residence, No. 229 9th-st., on Monday, Jan. 12, at 1 o'clock P. M.

Pearl Mottled Soap is the best
And most economical for laundry and family use, being particularly adapted for flannels and all kinds of woolen goods. Manufactured and for sale by R. MORGAN'S SONS, No. 211 Washington-st., mid No. 449 West-st.
Also FAMILY, PALE, and No. 1 Soaps.

Cure Your Rupture.—There is nothing that compares with WHITE'S PATENT LEVER TRUSS
for curing this disease. New in principle and action, light, clean and easy. Pamphlets free.
GREGORY & CO., No. 38 Bond-st.

Ankleties.—Ankle and Balmoral Boots
ANKLETS.—For ladies, misses and children.
ANKLETS,— W. H. JEFFERS,
ANKLETS,— No. 673 Broadway.

Ankleties.—LADIES' ANKLETS.—Every lady to be ANKLETS.—in full dress for skating or dancing, have a ANKLETS.—pair. For sale at MILLER'S,
ANKLETS,— No. 387 Canal-st.

$40,000 Pairs Ladies' and Gents' Skates.—Skate straps with Rogy's Lever Buckle. Also, the American warter or floor skate. At wholesale. FREDERICK STEVENS, No. 218 Pearl-st., and No. 48 Kilby-st., Boston.

Morton's Gold Pens.—Prices to suit the pocket and pass in suit the hand of every writer at No. 37 Maiden-lane. Call or inclose stamp for circular, with engravings of all sizes and styles.

The Palmer Arm and Leg.—B. FRANK PALMER, inventor and patentee, 714 Broadway (formerly 701), Union Philadelphia and Boston. Only Inventor of Palmer & Co. Avoid imposition by calling on the inventor.

Electro-Psychology.—Messrs. BRITTAN and FISKE will give their first Lecture and Experiments this EVENING at Clinton Hall. Admission 25 cents.

OFFICIAL DRAWINGS OF MURRAY, EDDY & COLE KENTUCKY AND MISSOURI STATE LOTTERIES.
KENTUCKY, EXTRA CLASS 12.—Jan. 10, 1863.
21, 45, 39, 47, 78, 53, 43, 12, 40, 67, 56, 48.
KENTUCKY, CLASS 13.—Jan. 10, 1863.
61, 74, 47, 37, 51, 75, 66, 34, 57, 36, 62, 25, 60, 7.
Circulars sent free of charge, by addressing either to
MURRAY, EDDY & CO.,
Covington, Ky., or St. Louis, Mo.

LOTTERIES.—SEE J. A. MORRIS & CO.'S Advertisement on eighth page.

WATCHES AND JEWELRY
OF ALL DESCRIPTIONS.
For sale by GEO. C. ALLEN,
No. 415 Broadway, one door below Canal-st.
Formerly Allen, 11 Wall-st.

ENGINEER SOLDIERS WANTED.—TWO additional companies of Engineer Soldiers are now being organized for service during the war. In the field from the commencement of the war. It is the most desirable arm of the service for mechanics.
Men who are first-rate men need apply.
Privates, sixty-four to a company, receive $13 a month.
Corporals, sixty-four to a company, receive $17 a month.
Ten Corporals to a company receive $20 per month.
Ten sergeants to a company receive $24 per month.
All enlisted men of this corps get first-rate rations, clothing and rations, and no much bounty besides pay as any soldier.
Apply at No. 11 Bowery, or No. 90 Chatham-st.
This corps is commanded by Col. E. W. Serrell.

EGLISE DU SAINT-ESPRIT.—THE SALE of the pews of this newly-erected French Episcopal Church in 22-st., between 5th and 6th-avs., will take place in the church, on THURSDAY EVENING next, 8th inst., at 7½ o'clock. Plans of the pews may be obtained, and terms of the sale made known, at the time of sale. The church will be opened for inspection on Wednesday and Thursday next.

INDIA RUBBER GLOVES CURE CHAPPED Hands, salt rheum, &c., making them smooth and white, and are suitable for all kinds of housework. For sale by the trade. GOODYEAR'S I. R. GLOVE CO., No. 205 Broadway.
Rubber goods of every description, wholesale and retail.
ALSO, INDIA RUBBER JEWELRY.

JOHN HOOPER & CO.,
CITY AND COUNTRY ADVERTISING AGENTS,
NO. 41 PARK-ROW, NEW-YORK,
NEW-YORK TIMES BUILDING.

J. H. & Co. are inserting advertisements in all Newspapers published in the United States and British Provinces. A careful selection of papers is made, adapted to any business, and the ADVERTISING is done in the best possible manner, saving time, trouble and expense to the advertiser. MERCHANTS, BANKERS, BROKERS, STEAMSHIP and RAILROAD AGENTS, and business men generally, wishing to extend their trade, are respectfully invited to call at the office, No. 41 Park-row, and examine papers and prices.

Nearly all newspapers published throughout the country are received and filed at this office.

REFERENCES.—Messrs. H. J. Raymond & Co., publishers of the New-York Times, and the publishers of the leading newspapers throughout the United States and Canada.

For sale by all the principal dealers throughout the UNITED STATES.

PILES—ITCHING PILES

Positively cured; also, Blind and Bleeding Piles, Fistula, Salt Rheum, and all Diseases of the Skin, by the use of ROSSMAN'S CURE.
Itching Piles is generally preceded by a moisture like perspiration, producing a very disagreeable and distressing Itching, particularly at night, after getting warm in bed.
ROSSMAN & McKINSTRY, Hudson, N. Y., Proprietors.
Sold by all Druggists.

UNITED STATES REVENUE STAMPS.

We are now prepared to fill orders of United States Revenue Stamps, of all kinds, at the following rates:
$100 and over, 5 per cent. discount.
$50 to $100, 3 per cent. discount.
Under $50, par.
Discount in stamps.
THOMPSON BROTHERS, Bankers,
No. 2 Wall-st.

NEW-YORK YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION.
A COURSE OF LECTURES WILL BE DELIVERED, BY
REV. WM. H. MILBURN,
ON THE
FATHERS OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH,
AT CALVARY BAPTIST CHURCH,
(Rev. Dr. Gillette's,)
23d-st., near 5th-av.,
Commencing MONDAY EVENING, Jan. 12, at 8 o'clock.
First Lecture—MONDAY, Jan. 12—The Age of the Martyrs.
Second Lecture—THURSDAY, Jan. 15—Origen and the Schools of Alexandria.
Third Lecture—MONDAY, Jan. 19—Anthony and the Life of the Desert.
Fourth Lecture—THURSDAY, Jan. 22—Athanasius.
Fifth Lecture—MONDAY, Jan. 26—John of Antioch.
Sixth Lecture—THURSDAY, Jan. 29—Ambrose, the Churchman, regarded author of the "Te Deum;" Jerome, the Scholar, and Augustine, the Divine.
Tickets for the Course (Six Lectures) have been placed at the extraordinary low price of ONE DOLLAR. Single tickets at TWENTY-FIVE CENTS.
Tickets may be had at the book, drug and music stores on Broadway, and at the Rooms of the Association, Bible House, corner of 3d-av. and 9th-st.

TO JOBBERS.
The only house in America dealing in TIES
exclusively, was established by P. F. Smith in 1854.
In announcing a change in our firm, (the withdrawal of T. A. BROUWER,) we desire to call particular attention to the largest and most attractive assortment of NECK-TIES, STOCKS, SCARFS, etc., ever offered to the trade, at prices which will positively meet all and every kind of competition, either foreign or domestic!
P. F. SMITH & FOWLER,
Old Stand, No. 36 Warren-st.

CHAS. A. HECKSCHER & CO.,
SHIPPERS OF SUPERIOR SCHUYLKILL
COAL
Are now prepared to furnish their celebrated
BLACK HEATH WHITE ASH,
BROAD MOUNTAIN WHITE ASH,
DIAMOND VEIN RED ASH
AND COALS BY SINGLE CARGO
or larger quantities on Contracts, at lowest market prices.
OFFICE NO. 45 SOUTH-ST., N. Y.

CURE FOR PIN WORMS.

Dr. E. G. GOULD'S Pin Worm Syrup. This celebrated worm remedy, which has gained such high reputation in New-England, is warranted to expel the disgusting Pin Worms entirely from the human system. It affords relief in 24 hours. This syrup is purely a vegetable preparation, and a most valuable cathartic, where physic is required, especially for children, and always safe.
C. HERVEY, Sole Proprietor. Address SALL & RUGKEL, No. 218 Greenwich-st., New-York, General Agents. At retail by Druggists everywhere.

TADMAN'S
CAMPHOR CAKE WITH GLYCERINE.
Cures Chapped Hands and Lips in a few hours.
Keeps the Skin Soft.
Ladies give it the preference over every other preparation.
Price 12½ or 25 cents.
TADMAN & CO., Druggists, New-York.

HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS.—MUSHROOM IMITATIONS.—Success is the "present cradle" of innumerable humbugs. No sooner had HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS made their mark in the world, than up sprang a host of imitations, and at the fame of the great restorative grew and spread, the mushroom crop of noisesome nuisances thickened. But the medicine has lived them down. One by one they have disappeared. When the bellows of puffery, which kept alive the feeble fire of their borrowed reputation, ceased to blow, they ceased to live. Thus they continue to come and go. Meanwhile, HOSTETTER'S BITTERS, the great preventive and remedial tonic of the age, have progressed in popularity with each succeeding year. Their success as a means of preventing and curing the diseases resulting from malaria, unwholesome water, and all unhealthy climate influences, has been boundless; and as a remedy for dyspepsia, liver complaint, fever and ague, general weakness and debility, and all complaints arising from indigestion, they are now admitted to be superior to any other preparation ever advertised or prescribed. From the time perhaps, when, a few years ago they were confined, their sale has been extended into every State of the Union, over the whole of South and Central America, Mexico, the West Indies, the Sandwich Islands, Australia and the Pacific Islands. Recent testimonials appointments to show that HOSTETTER'S BITTERS are the most remarkable tonic and invigorant now before the world.

BURNSIDE'S ARMY.—THE ADAMS EXPRESS COMPANY have resumed sending packages for officers, soldiers and others connected with the Burnside Army, at Aquia Creek, Falmouth and Mill Point, and all places in the vicinity.
Evidence satisfactory of receipt of every package taken. Friends of the soldiers are notified that packages containing one bottle of Liquor will be considered by the Provost-Marshal.
Care should be used in addressing boxes or packages. The company, regiment and division should be written in full on each package.
Our Express leaves daily for the army at Norfolk, Gosport, Newport's News, Fortress Monroe, Aquia Creek, Washington and other points at City Point.
ADAMS EXPRESS COMPANY,
No. 59 Broadway,
No. 143 Fulton-st.,
6th-st., Depot.

UNITED STATES EXCISE NOTICE.—Notice is hereby given to all persons engaged in the following business in the FOURTH ASSESSMENT DISTRICT, composed of the Third, Fifth, Sixth and Eighth Wards, of the City of New-York, that the collector will, in pursuance with the provisions of Section 16 of the Act to Provide Internal Revenue, duly to attend for receipt of his office, from 9 A. M. to 2 P. M., for fifteen days from the date hereof, Sundays excepted, and that for the five days next succeeding, attendance will be required and exacted by law, at this office, daily, from 10 A. M. to 2 P. M., relative to any omissions or errors in returns. All appeals must be in writing, and specify the particular assessment, matter or thing, respecting which a decision is requested, and state the ground or principle of inequality or complaint of.
PIERRE C. VAN WYCK, Assessor, 4th District.
Dated at No. 66 Franklin-st., this 6th day of January, 1863.

DISEASES OF THE NERVOUS, SEMINAL URINARY AND SEXUAL SYSTEMS.—New and reliable treatment—in reports of the Howard Association—free by mail in sealed envelopes. Address, Dr. J. SKILLIN HOUGHTON, Howard Association, No. 2 South 9th-st., Philadelphia, Penn.

ALL PERSONS IN WANT OF PRINTING Stock or Blank of any description, to consult prices, should call at No. 217 Bowery, next to Stanton-st., or No. 216 2d-av., near 13th-st. WM. S. ALLEN, Agent.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

AN ELEGANT BOOK.
Just Ready,
THE LEGENDS OF CHARLEMAGNE;
OR,
THE ROMANCE OF THE DARK AGES.
By the Author of the "Age of Fable."
Richly illustrated in cream-tint paper.
THE FINEST BOOK OF THE SEASON,
AND
ONE OF LASTING VALUE.
Suitable for a Gift, and desirable for every Library, public and private.
Price, English Vellum $3 00
Half Calf 3 50
Full Turkey 3 50
ALSO, JUST READY,
UNIFORM WITH THE ABOVE,
THE AGE OF FABLE.
J

SITUATIONS WANTED.

FEMALES.

AS COOK, WASHER AND IRONER.—Situation wanted by a thoroughly competent, neat and economical Protestant woman, as cook; and to assist in washing and ironing, or do the washing and ironing and cooking; is an excellent laundress, and has the highest testimonials from her former places. Apply to Mrs. HAMMOND, No. 20 Court-st., Brooklyn, opposite the City Hall.

AS COOK, WASHER AND IRONER.—Situation wanted, by a very experienced and trustworthy girl as cook, and laundress in a gentleman's family; is a thorough cook; refer to her last place, where she lived fourteen months, and will be found in neatness, character and competency, a valuable servant. Apply to Mr. CHRISTOPHER, No. 10 Tillary-st., Brooklyn.

AS COOK.—WANTED, BY A COMPETENT Protestant, with experience, a situation as cook in all its branches; understands the French and American styles of cooking; would be willing to do the coarse washing; satisfactory reference and testimonials; is in the City, or adjoining country. Call at No. 168 East 31st-st. for two days.

AS COOK.—IN ACTIVE, ECONOMIZING WOMAN; prefer a place as first-class cook; understands her business in all its branches, besides pastry and baking; highest City references. Call for two days at No. 21 Clarke-court, University-place, between 11th and 12th sts.

AS COOK.—WANTED, BY A FIRST-CLASS cook, a situation in a private family; she understands her business perfectly; will be found sober, neat and industrious; has been accustomed to fill her present situation, where she has lived four years. Call at No. 20 9th-st.

AS COOK, &c.—WANTED, A SITUATION BY an respectable Protestant young woman, as good cook and first-class washer and ironer; the best of City references can be given; understands her business. Can be seen for two days at No. 113 West 14th-st. No one need apply but private families.

AS COOK.—WANTED, BY A SCOTCH PROTestant woman, a situation as a first-class cook; understands cooking in all its branches, and is a good baker, and also pastry; no objection to go a short distance in the country. Can be seen for two days, at No. 119 West 16th-st., near 5th-av.

AS COOK, CHAMBERMAID, &c.—WANTED, by two respectable Protestant girls, situations in a private family; the cook is a first-class cook and waiter; the other is a first-class chambermaid and waiter; both have been with their present employers five years. Can be seen until engaged at No. 128 West 26th-st.

AS COOK.—A COLORED WOMAN WISHES A situation as cook; understands cooking in all its branches; is very neat and tidy; and has excellent references from her last place. Apply at Scott's, No. 207 Sullivan-st.

AS COOK.—A VERY RESPECTABLE WOMAN desires a situation as first-class cook; is thoroughly competent, and has unexceptionable references from her last employer. Apply at the Servants' Institute, No. 367 Broadway.

AS COOK, &c.—WANTED, A SITUATION BY a respectable woman, as good cook and pastry; understands baking. Call at No. 19 West 28th-st., near 6th-av.

AS COOK OR LAUNDRESS.—SITUATION wanted by a respectable young woman. Good references given. Apply at No. 230 Mott-st., first floor.

AS FIRST-CLASS COOK.—A PROTESTANT woman wishes a situation as first-class cook; understands all kinds of meats, soups and games; also fish and pastry; is a good pastry cook; has good City references from her last place. Can be seen for two days, at No. 116 West 27th-st., second floor, back room.

AS CHAMBERMAID, &c.—A YOUNG WOMAN wishes a situation as chambermaid and waiter, or as nurse; understands her business; is a good plain sewer; would not go out of the City; no object as a good home; has good City references. Call for two days, at No. 72 Union-place, University-place, between 11th and 12th sts.

AS CHAMBERMAID, &c.—WANTED, BY A respectable Protestant girl, a situation as chambermaid and waiter, or else washer; the best of City reference can be given from her last employer. Can be seen for two days at No. 28 East 12th-st.

AS GENERAL HOUSEMAID.—WANTED, BY a competent, tidy woman, who lived in a gentleman's family for a short time, a situation as general housemaid; wishes an home where she is willing to make herself useful; will do chamberwork and washing; is not afraid of work. Apply at No. 7 City or country. Call at No. 192 East 29th-st., for two days.

AS GENERAL HOUSEWORKER, &c.—A respectable Protestant girl, a situation as general housework or chambermaid; is a good plain cook. Can be seen at her present situation, No. 9 Washington-st., on Monday and Tuesday.

AS NURSE.—WANTED, BY A COMPETENT, trustworthy woman, a situation as nurse; would take the entire charge of an infant, or being in up to bed; can procure excellent City references. Call at No. 146 7th-av., between 20th and 21st sts.

AS NURSE.—AN EXPERIENCED YOUNG WOman would like situation as nurse and seamstress; can take the entire charge of a baby from its birth; has been nurse of young children for many years; lived two years in her last two places. Apply for two days at No. 276 West 30th-st.

AS NURSE AND SEAMSTRESS.—WANTED, a situation by a very neat and highly respectable girl as above; has had extensive experience in the care of children; is a good seamstress; can take the entire charge of a child; has excellent testimonials from her last place. Will furnish the highest references; no objection to the country. Apply to Mr. CHRISTOPHER, No. 10 Tillary-st., Brooklyn.

AS NURSE.—A COMPETENT WOMAN WANTS an situation as nurse; can take the entire charge of a baby from its birth, and willing to assist with any other domestic duty, if required; has five years' City references. Call, for two days, at No. 23 Universal, University-place, between 11th and 12th sts.

AS NURSE AND SEAMSTRESS.—SITUATION wanted by a respectable young woman as nurse and seamstress; understands the care of a baby from its birth; is fond of young children; has no objection to travel; six years' best of City reference. Call at No. 120 West 30th-st., near 6th-av.

AS INFANT'S NURSE.—WANTED, BY A PROfessional young woman, a situation as infant's nurse; would do plain sewing if required; has had long experience in the care of children; has excellent City references; can be seen for two days at the Protestant Employment Agency, No. 128 4th-av., between 12th and 13th sts.

AS WAITERS AND CHAMBERMAID.—A situation wanted, for a thorough waitress and upstairs service; is willing to go to a country residence; and a respectable girl; understands the care of silver plate, etc., in a gentleman's family, and has the very highest testimonials. Apply to Mr. MANNING, No. 25 Court-st., Brooklyn, opposite City Hall.

AS WAITRESS, &c.—A SITUATION WANTED by a respectable young girl as first-class waitress; has no objection to do chamberwork; has the best City reference from her last place. Can be seen, for 2 days, at No. 113 West 34th-st., first floor, back room.

TO EMPLOYERS.—SITUATIONS WANTED, by a number of smart Protestant, American, English, Scotch, German and other girls, as chambermaids, cooks, nurses, waiters and trimmers, chambermaids and girls for general housework, and good cooks. Call at the Select Employment Office, No. 111 East 12th-st., between 3d and 4th-avs. A lady in attendance. Girls will be dressed neatly and obliging. Good situations more of an first-class order. Employers will please leave us with a call.

ALL PRIVATE FAMILIES, HOTELS, boarding-houses furnished with male and female servants of all nations; also machines, washers and ironers, chambermaids and waitresses; tidy girls for housework, laundresses, &c. All respectable servants registered. Stations will please call at the old Servants' Institute, No. 449 Greenwich-st.

GOOD SERVANTS IN GREAT ABUNDANCE and variety, with unexceptionable characters, can call at the Central Office, at Clinton Hall, corner Astor-place and Nassau-st., at the Secretary of Standing's Connecting at the Bible House, German, Dutch, French and Italian languages spoken. Rev. W. DENAREST, Superintendent.

ALL FREE OF CHARGE.—FIRST-CLASS servants, in every capacity, for the City or country, at Mrs. Lawrence's, No. 25 Bond-st., and Female Benevolent Office, 2 Clinton Hall, Astor-place, 10 and 4 daily. Your patronage is respectfully solicited.

J. E. WEIR, Proprietor.

MALES.

A GOOD HOUSEHOLD AND GARDENER.—WANTED, a situation by a respectable Protestant young man, as gardener and groom; is a good hand with horses, and understands the children's business of gardening. Has been with his present employer 3 years. Can be seen between 1st and 2d ays.

A GOOD GERMAN.—SITUATION WANTED, BY a respectable man, as gardener, where he can be usefully employed in all its branches; has excellent testimonials from his employers; can be seen at C. O., care of C. Wetzel, No. 140 Forest-ave., corner of 12th-st.

AS COACHMAN AND GROOM.—WANTED, a situation by a single man as coachman and groom, or would go as groom in better private family; understands the business; has good reference. Address W., Box No. 201 Times Office.

AS COACHMAN.—SITUATION WANTED, BY a middle-aged Englishman, as coachman, who understands his business thoroughly. Apply to the present employer at No. 72 Broadway, cor. Bond-st.

AS COACHMAN AND GARDENER MAN.—A young man, who thoroughly understands the care and management of horses; is an excellent and careful driver; knows how to take charge of a gentleman's place; has 10 months' ch. and has excellent testimonials. Apply to Mr. VANDUCK, No. 15 Court-st., Brooklyn.

AS WAITER AND TO BE GENERAL SERVANT.—A young man, 21 years of age, of good Protestant parentage, and who has been in the best families in Europe and America, and who can speak English, French, Spanish and Portuguese, and who can give the best of City references, and who can be recommended by his present employer, as above, for honesty, sobriety and good behavior, and who can be seen at the place of his present employment, is desirous of a situation as above, in a family of the first class, where he would be treated as a gentleman, and where his services would be appreciated. Address or call on ALFRED, care of Mr. Lee, No. 1 Pine-st., New-York.

A MEDICAL STUDENT, of 2 years' standing, desires a situation, in exchange for board and lodging, in a family residing in the City, where he would be treated as a gentleman. Address A. B. C., Box No. 174 Times Office.

AS COACHMAN, AND GROOM.—WANTED, a situation by a single man as coachman and groom, or would go as groom in better private family; understands the business; has good reference given. Address W., Box No. 201 Times Office.

AS COACHMAN.—SITUATION WANTED, BY a middle-aged Englishman, as coachman; understands his business thoroughly. Apply to the present employer at No. 72 Broadway, cor. Bond-st.

AS COACHMAN AND GARDENER MAN.—A young man, who thoroughly understands the care and management of horses; is an excellent and careful driver; knows how to take charge of a gentleman's place; has 10 months' ch. and has excellent testimonials. Apply to Mr. VANDUCK, No. 15 Court-st., Brooklyn.

AS WAITER AND TO BE GENERAL SERVANT.—A young man, who thoroughly understands the care and management of horses; is an excellent and careful driver; knows how to take charge of a gentleman's place; has 10 months' ch. and has excellent testimonials. Apply to Mr. VANDUCK, No. 15 Court-st., Brooklyn.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

MALES.

CALIFORNIA.—WANTED, BY A SINGLE MAN, a passage to San Francisco, as valet or agent; will give six months' services for his passage; references in New-York and San Francisco as regards capability and honesty. Address E. G., Box No. 168 Times Office.

WANTED—A SITUATION ON A FARM, BY A young American, who understands the care of horses, for two days. YOUNG FARMER, Station G, New-York City.

HELP WANTED.

SURGEONS WANTED FOR THE ARMY IN TENNESSEE.—Contract surgeons are wanted to serve at the United States Hospitals in the Department of the Cumberland. The pay is $100 per month. Applicants for examination is to be made immediately to Surgeon R. B. SATTERLEE, U. S. A. Medical Purveyor, No. 225 Broadway, New-York; or Purveyor W. H. KING, U. S. Army, No. 1,128 Germ-st., Philadelphia. Those who are passed by the Medical Board will be employed immediately.

A NURSE AND SEAMSTRESS.—WANTED, a nurse and seamstress, to go a short distance in the country; must understand cutting and fitting children's clothes. Also a first-class waitress for the City; several cooks and girls for housework, for City and country. None but Protestants with City references need apply, at the Protestant Employment Agency, No. 128 4th-av., between 12th and 13th sts.

A FARMER AND GARDENER.—WANTED A married man fully competent to take charge of a farm, vegetable and fruit gardens, manure, etc.; the wife to take charge of dairy and poultry. Apply to THOS. LE BOUTILLIER, No. 423 Broadway.

WANTED.—CAPABLE MEN, TO OBTAIN SUBscribers for valuable works published by the London Printing and Publishing Company, in New-York City only; the highest rates of commission will be paid. None but responsible men need apply, to THOS. D. WALLACE, No. 445 Broome-st., corner of Broadway, 2d floor.

WANTED.—AN ACTIVE, INTELLIGENT BOY, about 16 years of age, in a stationery store down town; one that writes a good hand, resides with his parents, and can come well recommended. Address Box No. 4,662 Post-office.

A COACHMAN AND GARDENER.—WANTED, a single man who well understands the care of gardens and grounds; one preferred. Applicant No. 54 Fulton-st., between 11 and 3 o'clock.

A SERVANT.—WANTED, IN AN ENGLISH family, a thoroughly competent man servant to wait on. Apply to WARD CAMPBELL & CO., No. 56 Wall-st., between 11 and 3 o'clock.

$60 A MONTH!—WE WANT AGENTS, AT $60 a month, expenses paid, to sell our Everlasting Pencils, Orientals, Burnsides, and 15 other articles. 12 circulars free. Address SHAW & CLARK, Biddeford, Me.

$75 A MONTH!—I WANT TO HIRE AGENTS in every county, at $75 a month, expenses paid, to sell my new cheap Family Sewing-Machines. Address S. MADISON, Alfred, Maine.

AUCTION SALES.

OFFICE OF THE UNITED STATES PRIZE COMMISSIONERS, NO. 30 CHAMBERS-ST.

PUBLIC SALE OF PRIZE PROPERTY.

By the United States Marshal, under the superintendence of the United States Prize Commissioners, on MONDAY, the 12th inst., at 12 o'clock M., at the office of the United States Marshal, No. 29 Chambers-st.:

The balance of the cargoes of the sloop Lizzie and schooner Pritchett, consisting of Cotton, Cotton cloth, blankets, tin, screw-root, coffee, rum, whisky, a suite of sails, &c.

EDWARD H. OWEN, HENRY E. ELLIOTT, United States Prize Commissioners.

W. THLOOT, Auctioneer.

VESSEL AT AUCTION.

BY J. P. ATKINSON & CO.—TUESDAY, 13th inst., at 1 o'clock, at our salesroom, No. 119 Pearl-st., (Hanover-square,) by order of Gen. Wm. Vien, United States Quartermaster, the steamer Volcano, formerly the rebel gunboat A. P. Harris, at the pier lat of the Marine Railway Dock, Hunter's Point, L. I., where she can be seen.

E. H. LUDLOW, Auctioneer.

ITALIAN STATUARY, FIGURES AND BUSTS OF CARARA MARBLE, LARGE CEMETERY MONUMENT, FEMALE WASH &c.—E. H. LUDLOW & CO. will sell at public auction, on WEDNESDAY and THURSDAY, Jan. 14 and 15, at the rooms No. 500 Broadway, opposite St. Michael's Hotel, at 10 o'clock each day, a large invoice of statuary, of the importation of Messrs. Giovanoni & Santini, just arrived from Italy, comprising Venus of Canova, Psyche, Group of Cupids, Fisherman, Fisher Girl, Modesty, Amore and Psyche, Bacco, Bust of Madonna, Bust of Beatrice of Canova, and other works of equal merit. Also, Alabaster groups and figures, Three Graces, Venus in the Shell, Greek Slave, Canova's Dancing Girl, Apollo, Belvidere, and many others; richly carved vases, embossed Grecian, Etruscan, Roman and other palmetto designs, comprising some of extraordinary importance and of most elegant proportions; pedestals for statues and busts, tazzas, card tables, fountains, groups and works of art for the decoration of parlors, by the best Italian artists.

Also, a large monumental vase of spiral form, richly carved, to which the attention of the marble trade is especially called, as an elaborate work of superior finish. Catalogues may be had at the office of E. H. LUDLOW & CO., No. 9 Pine-st., and also at No. 500 Broadway, Jan. 13. The whole will be on public exposition on Monday and Tuesday, Jan. 12 and 13, and will be sold to the highest bidder for cash.

HENRY G. EVANS, Auctioneer.

WILL SELL, IN LOTS TO SUIT CITY and country trade, on TUESDAY, Jan. 13, at 10 o'clock, at No. 36 Maiden-lane, a well-assorted stock of GROCERY AND GLASSWARE.

Suitable for the retail trade. Sale positive for cash, to close consignments. Goods carefully repacked for shipping.

PUBLIC SALE OF DAMAGED CORN.—Will be offered for sale, at public auction, at the Government Depôts, in this City, on THURSDAY, Jan. 15, 1863, an amount of grain, condemned by a Board of Survey.

The sacks to be sold separate from the grain, at a price to be fixed by the Quartermaster, or retained, if deemed desirable, by him.

Terms: cash, in Treasury notes, on delivery.

JAS. BELGER, Colonel and Quartermaster.

QUARTERMASTER'S OFFICE, BALTIMORE, Jan. 1, 1863.

HOMEOPATHIC MEDICINES.

HUMPHREYS' SPECIFIC HOMEOPATHIC REMEDIES

have proved, from the most ample experience, an Entire Success—Simple, Prompt, Efficient and Reliable. They are the only medicines perfectly adapted to popular use. They have received the highest praise from the Professions, the Press and the People, and will always render satisfaction.

No.		Price of Single Boxes—Cents.
1.	Cures Fever, Congestion and Inflammation	25
2.	" Worm Fever, Worm Colic, &c.	25
3.	" Cells, Teething, Crying of Infants	25
4.	" Diarrhea of Children or Adults	25
5.	" Dysentery, Bloody Flux, Colic	25
6.	" Cholera, Cholera Morbus, Vomiting	25
7.	" Cough, Cold, Bronchitis, Pneumonia	25
8.	" Toothache, Faceache, Neuralgia	25
9.	" Headaches, Sick Headaches, Vertigo	25
10.	" Dyspepsia, Weak, or Bilious Stomach	25
11.	" Suppressed, Scanty, or Painful Periods	25
12.	" Leucorrhea or Whites, Profuse Periods	25
13.	" Croup, Hoarse Cough, Hard Breathing	25
14.	" Salt Rheum, Eruptions, Erysipelas	25
15.	" Rheumatism, and Rheumatic Pains	25
16.	" Fever and Ague, Old Agues	25
17.	" Piles, Internal or Blind, or Bleeding	25
18.	" Ophthalmy, Weak or Inflamed Eyes	25
19.	" Catarrh, Acute, Chronic, Dry or Flowing	25
20.	" Whooping Cough	25
21.	" Asthma, Oppressed, Difficult Breathing	25
22.	" Ear Discharges and Impaired Hearing	25
23.	" Scrofula, Enlarged Glands, Swellings	25
24.	" General Debility, or Nervous Weakness	25
25.	" Dropsy, Fluid Accumulations	25
26.	" Sea Sickness, Prostration, Vertigo	25
27.	" Urinary Diseases, Gravel, Renal Calculi	25
28.	" Seminal Emissions, Involuntary Discharges, and Nervous Debility	1 00
29.	" Sore Mouth, or Canker of adults or children	25
30.	" Urinary Incontinence, Wetting the Bed	25
31.	" Painful Periods, Frequent or Spasmodic	25
32.	" Suffering at Change of Life, Timidity	1 00
33.	" Epilepsy and Spasms, Chorea, St. Vitus	1 00

PRICE.

Case of Thirty-five vials, in mahogany veneered Medicine Chest, complete, $15 00

Case of Twenty-eight large vials, in morocco, with Book, 10 00

Case of Twenty large vials, in morocco, and Book, 7 00

Case of Twenty large vials, in plain case, and Book, 5 00

Case of Fifteen large vials, in plain case, and Book, 3 00

Case of any Six boxes, (No. 1 to 16,) and Book, 1 00

Single boxes, with directions, 25 cents, 50 cents, or $1.

☞ These REMEDIES, by the case or single box, are sent to any part of the country, by Mail or Express, free of charge, on receipt of the price.

DR. HUMPHREYS, Office and depôt No. 562 Broadway, New-York.

DR. HUMPHREYS is consulted daily at his office as above for all forms of disease.

LOST AND FOUND.

$50 REWARD.—LOST, ON THE CORNER OF Broadway and Grand-st., on Saturday evening, a WALLET, containing one note of $100, one of $50, one of $10, and three of $5 each, with other papers, of no use to any one but the owner. The above reward will be paid and no questions asked, by J. P. HALE, No. 370 Broadway.

$10 REWARD.—IF THE PERSON WHO RECEIVED through mistake a light drab Oilcloth Sample Overcoat from the clock room of the 5th-av. skating pond, on the 5th inst., will return it, he will receive the above reward, and no further trouble.

LOST.—A SAVINGS BANK BOOK, NO. 23,[illegible], Lion City Savings Bank. The person will feel obliged by leaving the same at Bank, or to FERRIS WALLER, the owner, No. 10 Baxter-st., New-York.

FURS.

CHOICE FURS AT NO. 49 BROADWAY.

SIGMOND COOK,

Manufacturer of ladies' fine furs, of every description, which, real or mink goods in the latest styles on hand.

WRITING MACHINES.

TRUBNER'S PATENT WRITING MACHINES, the best in the world, for writing with ease, speed and secrecy. For business and pleasure, and for the blind. SOLD AT NO. 289 BROADWAY.

FINANCIAL.

SEVEN PER CENT. CALIFORNIA COUNTY BONDS.

We offer for sale $20,000 part each, bonds of the County of Santa Clara, issued by the County of Santa Clara, California, being part of a late issue authorized by an act of the Legislature, and a vote of the people for a subscription of the Capital Stock of the San Francisco and San Jose Railroad Company, of which stock $200,000 was taken by Santa Clara County, and $100,000 by San Mateo County. The coupons are payable semi-annually, May and November, (and probably in gold,) and the principal in 1877. These two counties lie next adjacent San Francisco across the Bay, and are in a highly prosperous condition. By the report of the Treasurer of Santa Clara, April, 1862, the indebtedness of the County by funded bonds was but $21,000, (and the taxable property in 1862 was $8,200,000,) making a total indebtedness when these are all issued, of $221,000. The Treasurer has in hand funds to pay coupons due the present year.

San Mateo County, with the exception of these bonds, is entirely free of debt, and had $1,500,000 taxable property in 1862. By an act of the Legislature, a special tax is levied to meet the interest, and for the Sinking Fund to liquidate the bonds at maturity.

W. T. COLEMAN & CO., No. 70 Wall-st.

MORTGAGES WANTED.

MONEY TO LOAN ON BOND AND MORTGAGE, From $1,000 to $75,000,

On good improved City property, on lowest rate of interest.

$25,000 TO LOAN OUT OF TOWN.

Apply to

STUYVESANT, HOLLY & SCHENCK, No. 11 PINE-STREET.

FOR SALE.

Sacramento Valley 10 per cent. First Mortgage Bonds, San Francisco City and County 7 per cent. Bonds—both payable semi-annually, and in gold.

Sacramento, Placer and Nevada 10 per cent. First Mortgage Bonds, interest payable semi-annually in this City. Apply to GEO. T. M. DAVIS, Jan. 6, 1863. No. 40 Exchange-place.

EDWARD KING,

(Late of the firm of JAMES G. KING'S SONS,)

Offers his services as Broker in Government Securities.

STOCKS, BONDS AND GOVERNMENT SECURITIES.

No. 2 Wall-st.

BROWN BROTHERS & CO.,

NO. 59 WALL-ST.,

ISSUE COMMERCIAL AND TRAVELERS' CREDITS FOR USE IN THIS COUNTRY AND ABROAD.

QUARTERLY REPORT OF THE MECHANICS' AND TRADERS' BANK, on Saturday, the twenty-seventh day of December, 1862:

RESOURCES.

1. Loans and Discounts	$3,024,425 48
2. Overdrafts	95 30
3. Stocks, viz.:	129 716 25
4. Due from the Directors of the Bank	25,800
5. Due from Brokers	104,000
6. Real Estate	200,000 00
7. Specie	421,015 65
8. Cash items, viz.: Checks and Drafts on other Banks, taken on deposit the day previous	671,248 00
9. Bills—United States and New-York State	600,000
10. Bonds and Mortgages	6,316 37
11. Bills of solvent Banks	21,126 00
12. Bills of Suspended Banks	— —
13. Loss and Expense Account	16,116 26
Total	$6,194,772 82

LIABILITIES.

1. Capital	$1,500,000 00
2. Circulation Registered	$217,500
Circulation not Registered	— —
Total	$217,500
Less Notes on hand	217,500
3. Profits	178,114 64
4. Due to Banks	481,311 00
5. Due to individuals and Corporations other than Banks and Depositary	— —
6. Due Treasurer of the State of New-York	— —
7. Due Depositary	3,744,306 18
8. Amount due, not included under either of the above heads, viz.: Dividends Unpaid	2,561 00
Total	$6,194,772 82

State of New-York, County of New-York, ss.—LUCIUS HOPKINS, President, and JAMES BUELL, Cashier of the Depositary and Trustee Bank, Mechanics' Building, City of New-York, in said county, being duly sworn, each for himself, saith that the foregoing is an true statement of the condition of the said Bank, to the best of our knowledge and belief; and that the business of the said Bank has been and is transacted at the location aforesaid.

L. HOPKINS, President. J. BUELL, Cashier.

Severally subscribed and sworn by both deponents, the 6th day of January, 1863.

A. C. MEARS, Notary Public.

QUARTERLY REPORT OF THE BROADWAY BANK, on Saturday, the 27th day of December, 1862:

RESOURCES.

Loans and Discounts	$4,331,132 41
Overdrafts	100 22
Stocks and Banks	20,676 15
Due from Directors of the Bank	[illegible]
Due from Brokers	98,000 00
Real Estate	415,000 00
Specie	625,756 [illegible]
Cash items, viz.: principally Checks in Exchanges	441,184 17
Stocks and United States Certificates of indebtedness	1,347,250 00
Bills of Solvent Banks	23,340 00
United States Notes	120,313 00
Loss and Expense Account	30,520 75
Total	$8,053,197 65

LIABILITIES.

Capital	$1,000,000 00
Circulation Registered	$334,500
Less Notes on hand	34,500
Profits	207,198 [illegible]
Due to Banks	431,117 00
Due Depositary, on demand	3,749,164 79
Amount due, not included under either of the above heads, unpaid dividends	275 78
Total	$8,053,197 65

State of New-York, County of New-York, ss.—FRANCIS A. PALMER, President, and JOHN L. EVERITT, Cashier of the Broadway Bank, an Associated Bank, located and doing business at New-York, in said county, being duly sworn, each for himself, saith that the foregoing, in all respects, is a true statement of the condition of the said Bank, before the transaction of any business on the morning of Saturday, the twenty-seventh day of December, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-two, in respect to each and every of the items and particulars above specified, to the best of our knowledge and belief; and that the business of the said Bank has been and is transacted at the location aforesaid.

F. A. PALMER, President. J. L. EVERITT, Cashier.

Severally subscribed and sworn by both deponents, the 6th day of January, 1863, before me,

Gen. of Deeds, City and County of New-York.

NOTICE.—THE UNDERSIGNED, RECEIVER IN the action of Morris Ketchum, vs. The Scioto and Hocking Valley Railroad Company and others, pending in the Court of Common Pleas, and for the County of Ferry and State of Ohio, hereby gives notice to the holders of the past due coupons on the bonds issued by said Company, and secured by a mortgage to said Morris Ketchum, dated 1st of October Term, E. D., and at Court, an order was entered in the above-named action, requiring the holders of said past due coupons on said bonds to present the same to said Receiver, with evidence of their being held bona fide, on or before the 1st day of January next, and that on such presentation said Receiver will hear and determine all questions as to the validity of the coupons so presented, and as to the claims of the Trust Fund in said action, and that he shall report his decision thereon, and the evidence on which the same is founded, to the next Term of said Court; and further, that all coupons then past due which shall not be presented, shall be barred, and the time when they shall be barred, and precluded from participating in the Trust Fund in said case.

And the undersigned further gives notice that he will attend at the Office of the City of Portsmouth, in the State of Ohio, from the date of this notice, including said 1st day of February, for the purpose of hearing and determining all questions touching the validity of all coupons of the class aforesaid that may be presented to him under said order.

Dated this 9th day of December, 1862.

J. W. WEBB, Receiver.

FOR SALE—AT THE LOWEST MARKET PRICE.

U. S. { 1861 6 per cent. Bonds. 1871 5 per cent. Bonds. 1874 5 per cent. Bonds. 1881 6 per cent. Bonds. 1:30 6 per cent. Treasury Notes. 1 year 6 per cent. Certificates. Demand Notes for sale.

AND AMERICAN GOLD.

LIVERMORE, CLEWS & CO., BANKERS, No. 30 Wall-st. Stocks and Bonds bought and sold on Commission.

UNITED STATES TRUST COMPANY OF NEW-YORK, No. 49 WALL-ST., NEW-YORK, Jan. 5, 1863.

TO HOLDERS OF JEFFERSONVILLE RAILROAD FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS.—Public notice is hereby given, in accordance with the terms of an agreement between the Jeffersonville Railroad Company and the holders of the First Mortgage Bonds, dated April 14, 1859, that the United States Trust Company of New-York will open a register of such bonds at their office, No. 49 Wall-st., New-York, and at the office of said Company, in Jeffersonville, Indiana, on the 15th day of January, 1863, when the coupons of said bonds numbered from one to six inclusive; and then from and after the 5th day of February, 1863, interest on said bonds will cease by the terms of said agreement.

JOHN A. STEWART, Secretary.

STATE OF NEW-YORK—BANK DEPARTMENT, ALBANY, Nov. 14, 1862.—The time fixed by law for the redemption of the stock of the corporation formerly the EIGHTH-AVENUE BANK having expired, notice is hereby given, pursuant to Chapter 321 of the Laws of 1850, that a final Dividend of One (1) Per Cent. has been declared upon the original amount of notes issued (as represented by the certificates of the Comptroller), payable, in redemption of the notes of the said Bank, upon presentation of the said certificates, from and after date hereof, at the Department, within six months from the date hereof, and not thereafter.

JOHN ALDEN, Superintendent.

OFFICE BROADWAY INSURANCE CO., No. 10 WALL-ST., NEW-YORK, Dec. 29, 1862.

AN ELECTION FOR DIRECTORS OF this Company, to fill the place of those whose term of service will then expire, will be held at the office, No. 10 Wall-st., on WEDNESDAY, the 14th day of January, next, between the hours of 11 o'clock and 1 o'clock P. M.

JOHN G. HAVILAND, Secretary.

GAS LIGHT STOCKS IN ALL INCORPORATED GAS COMPANIES bought and sold for investment.

JOHN B. MURRAY, No. 30 Nassau-st., corner Liberty-st.

FINANCIAL.

STATE OF NEW-YORK, TREASURY OFFICE, ALBANY, New-York, January 1, 1863.

STATEMENT OF INTEREST REMAINING Unpaid on New-York State Stock prior to 1846 December, 31st, published in compliance with the Comptroller of the Canal Fund, of 3d January, 1863.

J. S. HARRISON, Cashier.

Year.	Mo.	Name of Holder.	Residence.	Amount of Stock.	Int.
1817	July	Jos. Blackwell	Unknown	500 00	$150 00
		Heirs & Jas. Sousa
		Ex'rs of E. Morris	"	3,000 00	36 00
	Oct.	Elizabeth Mulligan	"	100 00	1 50
1818	Jan.	Do. do. do.	"	100 00	1 50
	April	Benj. Hunttleton	"	100 00	1 50
		Elizabeth Mulligan	"	100 00	1 50
1819	July	Jas. Patrick, Clerk
		Supreme Court	New-York	100 00	10 00
		Abraham O. Stanbury
		Heirs	Unknown	3,400 00	36 00
1820	April	William Harrison	"	70 00	1 20
1822	Jan.	Wm. Thompson, Jr.	"	33,000 00	471 46
	April	Jas. Milnor	"	1,000 00	15 10
		Wm. G. Buckner	"	100 00	1 50
		Wm. Thompson, Jr.	"	34,000 00	485 00
	July	Same	"	35,000 00	525 00
1824	Jan.	Thos. S. Batey	"	400 00	5 00
		Same	"	400 00	5 00
		Same	"	300 00	3 75
1825	Jan.	Ira Moody	"	100 00	1 25
	April	Elias Stillwell	"	3,700 00	50 00
	Oct.	Phebe Ann Willis	"	1,000 00	12 50
1826	Jan.	Abraham O. Stanbury	"	3,000 00	35 00
	April	Wm. G. Buckner	"	716 01	9 00
1827	Oct.	Adam Conrie	"	1,000 00	27 50
1828	April	J. L. & S. Joseph, & Co.	"	1,000 00	12 50
	Oct.	Virginia La Tour	"	422 72	5 00
1829	April	Samuel Miller	"	2,000 00	20 00
		Henry Pope	"	300 00	3 00
		Same	"	2,000 00	20 00
	July	Same	"	300 00	3 00
		Same	"	2,000 00	20 00
		Same	"	300 00	3 00
	Oct.	Francisco Alvydo	"	40,000 00	612 65
		Hernandez, Adm'r	"	10,000 00	125 00
		Same	"	500 00	6 25
		Garret Williamson	"	700 00	10 50
1837	April	John Warren	"	300 00	3 00
		Sally St. John	"	1,000 00	4 50
	Oct.	Thomas Waller	"	2,300 00	17 71
		Henry Swell	"	300 00	3 00
		Nicholas José Gutierez	"	415 79	2 94
1838	Jan.	Henry Swell	"	300 00	4 75
	April	James Cunningham	"	7,600 00	83 75
		Rev. Henry Hum	"	2,000 00	37 50
		Thomas Tompkins	"	2,000 00	25 00
1839	Jan.	John J. Mason	"	1,250 00	16 25
1840	July	Nelson D. Phillips	"	750 00	9 75
1841	Oct.	Newbet Arnold	"	1,000 00	15 00
1843	April	Thomas Harrison, in trust	"	700 00	12 25
		Alfred Smith	"	10,000 00	175 00
		Mrs. Drusia Vanlie	"	300 00	5 25
		Jas. Gilbert	"	1,000 00	12 50
	July	Thomas Gilbert	"	1,000 00	12 50
	Oct.	Same	"	1,000 00	12 50
1844	Jan.	Same	"	1,000 00	12 50
1846	April	Henry Hawley, Trustee	"	3,300 00	143 00
		Same	"	8,500 00	106 25
		Same	"	1,000 00	12 50
	Oct.	James F. Miller	"	700 00	12 25
1848	Jan.	John Wells	"	300 00	3 00
	April	Julia De Forest	"	800 00	10 00
		J. W. Hughes, Exr	"	1,000 00	12 50
		Catharine Smart	"	1,000 00	12 50
		John Wells	"	300 00	3 00
1849	Jan.	Sylvanus Bedell	"	600 00	7 50
	July	Phebe Davis	"	1,000 00	12 75
	Oct.	James McCabe	"	1,000 00	12 50
		Peter Hanley	"	1,000 00	12 50
1849	Jan.	George Dubois	"	300 00	4 25
		Andrew Kymer	"	1,000 00	12 50
	April	A. B. Rainey	"	2,500 00	31 25
		Henry Opderdenk, Jr.	"	300 00	3 00
	July	Same	"	300 00	3 00
	Oct.	D. W. Tomlinson, Trust. (Trust. from 25th Sept. 1849)	"	30,000 00	12 25
1851	July	Charles J. Prime, Jr.	"	5,000 00	62 50
	Oct.	Same	"	5,000 00	62 50
1852	Jan.	Same	"	5,000 00	62 50
	April	J. S. de Sausilhe	"	4,000 00	50 00
		Charles J. Prime, Jr.	"	5,000 00	62 50
	July	Same	"	5,000 00	62 50
	Oct.	Charles E. Graham	"	750 00	9 75
1853	April	C. A. Smith, widow	"	3,000 00	37 50
		J. R. Sayman	"	3,000 00	75 00
	July	J. M. Butler, in trust	"	200 00	2 50
1854	April	Servant Guillaume and August Devi-sme	"	5,000 00	150

APPLICETON'S [illegible] DISPENSARY.
EXPERIENCE WILL LACHES UNMARKED!
SECRETS PERTAINING TO BODY, BREAST, & PARTS.
Just published, in a sealed envelope, price 25 cents, a Treatise on Nervous Debility, Premature Decay, Impotency, Lost Manhood, Spermatorrhoea, Seminal Weakness, Impotence, Sterility, Gleet, Stricture, Gravel, Diabetes, Dropsy, Diseases of the Urinary Organs, Diseases of the Skin, Blood and Nervous Debility, Urinary Deposits, Involuntary Loss of Semen, Leucorrhoea, Affections of the Bladder and Kidneys, Gonorrhoea, Gleet, Stricture, Dyspepsia, Nervous Irritability, Dizziness, Convulsions, Pimples on the Face, Premature Decay, Lost Manhood, Impotency, Aversion to Society, Love of Solitude, Timidity, Trembling, Palpitation of the Heart

THE MURFREESBORO BATTLE.

The Events of Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The Final Defeat and Retreat of the Rebels.

Correspondence of the Cincinnati Gazette.

FIELD NEAR MURFREESBORO, Friday, Jan. 2, 1863.

In my last letter I left the contending hosts repeating on their arms after the great struggle of Wednesday, Dec. 31. There was but little alarm after the battle, and comparatively little uneasiness; each army thinking, doubtless, that its opponent was too much exhausted to care about renewing the strife.

There were places that night, indeed, where sleep came not to stop the tumult in gentle Innocent Leam. The poor soldier, whose the bullets of the enemy had not reached, could gather a few leaves, or sticks, or cornstalks for a bed, clasp his faithful rifle in his arms, and, with his blanket around him, if he were so fortunate as to possess one, could sleep soundly, notwithstanding the bitter cold. He could build no fires, for that would conspicuous position to the enemy; but so fatigued were he, that he could still slumber, although it came interrupted involuntarily in the wintry night atmosphere.

But the wounded here lying on the field or in the hospital knew no repose. Agony repelled oblivion; and to those who felt themselves maimed, crippled for life, the keen mental anguish must have been overwhelmed intensifies their physical pain. And there were those distinct sufferers, too, who lower on the rest from their dreadful labors, and toiled on all through the long morning.

On Thursday morning the sun rose in a sky without clouds; but along the eastern horizon was a broad belt of mist and fog, seen through which the great luminary looked red and bloody, as if in sympathy with the horrors of the battle-field.

It was just in daylight, when the roar of cannon recommenced with a terrible emphasis unknown the few days before. A salvo of 50 guns boomed from the gunboats on Stone River, and instantly responded to by the fierce rattle of musketry in the woods and fields, which the rebel fire pressed. Two days ago, the rebels had opened the battle with a salvo of musketry, and now they were answered by the cannon of the Union. The rebels had evidently determined to drive the Union army from the position it occupied on Wednesday night, and had ordered the attack at daybreak, and had succeeded in driving back our left wing, and had taken possession of the Nashville road, which we had occupied the night before. Our left had been driven back, and our right had been forced back to the river, and our center had been compelled to fall back to the Nashville road, which was the key to our position